Prague OK On Meeting

Accede To Showdown In Russia

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's liberal Communist leaders were reported Saturday to have acceded to a Russian call for a showdown meeting in the Soviet Union this week on the liberalization program the Prague reformers refuse to halt.

Usually reliable sources said the Czechoslovak leadership under Alexander Dubcek, the first party secretary, accepted the Soviet invitation. There was no official confirmation.

The Soviet 11-member Politburo, or ruling council, called Friday on the Czechoslovak party's 11-man presidium to meet in Moscow, Kiev or Lvov. Prague sources said the meeting will probably take place in Kiev, about 350 miles from the nearest Czechoslovak border point, on Monday or Tuesday.

In principle, this would be after the withdrawal, promised for Sunday, of the last of the Soviet troops who lingered here since Warsaw Pact maneuvers ended June 30. One tank unit was still reported within 30 miles of Prague on Saturday, however.

The acceptance represents a concession on the part of the Czechoslovaks who have repeatedly said any bilateral talks with other parties would have to take place in Czechoslovakia. It also has aspects of a risk because a few of the presidium members are thought to want to brake the liberalization drive.

There was speculation that the French Communist party chief, Waldeck Rochet, who talked with Dubcek here before returning to Paris Satufday, may have been instrumental in arranging the meeting. Waldeck Rochet visited Moscow earlier this week.

It was not known whether Dubcek won any conessions from the Soviets in return for accepting a Soviet site for the meeting. An obvious one would be a firm promise on the complete withdrawal of Soviet troops.

The Soviet Union has been using the slow pull out of the original force of 18,500 Red army men as political pressure.

Official Czechoslovak announcements reported Soviet units still in Bohemia and Moravia, more than 200 miles from the border checkpoint where they are to leave Czechoslovak territory.

Newspapers published a picture of Soviet tanks at Podebrady, about 30 miles from Prague.

In another development new details were disclosed about the discovery of a small-arms cache near the West German border.

Public Works Legislation Passes Senate Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed Saturday, 67-3, a $4.7 billion public works appropriations bill which carries funds for projects in virtually all states.

As passed by the Senate, the bill carries a price tag of $4.727 billion, $228 million above the total in the House-passed version.

The Senate bill is $181 million below budget recommendations.

There was only limited debate on the measure. The Senate rejected a proposal to put an overall spending ceiling into the measure.

The bill now will go to a Senate-House conference which will attempt to iron out differences between the two versions. The House had trimmed each water project five per cent under budget recommendations. The Senate restored virtually all of these cuts.

Voting against passage of the bill were Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and John J. Williams, -Del.

The bill would provide $2.6 billion for programs and operations of the Atomic Energy

Stream Of Criticism Aimed At Thornberry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge Homer Thornberry, the friend who followed Lyndon B. Johnson to Congress, sat quietly under a stream of criticism Saturday at a Senate hearing on his nomination to the U.S. Supreme Court.

After an hour's questioning by a Southern senator on his ruling casting out Texas' poll tax, the white-haired federal judge was told to return Monday for a second session in the hearings which may not be finished before the fall.

The Judiciary Committee is split badly over whether to take any action on President Johnson's choice of Thornberry to succeed Abe Fortas as an associate justice until the outcome is reached in the Senate battle over approval of Fortas chief justice.

Thornberry sat with his hand at his chin in tight-lipped silence as Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., assailed his 1966 appellate court ruling that pointed the way for all poll taxes to be tossed out.

As Fortas had one before him, Thornberry insisted the Constitution prevents him from commenting or being called into account on decisions off the court bench.

After once having made a ruling, Thornberry said, "I ought not to try to take back, amend, subtract, add to or anything else."

Ervin disagreed and said, "I don't think there is anything in the Constitution that gives everybody else the freedom of speech and denies the freedom of speech to a judicial nominee when he comes before a Senate committee to pass upon his appointment."

Thornberry, 59, had waited eight days to undergo questioning by the committee.

Dies Of Injuries In Car Accident

MACON, Mo. (AP) — Ronald Boegart, 21, Macon, died Saturday at the University of Missouri Medical Center at Columbia of injuries he received in a one-car accident on U.S. 36, seven miles east of Macon, Friday afternoon.

The Highway Patrol said he was one of three passengers in a auto driven by Douglass Sheets, 24, Macon, when it ran off the road and overturned. All four were taken to a Macon hospital and Boegart was later transferred.

Hearings Impress Fortas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas says the hearings on his nomination to be chief justice "have impressed upon me anew the acute interest and concern that exist with respect to the work of this court."

In a letter to Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Fortas suggested possible steps to improve public information about the understanding of the court's decisions.

The letter, made public by Eastland Saturday, was in response to a request that Fortas elaborate on his testimony that, if confirmed as chief justice, he would explore with other justices how to keep the public better informed about the court's work.

"There are many difficulties in the way of working out specific improvements," Fortas wrote, "but as public interest in the court's decisions has increased, the need for finding some solutions to these problems seems to me to have increased."

Although Fortas did not refer to it, some senators have noted that a recent poll showed public confidence in the court to be at a low ebb.

Fortas' first suggestion was that efforts be made to find some way to help newsmen covering the court so that "the stories that appear in the press would be more informative—particularly in the sense that they could more adequately convey to the public the substance and tenor of the court's opinions."

He noted the court a few years ago began releasing its decisions on any day in a week, instead of putting them all out on Mondays, and he said this helped to some extent in relieving "the tremendous burden" on the press.

Survey Team In Area For Sentinel Project

A "community survey" team from the Boeing Co., is in Sedalia, preparing a profile of the city in connection with the possible selection of this area for a Sentinel anti-missile installation.

Headed by Robert H. Hahn, the three-man team has been interviewing business leaders and other persons regarding a variety of community features, including housing, schools, medical facilities, recreational outlets, labor force, utilities and transportation.

Hahn said the survey was standard procedure when a community is being considered for a defense installation such as Sentinel. He added that so far he has found Sedalians to be cooperative and receptive.

If this area is selected for a Sentinel installation, work would be done in three phases, Hahn said. The first two phases, construction and installation, would involve primarily area workers, and would be followed by the operational phase in which military personnel would be stationed in the area.

Five sites are under consideration in Central Missouri — Green Ridge, Warrensburg, Sweet Springs, Odessa and Blairstown. The number of civilian and military personnel expected to be stationed at the sites is estimated at between 400 and 700.

Hahn pointed out that, with preliminary surveying still going on, it would be a matter of years before an influx of semi-permanent personnel would begin. The construction phase alone would take 12 to 24 months.

The Sentinel anti-ballistic missile system is an Army project designed to intercept and destroy incoming enemy ballistic missiles. The so-called "thin" system, of which this area might be a part, is designed to counter a potential Red Chinese threat, and is not a defense against a Russian attack.

Missouri Man Drowns When Boat Overturns

PARSONS, Kan. (AP) — A Missouri man drowned Saturday after a boat overturned on the Neosho River 15 miles northeast of Parsons.

The victim was John Earl Tomlinson, 28, of Carl Junction, Mo.

A companion, Don Holloway of West Fork, Ark., reached Tomlinson in the water but couldn't hold on to him. Holloway made his way to safety.

The body was recovered three hours later.

Find Cause Of Fire

FUKUSHIMA, Japan (AP) — The origin of fire that destroyed a silkworm hut here last month was a mystery until a special investigating team looked in and concluded: "The fire broke out when raindrops settled on vinyl sheets used as a roof of the hut, functioned as a lens and set straw sheets inside afire by focusing sunlight."

Humphrey, McCarthy Will Debate On TV

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination, agreed Saturday to a nationwide television confrontation.

McCarthy, campaigning in Nashville, Tenn., promptly accepted an offer from the Columbia Broadcasting System for "an hour-long, prime-time, face-to-face, TV and radio discussion on Vietnam and other issues."

The American Broadcasting Co. also made an offer Saturday to McCarthy and Humphrey to join in a special, hour-long edition of its public affairs program "Issues and Answers."

Humphrey mentioned no network and ABC said it had not heard from either candidate.

A Humphrey aide, acknowledging that the vice president had received the bids, said Humphrey would like to participate in a television "discussion" with McCarthy the week before the Democratic National Convention.

The aide, in Washington, said details would have to be worked out with McCarthy.

Both networks said they were issuing the invitations—the second extended by ABC—because of an apparent reversal in Humphrey's position against such a debate.

McCarthy and the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy held the first TV meeting of presidential candidates of either party on "Issues and Answers" prior to the California primary.

In a telegram to the candidates, CBS News President Richard Salant suggested either Sunday July 21 or Sunday July 28 at 9 p.m. EDT as a possible time. He said the show would have one moderator, CBS News correspondent Walter Cronkhite.

Salant said he was making the invitation "in line with published statements today that both candidates might be agreeable to such a public discussion before the Democratic national convention."

Elmer Lower, president of ABC News, said he was reissuing the invitation because of a statement by Humphrey indicating he might welcome such a discussion. Previously, McCarthy had accepted the invitation and Humphrey had not.

Lower noted that in an interview with the Washington Post, Humphrey had commented on a McCarthy proposal for a joint discussion of American policy in Vietnam and said, "It may be desirable to have such a discussion before the convention."

Rift With Egypt Seen In Iraq

BAGHDAD (AP) — The men who took over Iraq in a bloodless military coup last week have cracked down on followers here of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, excluding them from the government and throwing many of them in jail.

This is an early sign that the overthrow of President Abdul Rahman Aref Wednesday may put a heavy strain on relations between countries of the Arab world and perhaps herald further political upheavals.

In his first policy statement since what is being called here the "white revolution," premier Abdul Razzak el Naef made no mention of socialism, required dogma for Arab revolutionaries of Nasser's ilk.

Iraq's new head of state is former Gen. Ahmad Hassan el Bakr, a right-wing Baath Socialist, but Naef, who masterminded the coup, seems likely to emerge as the country's real ruler.

The inclusion of several other right-wing Baathists in his 26-man Cabinet almost certainly will cause concern in neighboring Syria.

A rival, more extremist faction of the Baath party rules in Damascus and the two groups are bitter enemies.

Both Syria and Egypt have displayed a pointed reserve toward the new Iraqi regime.

Spearheading the coup were a group of relatively junior officers, led by Naef, calling themselves the Arab Revolutionary Movement. Political moderates, they claim to have been disillusioned by the "corruption" that riddled Aref's administration.

They have given notice they will pursue independent policies and likened the deposed Aref, a slavish follower of Nasser, to a "dog's tail."

The young officers demand also that responsibility for the Arab defeat by Israel in last year's six-day war be clearly determined.

Without saying so in as many words, they make clear they believe Nasser was among those to blame.

Irag is unlikely to change its tough line on Israel and in view of continued Israeli occupation of Arab territory such a move would likely be fatal to any regime.

Cong Believed In Massive Buildup

SAIGON (AP) — U. S. infantrymen clashed with a large enemy force late Saturday on an old battlefield north of Saigon and artillery and helicopter gunships were called in to help the Americans.

Officers reported that a company of the 1st Infantry Division made "sharp contact" with the enemy and came under heavy small arms and mortar fire. There was no word on casualties.

The fighting broke out near Song Be, 70 miles north of the capital and just south of the Cambodian border where strong enemy forces mounted a series of large-scale attacks on the central highlands last fall. It was only 25 miles east of Loc Ninh, where troopers of the U. S. 11th Armored Cavalry Division killed 39 enemy in fighting Thursday and Friday.

Although there were no details of the Song Be action, some U.S. sources speculated that enemy forces moving from Cambodia are again building up in the area.

No other ground actions were reported Saturday.

On Friday, government troops rescued 39 manacled captives who had been chained to stakes by the Viet Cong. The guerrillas were scared away by U.S. B52 bombers, who pounded the Viet Cong positions in the Mekong

Describes Ray As Optimistic

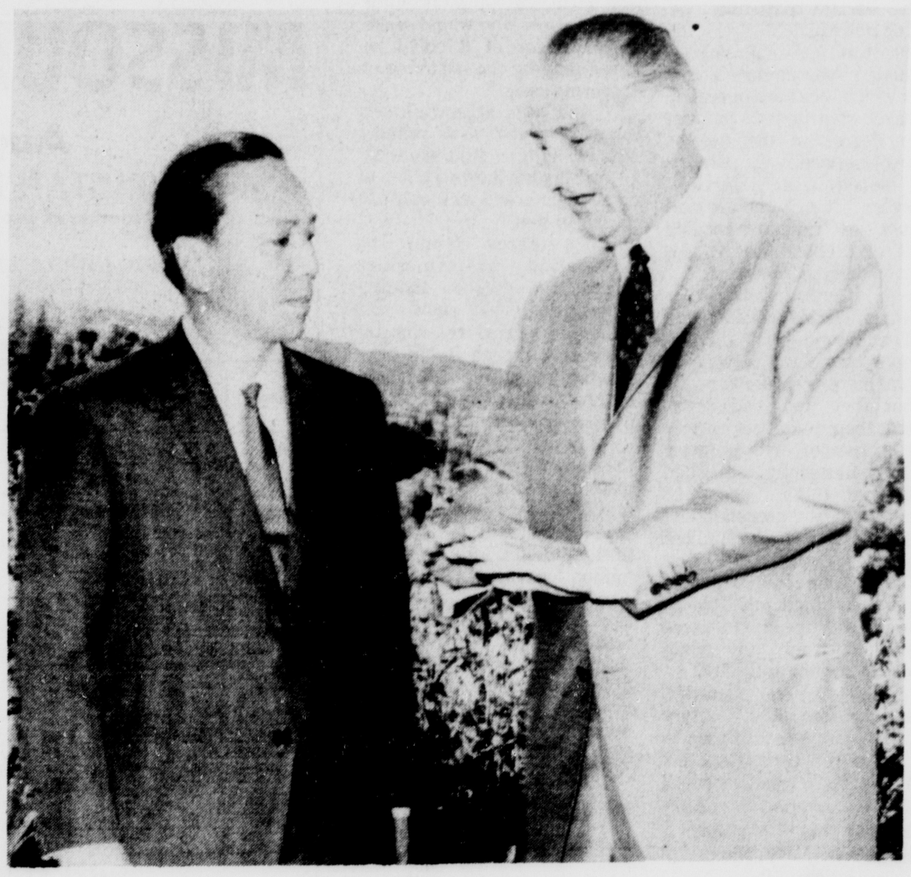

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray, accused assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., was described by his lawyer Saturday as being "in a good" frame of mind and optimistic."

Arthur Hanes, his lawyer from Birmingham, Ala., spent two hours and eight minutes in Ray's steel-lined cell on the third floor of the Shelby County Jail discussing preliminary arrangements for Ray's murder trial.

He declined to go into what was discussed, saying only that the private session "opened up a broad spectrum." He said no arraignment date has been set.

Before going into the closely guarded, air-conditioned cellblock, Hanes met with Sheriff William N. Morris Jr. and Dist. Atty. Gen. Phil Canale to dis-

Total Fighting Halt Not Objective Of Leaders

HONOLULU (AP) — President Johnson and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam sought Saturday to put pressure on North Vietnam to halt all fighting as a prelude to final settlement of the war. At the same time they said Hanoi seems to be preparing renewed offensive action.

In a communique climaxing a brief summit meeting, the two presidents concluded North Vietnam has yet to respond constructively to the geographical bombing restrictions which Johnson ordered March 31 and which were followed by the opening of preliminary talks in Paris.

Shortly after the communique was issued, Johnson told reporters "There were no great differences that appeared" in the talks.

Johnson, summing up the conference in his own words, emphasized that it "was not very exciting" in the sense that there was no significant friction or conflict among the participants.

China In Plastics

TOKYO (AP) — Peking's New China News Agency reported Red China's plastics industry, which started in 1958, overfulfilled state production quotas in the first half of 1968, producing 6,250 tons of vinyl, or 50 per cent more than the output for January-through-June last year. "China now produces plastics for daily use, agriculture, industry, communications, national defense and other fields," NCNA said in a broadcast picked up here.

The U.S. President used strong language to knock down any idea that he and Thieu had taken up such potentially important policy matters as a total halt in the bombing of North Vietnam or "a pullout."

He called these rumors and described them as "just pure, absolute tommyrot and fiction."

He said such subjects did not figure in any of the discussions

The joint statement said Hanoi appears to be pursuing a policy of fighting while negotiating at Paris and continues to build up forces in the South but despite this they said they see no alternatives to pressing ahead for realistic discussions

The statement said:

They stressed a full role for South Vietnam in any final settlement.

Say Railroads Contribute to Own

WASHINGTON (AP) — It took only 44 minutes and cost 90 cents to travel the 44 miles between Boston, Mass., and Providence, R.I., in 1936 on what the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad billed as "The Comet-Streamlined train of the present and the future."

Today, in an era of jet planes and super expressways, the same train trip — same number of stops — takes five minutes longer and costs $2.37 on the bankrupt New Haven.

Just 19 years ago a traveler between Washington, D.C., and Chicago could choose among 17 trains daily — eight on the Baltimore and Ohio, nine on the Pennsylvania Railroad. And he could remain aboard the same sleeping car and travel on to Los Angeles.

Today, there are only four direct trains between Washington and Chicago and it is necessary to change trains, and sometimes stations, to travel west of Chicago.

There is little doubt — even among those outside the industry who seek continued and better train service — that such declines as these have intensified in number, especially during the past 10 years as passengers have left the railroads, lured by the speed of the jetliner and the convenience of the private automobile.

In the past decade alone, the Interstate Commerce Commission has permitted the railroads to discontinue nearly 1,000 passenger trains — and more are leaving the rails almost weekly. There are fewer than 600 trains a day now compared with more than 20,000 in 1929.

The railroads say passenger service deficits are draining resources they badly need to modernize for more efficient freight handling. They claim to have lost $484 million last year alone operating passenger trains — but this is a highly debatable figure, and not even railraod management contends it could cut costs by this amount if it eliminated all passenger trains tomorrow.

At least one ICC examiner, an organization of railroad passengers, and several congressmen blame railroad management for not only failing to encourage, but actually working to discourage passenger traffic.

But says Stuart T. Saunders, outspoken chairman of the Pennsylvania New York Central Transportation Co. — the nation's largest passenger — carrying railroad.

"I don't think the railroads — considering the circumstances under which they have operated — have contributed in any major degree to the loss of passenger service."

He added in an interview, however: "There's the greatest amount of misunderstanding about this problem. Everyone is trying to draw extremes."

Penn Central claims a passenger service loss last year of $85 million.

Pennsylvanie and New York Central merged earlier this year — but they, too, had downgraded their passenger service prior to merger, with a device railraods frequently use called "consolidation."

The Pennsy "consolidated" its famed Broadway Limited with the General — thus eliminating one round trip daily between New York and Chicago without the need to seek permission from any state regulatory agency or the ICC.

The New York Central's equally famous 20th Century Limited — for which it used to roll out a red carpet at New York City's Grand Central Terminal — was combined with another train and the name was eliminated altogether.

In the same field, the ICC launched — for the first time — an investigation into the practices of the Southern Pacific Co. to determine whether a railroad was providing adequate passenger service. The investigation was started at the request of several Southwestern state utility agencies.

For many years, SP had heavily advertised some of its best Western trains. Several years ago it began a program to eliminate its unprofitable passenger service. It stopped giving commissions to travel agents and — so the utility agencies claimed — made it difficult to secure reservations even though there was plenty of room aboard.

Specifically, the ICC investigated what used to be called the Sunset Limited — now, simply the Sunset — the only remaining passenger train between New Orleans and Los Angeles.

In 1950 Southern Pacific bought $16 million worth of new equipment for the Sunset. Each train featured four coaches with nonfogging picture windows and AM-FM radios, six sleeping cars with shower facilities, a lounge car, coffee shop, lounge car, dining car and such services as a valet for pressing and minor tailoring.

In recent years the railroad has eliminated the sleeping cars on the 2,033-mile, 45¼-hour route, and installed food vending machines. The train is down to three coaches and an automat car and SP wants to end the service entirely.

ICC Examiner John Messer decided that the railroad had violated the Interstate Commerce Act by failing to provide transportation on reasonable request and by making charges for services not provided.

The charge to which he referred is $3.50 added to the fare on the Sunset — a special charge levied in the days when the Sunset was a luxury streamliner. The railraod says it retain the charge because it didn't want to raise the basic fare.

SP, Penn Central and virtually every other railroad would contend that this service was downgraded only after passengers had deserted the trains — and that as SP said, "the market for first class service on the Sunset route has been shrinking for years, until today the few who would make occasional use of it could be served only by the incurring of staggering losses."

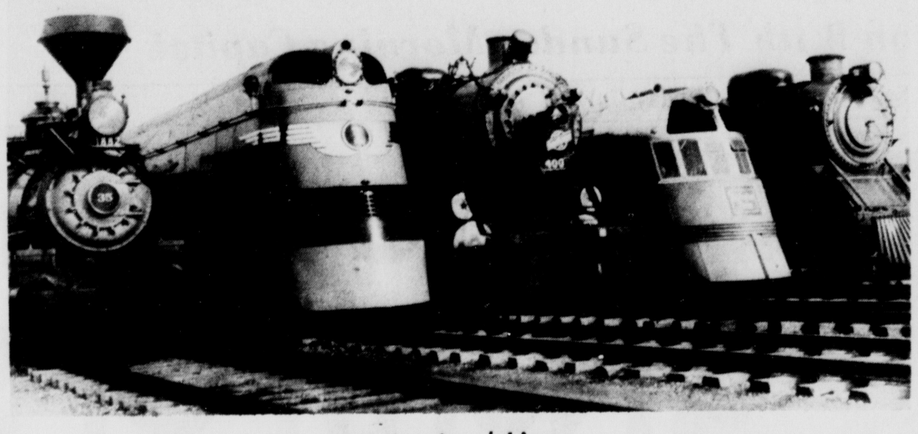

SP and most other railroads contend trains are running virtually empty. And some SP advertising has shown a photo of a passenger coach with only one passenger in it.

But figures from the Association of American Railraods — the industry organization — show rail passenger service remains big business, although it has been steadily shrinking and the railraods' share of inter-city passengers has been declining.

Last year, AAR figures show, the railraods carried 299 million passengers — and more than 106 million rode distances greater than just commuting. They paid $494 million, and nearly 95 million passengers rode in coaches and 3.3 million in over-age sleeping cars. Pullman-Standard Inc. hasn't built a sleeper since 1956.

This, of course, is nowhere near the peak of more than 910 million passengers carried in 1944 when revenues approached $1.8 billion.

How much of a market remains for passengers on the trains? Both ICC Chairman Paul J. Tierney and the administrator of the Federal Railroad Administration, A. Scheffer Lang, share the prevailing industry view: If there is a market, it is for commuting and distances less than 500 miles.

Historical Line

In their days, these were the fastest trains to cross the nation: left - right, the wood-burning B & O Railroad's old-fashioned engine; the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Line's "Hiawatha;" the Northwestern's "400;" Burlington's "Zephyr;" and the "Abraham Lincoln" of the Alton Line, all together for a midsummer picture in 1935, when railroading was big business. (AP)

Lang said in an interview that the "long-distance passenger train today is a sheer and total anachronism." Tierney said long-haul passenger trains "except for certain tourist routes and perhaps some overnight service between major cities cannot rationally be preserved."

Messer recommended the ICC set minimum standards for the operation of passenger trains, requiring sleeping and dining facilities on trains, depending on the length of the trip.

He would also have the ICC set up a national rail passenger system to guarantee continued operation of passenger trains between major urban centers.

For the past 10 years the ICC has been able to do little more than preside over the demise of passenger service. It has faithfully — in accordance with law — held public hearings, noted thousands of protests, written reports and generally concluded by agreeing with the railraods.

In report after report the ICC quotes passengers at public hearings as complaining of dirty trains, lateness resulting in missed connections and other unhappy — but these same passengers urged the commission to order continued operation of the trains.

Most recently, the ICC urged Congress to investigate the problem of passenger service. In a 66-page report the commission said it is limited under present law to allowing railroads to cut passenger service — not to promoting or fostering it.

The ICC urged also a moratorium on some train discontinuances while the study is in progress — "to preserve a minimum level of service" — and asked the Post Office to put the mail back on the trains to support the passenger service financially.

The commission — in some of its toughest language — told Congress it has seen its recommendations continually ignored, and blamed the lawmakers for not coming up with a rational policy on national rail transportation.

There are those, however, who believe there still is a market for long-distance passenger trains. Among them: Anthony Haswell, a Chicago lawyer, and Edd H. Bailey, president of the Union Pacific.

Haswell is executive director, founder and principal financial supporter of the National Association of Railroad Passengers — only organized opposition to wholesale discontinuance of passenger trains.

His long-term goals include a government-supported national passenger car pool to maintain equipment and make it available to railroads; restructuring present service to concentrate trains on tourist and vacation travel routes; centralized computerized reservation system and a national promotional campaign.

Haswell's organization claims 2,278 members and he says many are not rail buffs.

Bailey says the UP has "never said we wanted to get out of the passenger business. We are going to operate them in hopes the public will use them."

He placed some blame on the railroads for the loss of passengers, conceding "we have been a little slow with the necessary research to come up with something fantastic so that we could retain passengers."

Although the railroads invested about $500 million after World War II to replace wornout equipment, the newer cars provided few completely new services. Speeds remained the same: 80-82 miles an hour, although some Western raods operate trains as fast as 90 if they are running late.

Bailey believes it would have been too expensive and economically unjustified to have tried to operate trains at sustained speeds of 115-125 miles an hour along the UP and other Western railraods.

Virtually unpublicized is the fact that some railraods make a profit on at least some of their passenger service. Most are reluctant to give figures — or even admit to a profit. And some profit claims are based on so-called over-the-rail basic — actual expenses of running the train — rather than the 60-year-old ICC formula which apportions part of all railroad expenses to passenger service. Here are some of the claimed money-makers:

— Penn-Central claims a small profit on its heavily-traveled New York-Washington, D.C., passenger trains, although it loses on this route when it includes trains it operates for other railroads.

— Seaboard Coast Line makes a profit on its New York-Florida streamliners, including the Florida Special which features champagne at dinner, bingo games and songfests, movies, television, fashion shows and a train hostess on the 1,438-mile trip.

— The New Haven turns a profit on dining cars: $113,425 last year, the result of more than $1 million from beverage sales, mostly from commuter train bars. The Alaska Railroad, federally owned, apparently profits on dining service because it is operated by private firms which bid for the job.

— The Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad netted a $46,000 profit last year hauling tourists along cliffs and through canyons on its 44.8-mile narrow gauge line between Durango and Silverton in southwestern Colorado.

— The Chicago & North Western made $2.5 million in 1967 on its Chicago area commuter service and has neither sought nor received government aid.

Women's Democratic Club Holds Installation Meet

Gavel of Office

Mrs. Dorothy Blaine newly installed president of PCWDC receiv the gavel of office from past president, Mrs. Opal Hugelman.

Forty six members and five guests were present at the July 16 installations meeting of the Pettis County Women's Democratic Club held at the Missouri State Bank.

Mrs. Dorothy Blaine directed the pledge of allegiance to the flag and Mrs. E. J., Williams followed with the invocation.

President Opal Hugelman stated the club had realized several financial demands in 1968, a campaign year. Customarily, funds are sent to the national campaign as well as to city and county campaigns.

Guest speaker, Mrs. Zola King, Independence, state president of the organization, described the Missouri Federation of Women's Democratic Club's convention to be held Oct. 6 and 7 in Kansas City. Mrs. Jewel Johnston, fourth district president, also spoke briefly.

Mrs. Zola King was given the honor of installing the new slate of officers. They are: Mrs. Dorothy Blaine, president; Mrs. Daisy Parker, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Mayne McGirk, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Dorothy Barr, 3rd vice-president; Mrs. Joyce Fischer, treasurer; Mrs. Dorothy Rossman, secretary and Mrs. Laura Riley, auditor.

Following installation Daisy Parker presented past president, Opal Hugelman with a gift from her officers. Members and guests gave Mrs. Hugelman a standing ovation for a job well done during her tenure of office.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served from a table patriotically decorated in red, white and blue. A miniature donkey carrying two American flags centered the table. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Dorothy Rossman, Mrs. Daisy Parker, Mrs. Dottie Blaine, Mrs. Mayne McGirk and Mrs. Opal Hugelman.

Receives Extension From Gasoline Firm

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — East St. Louis got a credit extension Wednesday from the Mobil Oil Co., which had threatened to sell no more gasoline for city vehicles until a five-month old bill was paid.

The firm told the city it would extend credit until Aug. 1, and the city told Mobil that it could now pay $4,000 on the $16,000 bill, the funds coming from trash collection fees.

The financially beleagured city had to issue wage consignments redeemable at local banks last week because of a $60,000 payroll shortage. East St. Louis has operated in the red since 1951.

Gets Large Nugget

MOSCOW (AP) — Yevgeny Shelenkov, a miner at one of the Kolyma River gold fields in the Soviet Far Northeast, discovered a nugget weighing 83 troy ounces, the year's biggest find, the Tass news agency reported.

Accidents

A two-car accident occurred at Broadway and Grand at 11:16 p.m. Thursday.

Involved were a 1956 Dodge, driven west on Broadway by Lloyd L. Horner, 17, 1521 West Main, and a 1955 Chevrolet, driven west on Broadway by David L. Weikal, 17, 620 North Quincy.

Damage was to the left front of the Dodge and the right rear of the Chevrolet.

A two-car accident occurred at 16th and Limit at 5:13 p.m. Friday.

Involved were a 1964 Ford, driven north on Limit by Robert L. Hagerman, 19, 620 West Second, and a 1964 Ford, driven north on Limit by Edgar Boyd Beyer, 49, 650 East 15th.

Damage was to the front of the Hagerman auto and the rear of Beyer's auto.

Salley Lockett, 14, 903 South Grand, sustained apparently minor injuries about 3:16 p.m. Friday when she was struck by a Yellow Cab driven by Ralph G. White, Jr., 31, 213 East Second, at the intersection of Broadway and Harrison.

According to the police report, White stated that he was headed west on Broadway when he turned south on Harrison, saw the girl, but could not get his car stopped in time. Miss Lockett was crossing Harrison, headed west on Broadway, according to the report.

Miss Lockett was taken to Bothwell Hospital by the Sedalia Ambulance Service and treated by Dr. Joseph Maunders for abrasions to her left leg, ankle and foot, and an injury to her left ear. She was admitted to the hospital for further observation.

White was issued a police summons for careless and imprudent driving.

David Weddle, 14, Independence, suffered apparently minor injuries about 9:27 p.m. Friday when he fell out of the back of a 1946 Chevrolet pickup truck, driven north on Thompson Boulevard by Daniel Melton, 16, Lincoln.

Weddle was taken to Bothwell Hospital by the Sedalia Ambulance Service where he was treated for bruises and abrasions and admitted for further observation.

Melton told police that he saw the barricade on Thompson Boulevard and turned to the left sharply to avoid striking it, throwing Weddle out of the back of the truck.

Three persons sustained apparently minor injuries in a two-car accident at Ninth and Barrett at 10:54 a.m. Saturday.

Involved were a 1960 Mercury, driven east on Ninth by Troy Lee Gardner, 41, Prairie Home, and a 1962 Dodge, driven south on Barrett by Almeda Jane Menefee, 29, 1501 West Fourth.

Taken to Bothwell Hospital by the Sedalia Ambulance Service were Steven Menefee, 5, Danny Menefee, 4, and Tina Menefee, 3, all passengers in their mother's auto. They were treated at the hospital by Dr. Donald Proctor for bruises and abrasions and released.

The front of the Mercury and the right side of the Dodge were damaged in the accident. The Dodge was towed from the scene by Bacon's wrecker.

Circuit Court

William Henry Vinson, Jr. was granted a divorce on a cross bill from Dorothy Louise Vinson in Circuit Court Friday. George H. Miller was the attorney for Henry Vinson.

Delta before South Vietnamese infantrymen charged into an open field to free the prisoners.

Spokesmen said 20 other prisoners were unaccounted for and presumably were taken along by the fleeing Viet Cong. The civilian captives included 13 women and 26 men and teen-age boys who had been held by the Viet Cong for periods ranging from two months to two years.

The South Vietnamese infantrymen reported killing six of the enemy, capturing nine suspects and seizing 10 rifles, 200 sticks of TNT and 250 mortar and antitank rocket shells. Government casualties were three wounded.

Nine miles north of the ambush site, other government troops reported killing 29 guerrillas in two days of scattered fighting. Three government soldiers were killed and 28 were wounded in the engagements.

U.S. Marines patrolling along the demilitarized zone reported capturing two enemy 775mm howitzers in a position to threaten a vital supply road and the Marine artillery base at Camp Carroll. It was the first time the Americans had seized artillery pieces in the DMZ area.

Leathernecks also reported finding the bodies of 40 enemy soldiers apparently killed by air strikes or artillery along the eastern flank of the DMZ.

South Vietnamese troops repelled small enemy ground probes against a district headquarters south of Da Nang and reported killing nine Viet Cong. Four civilians were wounded, 30 homes were burned and South Vietnamese casualties were termed light when enemy gunners fired 50 mortar rounds and 140mm rockets into the compound.

Saigon was quiet Saturday as the capital observed Shame Day, the anniversary of the 1954 Geneva agreement which split North and South Vietnam. Intelligence reports that the enemy planned terrorist attacks and rocket barrages to coincide with the anniversary proved unfounded.

Twelve Vietnamese civilians were wounded by a grenade thrown in a downtown street, but police said it was thrown by disputing members of a spliter Buddhist group and there was

THE QUESTION regards a squirrel. Is it a grey one so frightened by the traffic at Third and Grand it turned white or is it an albino? Whether or not, this small animal is a familiar figure in the west part of Sedalia. It has been seen around Second and Grand and in the 1000 block on West Fourth, but recently it made its first visit around Third and Grand. The picture was taken by Joe Ryan, 308 South Grand, a well known hunter and fisherman who said it was the first white squirrel he had ever seen. Others who have seen it say it is quite tame.

SUNDAY'S WEATHER FORECAST

VIA U.S. WEATHER BUREAU—ESSA

During Sunday, scattered thundershowers are forecast from the southern plateaus northeastward to the mid-Mississippi Valley and into the Great Lakes region. Thunderstorms are also likely to develop in the Gulf coast, from Texas to Florida. Clear to partly cloudy skies should prevail elsewhere. A cooling trend will be noted from the upper Great Lakes, southwest toward to the north and central Great Plains and into the Rockies. Warmer weather is slated for the lower Great Lakes, the mid-Mississippi Valley and the Ohio Valley. Minimum temperature forecast includes: Atlanta 88; Boston 81; Chicago 90; Cleveland 85; Denver 85; Duluth 78; Ft. Worth 95; Jacksonville 93; Little Rock 92; Los Angeles 85; Miami 88; New York 85; Phoenix 100; San Francisco 75; Seattle 72; St. Louis 94; and Washington 87.

Commission; $1.2 billion for Army Engineers to use in flood control, navigation and power projects; $274 million for the Reclamation Bureau's irrigation projects; $53.2 million for the Tennessee Valley Authority; $15 million for military cemeteries; $39.93 million for the Panama Canal government; $1 million for the Alaska Power Administration, $123.5 million for the Bonneville Power Administration; $850,000 for the Southeastern Power Administration; $9.57 million for the Southwestern Power Administration; $326.43 million for the Water Pollution Control Administration and $3.75 million for the Water Resources Council.

Included in the AEC appropriation is $20 million for the new 200 BEV accelerator to be built at Weston, Ill. The House had approved only $7.1 million for this project.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., tried vainly to persuade the Senate to restore an economy section of the bill which the House inserted but which the Senate committee knocked out.

This was a section which would have limited spending under the bill to a total of $4.4 billion, even though the actual appropriations in the measure add to $4.7 billion. The Senate sustained its committee 51-21.

Projects of interest to Missouri and Kansas, with Senate figures first, followed by House figures include:

cuss "the general ground rules for the trial. They afforded me every courtesy," Hanes said.

Hanes' visit with Ray inside the jail surrounded by shotgun-toting deputies was the first he had had since his client was turned over to U.S. authorities in London and flown back to the United States.

He said he was "perfectly satisfied with the accommodations and the system set up" to guard Ray. "My client is satisfied."

The only photograph released of Ray since his return was taken by the sheriff's department and showed Ray handcuffed and wearing a bullet-proof vest.

Asked whether he would prefer some pictures showing Ray in a different light, Hanes answered:

"As times goes on, perhaps tomorrow, we will discuss this more thoroughly and see what we can do about it."

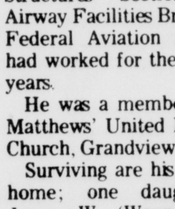

Hanes declined comment on whether his client was named James Earl Ray. He had given the name Raymon George Sneyd when arrested in London June 8.

And he said he thought his client could get "as fair a trial in Memphis as anywhere. I have great faith in the American system of justice."

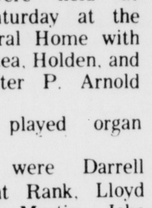

Hanes said he could not estimate how long it would be before he was ready for trial: "These things can't take place immediately." He said it would depend on information given him by Ray and on witnesses.

Hanes also said he did not believe the ground rules laid down by the judge would hamper his case.

Hanes last saw Ray in Wandsworth Prison in London. Shortly before Ray was turned over to U.S authorities for his secret and security-shrouded flight back to face the murder charge.

WHAT IS HISTOPLASMOSIS?

It is a fungus infection of the lungs contracted by breathing contaminated dust. It is more likely to be found in rural areas than in urban, since this fungus affects animals also. It tends to be a comparatively mild, but chronic, sickness. Most cases offer no serious problem.

Its danger is that it can be confused with tuberculosis and some people having it are afraid to go to a physician fearing a tuberculosis diagnosis. Never have any fear when visiting a physician. The least he can do is to help you live longer and more comfortably.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine and we will gladly deliver it without charge. If you prefer you may pick it up at our drive up window. We keep accurate records for tax and insurance purposes. We carefully fill welfare prescriptions and deliver or mail free of charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. Question Can I plan my estate to avoid the red tape Mrs. R_____went through when her husband passed away?

Answer Estate planning is a complicated and exacting science. Everyone who owns anything - a car, house, bank deposit, credit union shares, insurance, business interest, retirement benefits, etc. - has an estate. This estate, regardless of size, represents the most important money in the world to those left behind. The care, maintenance and conservation of this estate is not simply desirable but absolutely essential.

As you would not treat a member of your family for a serious illness, do not attempt to be a "do it yourself" estate planner. Contact your attorney or the Trust Officer of your bank. These men can be among the most important people in your life.

NY Ghettoes Target for Stars

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — East Side, West Side and all over town, Broadway in the Streets is helping cool the long, hot summer.

Taking part in the glamour-to-the-ghettoes program are such headliners as Joel Grey, Diana Sands, Tony Martin, Shelley Winters, Dave Brubeck, Butterfly McQueen, Herschel Bernardi and Nancy Dussault.

Also some maybe-stars of tomorrow like Dino and the Dinosaurs and Teetsie's African Dancers. The mixture is a deliberate one of expert and novice.

Their audiences gawk from tenement windows, skeptically gather on the sidewalk as the gaily bedecked mobile stage comes down the block.

"They may not know why we turn up," says Peg Murray, "but at the end of the afternoon, they know somebody did give a damn and didn't just sit talking urban relief in an air-conditioned office."

Each weekend from now through September, two of those neighborhoods that tourists never see and where interracial tension can explode at the click of a switchblade are visited by Broadway in the Streets.

Thirty-two programs are delivered on an everybody-works-for free bases.

The new show biz venture was set up by the Urban Action Task Force, an agency created by Mayor John V. Lindsay to devise sundry safety valves for civic stresses. Several acting troupes also give free performances of plays around the city, but this is the lone enterprise sponsored by municipal authority.

"When I ask an entertainer to enlist," Miss Murray declares, "I just say, 'You do want the summer to go well, don't you?' After all, we all live here."

Emphasis is on turning each show into a cooperative enterprise that integrates local hopefuls with visiting stars. Auditions are regularly held for tyro rock-beat bands or whatever.

In many areas, the variety shows uses two emcees—one speaking English, the other Spanish.

To activate the venture a lot of red tape had to be unsnarled.

Actors Equity, after two years of deliberation, agreed to let stars and featured performers participate on a volunteer basis.

When Joel Grey, of "George M!," joined up, 16 other members of the musical went along. In addition to stage talents, a number of TV, night club and recording attractions are also appearing—Gene Rayburn, Sonny Fox, Ed McMahon, Norm Cosby, Anthony and the Imperials.

Miss Murray herself is a busy member of the cast of "Cabaret," in which she won a Tony medallion as a Berlin tart and in which she has also subbed 100 times for Lotte Lenya.

The Denver, Colo., brunette explains thus her abandonment of free time to organize talent and map huge schedule charts for Broadway in the Streets:

"I know from the theater that if you're in a lousy dressing room, you're ready to burn the place down yourself. But if someone comes around and says, 'I know the place stinks, things are bad, but we're trying to fix it,' you feel a little better.

"If we turn our backs on the ghettoes, no wonder the people want to burn things down.

"The streets where we play are terrible, terrible—in one place we had to call the sanitation department to clean enough so we could get the show up—but it's good too for us to know such things.

"Sometimes I look around at the people watching and the way they look you know it is doing some good. I get gooseflesh."

Confronting the Kid

Joy, the Clown, part of the Joy and Jill Clown team, confronts a youngster on the streets of New York City as part of an overall effort to bring entertainment into potential trouble spots and ward off turbulence in the upcoming summer heat. (AP)

BUSINESS NEWS

Katz Drug Co. achieved new highs in both volume and earnings for the six months ended June 30. Volume for the period was $41,248,480, compared to $32,720,580, an increase of 26.06 per cent over the six month period ended June 30, 1967. Unaudited consolidated earnings before taxes were $1,214,631, compared to $919,774. Earnings after taxes were $587,975, or 63 cents per share, compared to $455,445, or 50 cents per share for the same period in 1967, an increase of 26 per cent. The earnings of 63 cents per share in 1968 are after provision for all taxes, including the 10 per cent surcharge on federal income taxes, which reduced earnings from 70 cents per share, to 63 cents.

The above results include the Crank stores, acquired on September 24, 1967.

Frank C. Dowdy, 2504 West 11th, recently completed a special school for business machine servicing conducted by the Victor Comptometer Corp., Chicago. Dowdy is with the Sedalia Typewriter Company, 506 South Ohio.

Held in connection with the grand opening of Midwest Auto Store and the Gold Bond redemption center, Gold Bond Stamparade winners from Home Lumber Company were: Mrs. Oliver Lackman, 301 North Emmett; Everett Wasson, 123 East Saline; Ruby M. Casto, 2420 Poplar.

Winners from Mr. John's Salon: Viola Dedrick, Jerry Newby, Mrs. Larry W. Marcum, Mrs. Andrew J. Wolf, Jr., and Judy Bear.

Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington has borne the funeral processions of six Presidents.

Labor Day

Labor Day is celebrated on May 1 in nearly every industrial country except the United States and Canada, where it is observed on the first Monday in September. It was officially declared a legal holiday in the United States by an act of Congress on June 28, 1894.

More Vietnamese Women Have Active War Roles

Learning the Right Way

WACs of the South Vietnamese army listen attentively while an ARVN instructor demonstrates the basics of rifle drill. This is part of their three-week basic training at the Bguyen Van Thoa center in Saigon's Chinese section of Cholon. (AP)

SAIGON (AP) — The petite Vietnamese girl doesn't look quite so graceful wearing green fatigues and a baseball type cap in place of the traditional long, flowing ao-dai.

And it's a bit difficult to still be feminine when taking apart a carbine or doing close-order drill.

The way the war is going, however, she may be more a sign of the times than the others in their ao-dai or miniskirt.

The girl in green is a member of the South Vietnamese Women's Army Corps—WAC—one of about 4,000 female soldiers in this country. Because they are serving in useful, needed roles, it is hoped the total can be boosted to 9,000.

Women in military roles is nothing new for Vietnam. Tales of women warriors are scattered through Vietnamese history. The first organized women's army group here was started in 1952 during the Indochina war and was called "personnel feminin auxiliaire des troupes," or PFAT. Many of those who served in the PFAT now are officers in the WAC. The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese also have their share of women soldiers.

Girls who join the WAC—the age limits are 17 to 30—first must undergo three weeks of basic training at the Nguyen Van Thoa center in Cholon, the Chinese sector of Saigon. Life there is not easy.

Reveille is at 5 a.m., and the barracks and other areas must be scrubbed down, beds made in correct military fashion and breakfast finished before the 7 a.m. flag raising ceremony. Except for a two-hour noon break, the rest of the day is spent at military training.

The girls go through weapons instruction, drill, lectures on military tactics and conduct. The day's sessions end at 5 p.m., when the trainees return to their barracks to prepare for the next day.

After completing their three weeks' basic, the girls go into specialized training courses for two months before being assigned to their jobs as secretaries, clerks, accounants, typists or medical personnel. They are forbidden to marry during their first two years in the corps and are not supposed to have children as long as they are in service. They can retire after 25 years.

While fighting is not their primary job, they do learn to handle weapons and this knowledge is expected to be put to more use as the war intensifies in populated centers. Since the lunar new year offensive, no discharges are being given.

Will Rule July 26 On Defense Motion

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP)—Magistrate Herbert Casteel has said he will rule July 26 on a defense motion to dismiss a murder charge against 15-year-old Robert E. Sinderson.

The boy is charged with shooting Merrill Nichols, 64, a Joplin grocery clerk, March 3, 1967.

Sinderson was tried in February, but the jury failed to reach a verdict. A first degree charge was refiled last month. The boy is free on $10,000 bond.

Defense attorneys argued Thursday that the charge should be dismissed because there was no juvenile court order transferring the defendant to the jurisidction of the criminal court.

Defense, Space Cuts Are Urged

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Reduction of federal spending must hit the defense and space programs because they are taking 82 cents of each tax dollar, Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton said Thursday night.

Campaigning for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator, Eagleton spoke to 44 persons at a meeting at Lake Lotawana.

The Johnson administration agreed to cut $6 billion in federal spending to go along with a $10 billion tax surcharge.

Eagleton suggested that some defense and space projects be delayed instead of eliminated. These could include the supersonic transport aircraft and the race to the moon, he said.

In Ranks

Ralph Edward Ornes, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus S. Ornes, Stover, has enlisted in the U.S. Air Force, mechanical career field, and has been assigned to Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, for basic training.

William Stephen Van Vickle, 22, son of W. Kenton Van Vickle, 104 Helen Circle, has been selected for pilot training in the Air Force. Beginning Sept. 30, he will attend a 12-week officer training course at Lackland AFB, Texas. From there, he will be commissioned a Second Lieutenant and go to one of the pilot training bases in the U.S.

Van Vickle is a June, 1968, graduate of Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, with a degree in speech.

Acting Sergeant John D. Petree, 20, son of John N. Petree, 1705 East 16th, has completed the Fifth Army Noncommissioned Officer course at Fort Riley, Kan. The course was a six-week Vietnam-oriented leadership training session.

The kingdom of Tonga lies north of New Zealand near Fiji and Samoa. It includes about 150 islands and islets in three main groups: volcanic Vava'u, coral Ha'apai and Tongatapu. There are some 60,000 people.

Meeting of NAACP Is Held at Church

The Pettis County Branch of the N.A.A.C.P. held its regular monthly meeting at the Taylor Chapel Church on Tuesday.

Dr. A. R. Maddox, who is a life member of the Pettis County branch, will officially receive a plaque and gold membership card with brief ceremonies to be held the last week in July.

The local branch went on record to contact the mayor to find out why the Public Housing Authority has not begun to function.

The next regular meeting will be held the third Tuesday in August starting at 8 p.m. at the Taylor Chapel Church.

Top Readers To Be Feted At a Party

The Boonslick Regional Library is sponsoring a party for grade school children who have completed the summer reading program, which consists of having read ten books during June and July.

Plans for the party are to show a film entitled "Disneyland, U.S.A.," with refreshments served by the Coca-Cola Bottling Company and Tullis-Hall Dairy. The children will tour the library and choose books for reading in August.

The party dates are as follows at area regional libraries: July 29, 2 p.m., Sedalia; July 30, 2 p.m., Warsaw; and July 31, 2 p.m., Boonville.

Protestors Funnel Money Into Fund

BOSTON (AP) — A group of war protestors is funneling tax money they consider would be used for war, into a fund which they say will be used for scholarships and other worthy causes.

Edward Webster, a business consultant who is one of the founders of the plan and is acting as its administrator, said Thursday he had deposited $6,500 in the fund.

Webster said the money is coming from business and professional men who normally make quarterly payments of their federal income taxes.

Babe Ruth All-Stars Go Into Tournament Finals

The Sedalia Babe Ruth All Stars overpowered Clinton in the district tournament in Boonville Friday night 15-7.

Sedalia now advances to the championship game Saturday at 8 p.m.

Although Sedalia is confident they will bring home the championship Saturday, they would play at 8 p.m. Sunday should they lose, as this is a double elimination tournament and Sedalia is still undefeated.

Sedalia was held scoreless in the top of the first inning. Clinton went ahead in the bottom of the first scoring one run. Glen Ballsinger was safe on an error and scored on a double by Rick White.

Sedalia knotted the score in the top of the second as Sam Gravitt walked, stole second and scored on a single by Steve Holmes.

Clinton regained the lead in the bottom of the second as Parsons singled, Nash walked, Wilson was hit by a pitch and Ballsinger walked forcing in a run.

Sedalia scored four runs in the top of the third as Steve Eck singled and Chuck Huddleston singled with Eck going to third. Eck scored on a play at the plate on an infield ground ball by Bob Pledge, Huddleston taking third on the play. Bob Pledge stole second. Steve Holmes reached first on a passed ball on a third strike with Huddleston scoring on the play. Pledge scored and Holmes reached third on an overthrow of first base on a pickoff attempt, then Holmes scored on a passed ball. Two strikeouts ended the inning.

Clinton was scoreless in the bottom of the third and Sedalia led at this point 5 to 2.

Sedalia scored two runs in the top of the fourth. Dennis McFarland singled, Bob Geotz and Chuck Huddleston walked to load the bases. McFarland scored on an error and Bob Geotz scored on a fielders choice.

Clinton tied the score in the bottom of the fourth, scoring five runs as Swetman singled, Rick Wilson walked, and both runners advanced on an error on a pickoff attempt. One run scored on a play at the plate on an infield ground ball by Glen Ballsinger. Wilson scored on a single by Rich White and Bill Labadie walked, loading the bases.

Bob Geotz came in to pitch for Sedalia, striking out the neut better, but Ballsinger scored on a balk. White scored on a wild pitch and Labadie scored on a single by Damon Parsons. Geotz then got the next batter on strikes to end the inning with the score tied 7 to 7.

Sedalia roared back with eight runs in the top of the fifth inning to ice the game. Pinch hitter Larry Vanderpool led off with a double, Dennis McFarland walked and both runs scored on a double by Bob Geotz.

Geotz scored on a single by Steve Eck. Chuck Huddleston doubled with Eck going to third. Eck scored on a wild pitch and Huddleston scored on a single by Sam Gravitt. Steve Holmes singled and Gravitt and Holmes scored on a long triple by Larry Vanderpool.

Vanderpool scored on a single by Steve Gerlecz. Clinton was unable to score in the bottom of the fifth inning. The score at this point was 15 to 7 in favor of Sedalia and this remained the final score as neither team was able to score in the siuth or seventh innings.

Leading hitters for Sedalia were Larry Vanderpool with three for three, a single, a double and a triple; Steve Eck with two for four, a single and a double; Chuck Huddleston with two for four, a double and single; Steve Holmes with two for five.

The batteries for Sedalia, Bob Pledge, Bob Geotz and Ricky Burlingame, Larry Vanderpool; for Clinton: Herb Carter, Bill Labadie, Glen Bradford and Rick White, Glen Balsinger.

Winning pitcher was Bob Geotz; the loser, Glen Bradford.

Sport Scraps

By D. Kelly Scruton

Monday over in Concordia the District Tournament for Little League will get underway and two Sedalia teams are entered, a team from the National League and one from the American League. The American League plays the Clinton aggregation at 5:30 p.m. The Nationals play on Tuesday, the first game at 6 p.m., against the Harrison County Little Leaguers.

Other teams entered in the tournament are from Whiteman AFB and Lacomo, who play at the tournament opener at 4 p.m., with a third game at 7 p.m. between Carroll County and the Big Six Little League teams. Only two games are set Tuesday — the Sedalia Nationals and Harrisonville followed by a game at 7:30 p.m. between the winner of the Lacomo-Whiteman AFB game and the Tri-County team, which drew a first round bye.

A notation on a Little League story which is more editorial than a news story — but to the point — interested me. I hope the fans who go to Confordia will follow it:

"A large measure of responsibility rests with the adults who supervise, conduct, manage or otherwise have some part in tournament play.

"At no time during the Little League season does this responsibility come into sharper focus.

"Deportment of parents at Little League games often causes criticism of the program. While it is the prerogative of baseball fans at professional games to voice loud, uncomplimentary opinions of umpires managers and players, this practice is not condoned at Little League games. Parents must accept the fact that umpires, coaches and others identified with the program are volunteers and should not be subjected to criticism during ball games, especially by others who are unwilling even to lend a hand.

"Parents who usually comprise a majority of the spectators have a responsibility too. It is always in order to applaud a good player or an outstanding feat of baseball skill. But it is a deplorable exhibition of incivility or plain ignorance to boo a youngster who is learning to play the game or his league leaders who are trying to help him.

Spectators must realize that they are an integral part of the game and with their enthusiasm or apathy can add or detract from the spirit of the game."

In closing the remarks it also said, "In Little League a GOOD SPECTATOR: applauds a good play; encourages greater effort; congratulates the winner; praises the loser; and ENJOYS THE GAME FOR WHAT IT IS."

Never-the-less we would like to hear the Sedalia teams were accompanied by a large delegation of Sedalians rooting for the locals and cheering the opposition.

A lady who called at my desk the other day asked me why I never mentioned some of these other "games" which she declared were one of great skill and sportmanship. The game it seems is that old fashion Mah Jongg.

She even gave me the names of the players — but I dare not mention these girls' names for fear of a repartee and some of those gals are good at it.

Anyway — those who are in the six gave me a report that Judy is way out front and had a bad evening-minus 70-points; then Carolyn led the group, minus 100; Dorothy won 90. Bonnie 60 plus, while Marilyn scratched with 20 points. Seems the girls were after the next to the biggest loser who is far, far ahead since the first of the year.

Well do I remember when I was "rooked" into playing the game some, well, odd number of years ago and it was fun. But the ivories have turned yellow with age and I wouldn't know one character from another. It is tim consuming for those who want to pass the time.

Champion Sprint Car Races To Open Fair

Grand championship sprint car auto races, sanctioned by the International Motor Contest Association, will be the inaugural feature at the Missouri State Fair, Saturday afternoon, Aug. 17, when the new $600.00 covered grandstand is unveiled. The second series of speedway-type races will be held Sunday Aug. 25 when the 14th annual Missouri Futurity is held on the one-mile track.

Time trials will be held at 1 p.m. on the opening Saturday and the first of six races at 2:30. Bleacher seats are priced at $2.00, while the covered reserved seats and boxes can be secured in advance at $3.00.

The Sedalia races will kick off a nation-wide circuit of major fairs under sanction of the International Motor Contest Association, America's oldest sanctioning body of speed, spanning 17 states from Florida to Minnesota.

During the seven speed events, owners and drivers will be vieing for a total of $30,650 in purses, plus additional accessory awards from leading automobile manufacturers.

IMCA drivers in the three divisions, namely stock, spring cars, and midgets will have better than $300,000 in purses to shoot at before the season closes the first of November in Shreveport, La.

The slate of IMCA events will consist of sprint cars on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 17 and Sunday Aug. 25; IMCA late model stock cars and American sports cars will be seen in action three times. The first time Sunday afternoon, Aug. 18, on the half-mile track with starting time at 2:30. The 100-mile non-stop stock car race is set for the one-mile track Saturday afternoon, Aug. 24 with time trials at 1 p.m. A series of stock car spring races will be held the same night on the half-mile track, starting at 8 p.m.

The 15th annual Missouri Modified championships will be held the opening Saturday night, Aug. 17 and the 50-lap finale, Friday night, Aug. 23. $7,000 in purses will be offered. Both events will get the green flag at 8 p.m.

Windsor Jaycee Rodeo Features Top Cowboys

The cowboy will again have his day at the Windsor Jaycee Rodeo, July 25-26-27.

The three-night event will bring some of the top cowboys in the SCA circuit to compete for prize money and points. The SCA is the largest amateur rodeo association in the U. S. Performances will start at 7:30 p.m. at the Windsor Fairgrounds, Highway 52 just east of the city limits.

The five events in which the cowboys will be competing include: Bareback Riding, Bull Dogging, Barrel Racing, Calf Roping and Bull Riding, plus an all-Jaycee tie down calf roping event. Entry fees in all but the barrel races are $15 with $50 added prize money plus a portion of the entry fee to the winners of each event. The barrel racing event entry is $10 plus jackpot added money.

Two highlights of the rodeo will be a parade Saturday afternoon in downtown Windsor beginning at 2 p.m. A $15 first prize will be awarded the winner of the top saddle club participating in the parade. The last evening of the rodeo the Jaycees will give away a pony complete with saddle and bridle. Tickets can be purchased from any Jaycee and the winner does not have to be present to win. The pony, saddle and bridle are worth $100, the Jaycees state.

Announcer for the Rodeo will be John Criner, Tulsa, Okla., one of the top announcers in the business.

One of the highlights of the Rodeo will be a grudge match between Windsorite Kennie Silver, a veteran SCA rider, and a horse named 'Tex Pay Day'. The horse has been riden out only twice in the last 12 times and one of those times was by Silver. The horse is considered the top bucking horse in the Wyche Brothers string. Tex Pay Day and Silver will match skills in the first night of the rodeo.

Rodeo headquarters will be set up at the Windsor Motel July 24 from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. for those wishing to register to participate. This must be done prior to the first night, the club stressed.

Admission to the big event is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children, payable at the gate. In case of bad weather any night, Sunday afternoon, July 28, 2 p.m., has been set for a rain date.

Davis Continues To Lead Ban Johnson Hitters

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Butch Davis, Columbia's hard hitting shortstop, continues to lead the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League in hitting but Jefferson City's pitching staff is making its presence felt in the league race.

Davis tops the seven-team circuit with a .487 mark after the first 13 games of the season. The University of Missouri football star has 19 hits in 39 trips to the plate for Columbia.

Centralia's Larry Coil is second with .427, followed by Jefferson City's Steve Slaughter at .425 and Tipton's Dean Akin at .378. All told the league has 17 hitters above the .300 mark, five from Jefferson City and three from Sedalia.

Denny Alberts of Jefferson City leads the league in hits with 20, and in runs scored with 21. Teammates Charley Crede and Randy Ketchum pace the circuit in runs batted in and home runs, respectively.

Crede, a 225-pound first sacker, has 24 RBI and Ketchum shows four home runs.

Mitchell Calvin tops the league in ERA with .50 and leads a Jefferson City staff that has allowed only 16 earned runs in 111 innings of work.

Next in line is Mike Wilhelm with a 1.00 showing, followed by Slaughter at 1.50 and Kelly Whitaker at 1.88. All are right handers and they have a combined 10-2 mark for the Capital City club.

Dennis Droege of Marshall is the strikeout leader with 93, while Sedalia's Mike Kraxberger is neft with 84. Droege, a 6-5 right hander, has worked the most innings, 68 1-3.

Jefferson City tops the league with an 11-2 record, followed by Sedalia at 9-4 and Marshall 8-5.

Jefferson City and Sedalia meet in a crucial test July 23 at Sedalia.

Sells Antique Chair At 'Bargain' Price

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — An antique shop owner returned from a business trip Thursday and discovered that one of his salesmen had sold a $1,195 Philadelphia Chippendale chair that was 200 years old to an unidentified woman for $11.95.

J. W. Chandler, the owner, said the salesman, Frank Coffman, blanched when he told him the price of the chair.

"You've never seen a sicker man," Chandler said. "Yes, he's still employed. It was just a mistake."

Beard, Fleckman Remain In Tie

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The nerves of young Marty Fleckman and unemotional Frank Beard held like stanchions of steel Saturday and, shoulder to shoulder, the two of them carried a two-stroke lead into the climactic final round of the 50th PGA Golf Championship.

They had a 54-hole score of 210, even par for three rounds over the maligned 7,096-yard Pecan Valley Course baked by steamy 102-degree heat.

Two strokes back, at 212, came a closely packed cavalry charge of seven men, including some of the most glamorous names in golf.

They included the people's eternal favorite Arnold Palmer, who almost blasted in from the trap on the final hole in view of televisions millions; voluble Lee Trevino, the reigning U.S. Open champion and 48-year-old Julius Boros, two-time winner of the Open, bidding to become the oldest ever to win the title.

In there with them were dandy Doug Sanders, the golfing rainbow who has never won a major title; left-hander Bob Charles of New Zealand, former winner of the British Open; tough little Miller Barber, with the build and the heart of a stevedore, and 32-year-old Dick Rhyan of Sylvania, Ohio, a genuine dark-horse.

Next at 213 was Tennessean Lou Graham, followed by a half-dozen at 214, including capitalist Bill Casper, former PGA champion Al Geiberger and tall George Archer, who recovered from a horrendous quadruple bogey eight on the opening hole.

They all have a chance going into Sunday's last round, to be televised by ABC.

The 24-year-old Fleckman, a pro of less than a year, held on grimly as fortunes fluctuated throughout the sultry afternoon and came to the treacherous and lenghtened 18th hole needing only a par for the undisputed lead.

Old-timers were trying to recall the last tournament in which not a single player was under par going into the final round.

36---A Ball In Water

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The key to playing a ball in water is this: don't attempt to hit any ball that is completely submerged. Take the penalty and get out. But if even one dot is sticking out, then you can hit it.

When the ball is partially out of the water, your club face should be closed and you should follow through. Though water is denser than sand, these two trouble shots are played similarly.

Going into water is a personal thing. I don't advocate any special means. I usually take off my shoes, roll up my pants and wade in. But I don't like to go barefoot in shale or coral bottom water like they have in California.

Most courses on the tour have mud or sand bottoms. Sometimes I have gone into water wearing shoes. I felt I could get better footing than going in barefoot. I don't worry about a $30 pair of shoes when $20,000 is at stake.

Luckily, I haven't had much trouble with water as a pro. I do recall a shot from the water when I played in the Texas state junior tournament several years ago. I hit into the creek. The ball was sitting on a rock, about one-fourth submerged. I used a full 6-iron and hit onto the green.

To sum up, if the ball is completely submerged, take the penalty. I wouldn't recommend using a snorkel for that shot.

(NEXT: More Trouble.)

The woods . . . the irons . . . green play—if any phase of your play goes sour you can find the answer in Frank Beard's new book on golf technique, "Shaving Strokes, 75 Steps to Winning Golf." "Soc-cer To Me" Clinic Scheduled For August

"Soc-cer To Me" is the name denoting the Khoury Soccer Association Clinic being planned for August in Sedalia.

The clinic will be designed for players, coaches, referees and interested fans. Dates set for the event are Aug. 12-14.

Also part of the three day program will be player registration for all those boys interested in participating in this year's fall program.

While detail are still to be worked out' plans call for the clinic's instructors to drawn from the ranks of professional players and college coaches.

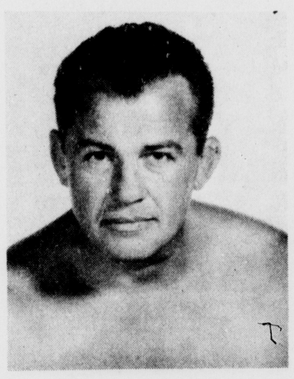

The basic idea of the clinic is to familiarize participants with the basic fundamentals and techniques of the game, at the same time supplying all with game strategy and rules.

A site for the clinic is yet to be named. The pro-players and college coaches to be on hand for instruction, have not been announced.

There will be a special coaches clinic on Wednesday night of the clinic, August 13, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Leonard Makarewicz and Jim Koerner supervise the clinic.

Tag Team Title Is At Stake Tuesday

Sonny Myers

The North American tag team championship will be at stake when professional wrestling is presented at Convention Hall Tuesday.

The title clash will feature a four-event program involving both heavyweights and girl grapplers.

Veterans Sonny Myers and Ronnie Etchison, a power-packed tandem from St. Joseph, will make their defense against the brawling pair of Natureboy Kirby and The Viking two stout young swingers whose disregard for scientific wrestling is widely known in the Midlands.

It was from Bob Btown and his former partner, Bob Geigel, that Myers and Etchison lifted the title.

Their experience gives them a wide edge over the challengers, but the odds even out when the speed and ruggedness of Kirby and Viking are put together.

Gil Hayes, a newcomer from Detroit, will make his debut in another event. He is pitted against the Bob Brown in what shapes up as a solid test for the Michigan pro.

Valley Vikings Start Season With New Coach

The Missouri Valley College Vikings have a full 10-game schedule set for this fall to be played under a new coach.

Coach Kenneth Gibler, a graduate of Valley in 1957 who played under Coach Volney Ashford, is the new head grid director for the Vikings. Gibler has been line coach at Northern Arizona University, Flagstaff, Ariz., for the past six years.

Gibler trained and played under Coach Ashford, has announced he will not keep Ashford's successful single wing play but will inaugurate the "T" formation for the first time in the Valley history.

Coach Ashford relinquished the coaching chore of the Vikings to become full-time director of athletics at the college. Ashford has been in poor health for several months.

The schedule follows:

Sept. 14 — Central Methodist, home.
Sept. 21 — Graceland, at Lamoni, Ia.
Sept. 28 — University of Mo. at Rolla, home.
Oct. 5 — Huron, at Huron, S.D.
Oct. 12 — Tarkio, at Tarkio.
Oct. 19 — Nebraska Wesleyan, home. (Homecoming).
Oct. 25 — University of Illinois at Chicago Circle, at Chicago.
Nov. 2 — Lea College, at Alberta Lea, Minn.
Nov. 9 — St. Mary of the Plains, home.
Nov. 16 — William Jewell, home.

Mint Olympic Coins

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Thirty million Olympic commemorative coins with total value of 750 million pesos—$60 million—are in circulation, the Mexican treasury ministry reported. Minister Antonio Ortiz Mena estimated that the special 25-peso —$2—silver coins now minted are enough to meet demands before and during the October Games here.

Little League Teams Open Tourney Play

The two Little League tournament teams, Sedalia American and Sedalia National, will participate in the District Tournament this year at Concordia starting July 22.

Tournament play in Little League Baseball makes possible a normal climax to the regular season play and gives the 12-year-old boys a chance to round out their career in the program with new experiences of travel and assoications.

The League's tournament team of 14 players is selected on the basis of ability from among all of the teams in the league. Only boys of league age 11 and 12 are eligible. Once named, the team roster is filed with Little League Headquarters, together with verification of age.

Gurkhas May Join

LONDON (AP) — Gurkhas, the fierce but personable little fighters from the sunny side of the Himalayas, may be allowed to join the British infantry at a rate of 100 or so per regiment to help offset a lag in manpower since Britain gave up conscription in 1960.

New President, Plans Feature Soccer Meeting

The monthly Khoury Soccer Meeting was a busy affair this week, with election of a new president and planning for the fall season.

Tom Baker, 1402 S. Warren, was elected President. Baker has managed the last two years in the league and last season served as tournament director for the Sedalia Soccer Cup held last fall for the first time.

This year's season for all teams in the age groups through 15 will begin the week-end of Sept. 14 Junior league action, for boys 16-18 years of age, will begin one week earlier in September.

Plans were also make for the organization of a four-team junior league, with registration for that age group Aug. 3rd at the Liberty North soccer field from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The teams will play a 12-game schedule, with games played Monday and Thursday nights under the lights.

Coaches are needed for all age groups and are urged to contact Khoury Soccer Commissioner Paul Klover at TA 6-7973.

Last year some 550 boys participated in the local program with the association boasting some n0 teams. This year the league is making plans for increases in both totals due to the eupansion of soccer nationally with pro-soccer in Kansas City and area colleges also going to the sport.

Bybee Will Attend Cage Camp

Larry Bybee, LaMonte, has enrolled in Ed Macauley's Basketball Camp, to be held in St. Aug. 12-20.

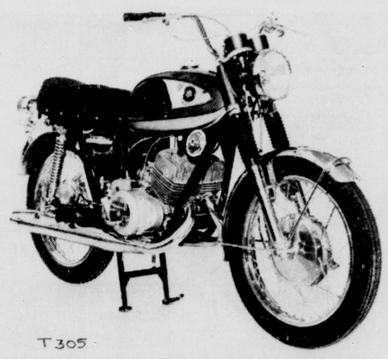

Bybee will join others participating in three sessions per day covering such topics as the jump shot, ball handling, dribbling and passing, handling the ball against a zone press.

Boys at the camp will get a chance to oppose some of the top basketball players in the country.

MURIEL LAWRENCE

'Witches' Thrive Today

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

In Europe's Middle Ages, witches who wanted to destroy you made a small wax image of you.

To identify it as you, they procured a fragment of you which you had long since outgrown and discarded—a nail-paring, a hair. Into the wax image they stuck this fraction of your past and then stuck pins into it, buried or burned it. Whereupon you obliged them by falling mysteriously ill or by collapsing into the nearest graveyard.

It is still a widely practiced witchcraft. And one practiced usually by people who have "known" us all our lives, including our relatives. I commend this truth to a reader who writes:

"I am a widow and live in a town where people have known me all my life. The problem is their unfriendliness to me. If it were not for my four children who need me, life would not be worth living. Several of my neighbors won't even pass the time of day with me. Sometimes I think it's because I'm not good-looking that they're so unfriendly to me . . ."

Lord, lady, it is always the people who've "known" us all our lives who know nothing about us!

What they know about us is only some image of us they constructed in their heads long ago. Into the image stuck a memory of some shortcoming that once belonged to us as those medieval witches used old nail parings. So far as they are concerned, that image is what we are. Unless we want to suffer as you're doing, we avoid these malicious image-makers with great care. Their affection is the very last thing we seek as it is entirely untrustworthy.

I once had a relative who practiced this kind of sorcery. At the age of 10, I was peeling a potato in a manner she regarded as wastefully ugly. And were she still around I'd still be peeling potatoes wastefully. Though I have become a highly efficient potato-peeler, this fact would not exist for her. What would exist would be only her image of me as a clumsy 10-year-old. And so she would still grab my peeling knife from me, saying, "Give me that potato before you waste it by cutting it to pieces!"

Witches are bores because they hoard old shortcomings which no longer belong to us. Our own company is healthier than the company of witches.

2—Cards of Thanks

BUTTERFIELD, JOSEPHINE: OUR HEARTFELT thanks to all who extended comforting sympathy and help in the recent death of our beloved Mother and Grandmother. For the floral offerings and memorials and other kindnesses, we are deeply grateful.

MR. AND MRS. JERRY ONDRACEK AND SHARON.

3—In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY of Frank Sommer who passed away July 28, 1964:
The rolling stream of life rolls on
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of the one who sat there.
Sadly missed by the children, Helen and Dave.

The Smithton High School Class of 1943 held a reunion at the high school recently celebrating their 25th anniversary with 36 of the members present. The anniversary banquet was held at the Holiday Inn in Sedalia with members and their family in attendance.

During the afternoon of the reunion Class members met at the school for an open house at which they en,oyed a tour of the old section of the building and the new facilities which have been constructed since their graduation.

The banquet, held in the form of a smorgasbord, was presided over by the Class President, James Eddy, He acted as Master of Ceremonies and called upon each Class member at which time they introduced their spouse and told of their lives during the past 25 years.

Prizes were awarded to the following: Mrs. Geraldine Fisher, Anaheim, Calif., traveling the farthest distance; Bill Green, who has the largest family, eight children; Mrs. Bernice Button, having the youngest child, four-years-old; and George Green, the last to arrive.

Letters were read from B.B. Ihrig, former Superintendent of the Smithton schools and several Class members who were unable to attend were read.

A Memorial was held for the three deceased members of the class, Donald Hoehns, Donald Rages and Monroe Cook.

Attending were: Mrs. Geraldine (Seigel) Fisher, Anaheim, Calif., Mrs. Lodell (Bolte) Bremer, Stillwater, Minn., Mrs. Nell (Curtiss) Elliott, New Carlisle, Ohio, Hulen Leutjen, Coco Beach, Fla., Mrs. Dorothy (Riley) Canfield, Wichita, Kans., James Eddy, Shawnee Mission, Kans., Mrs. Jean (Momberg) Twyman, Prairie Village, Kans., Mrs. Esther (O'Neil) Taylor and Clifford Wagenknecht, Independence, Mo., Mrs. Dorothy (Youngkamp) Fowler, Kansas City, Mo., Raymond Meyer, St. Louis, Mo., L.D. The reunion was planned and arranged by the following committee: Mrs. Darlene Meyer, Clarence Eichholz, Albert Moore, Homer Jaeger, Frank Page and Cloyd Merk.

Plans are being made to hold a 30th Anniversary in 1973.

Red Supply Roads Main US Targets

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The spotlight shifted back to the air war in Vietnam Thursday as ground fighting relapsed into another lull.

With the threatened big Viet Cong offensive against Saigon evidently delayed and with President Nguyen Van Thieu in Honolulu for a summit meeting with President Johnson, a watch and wait mood prevailed in South Vietnam.

Over the southern panhandle of North Vietnam, American pilots flew 112 missions below the 19th parallel Thursday in the continuing effort to reduce the flow of supplies to enemy troops in the South.

The fliers reported destroying or damaging 29 trucks, 11 supply boats and seven bridges and touching off 171 sustained fires and 31 secondary explosions. Air Force pilots said 57 of the fires were at a large military storage area about 30 miles above the demilitarized zone.

Marine pilots attacked the Dong Hoi airfield, believed to be used now as a supply base rather than an airstrip, while Navy pilots concentrated on highways and water traffic.

Eight-engine B52 bombers joined in the raids above the demilitarized zone and also struck eight times Thursday and today in South Vietnam against suspected enemy bases in the central highlands and on the central coast, in the Mekong Delta about 100 miles southwest of Saigon and in Tay Niny Province about 50 miles northwest of the capital.

The B52 raids are part of the campaign to break up enemy forces massing to attack Saigon.

National police reported uncovering what appeared to be a Viet Cong local headquarters in a residential district of the capital early today. Police seized two automatic rifles, nine Viet Cong flags, a typewriter, a tape recorder, documents and two suspects.

Viet Cong gunners fired a dozen rocket and mortar rounds into the Nha Be petroleum depot seven miles southeast of Saigon late Thursday, but U.S. spokesmen reported no casualties and only light damage.

U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese infantrymen probing high ridges just south of the central portion of the demilitarized zone still have not made any significant contact with North Vietnamese troops, Associated Press correspondent John Lengel reported. The operation is the first major allied move into the area in 18 months.

Allied troops continued their patrols around Saigon to intercept any attempt to launch the long-expected third major attack of the year on the capital. They turned up four more weapons caches three to seven miles southwest of the capital.

Their finds included two mortars, three bazooka-type rocket launchers, more than 100 rockets, 16,000 rounds of ammunition for small arms and automatic weapons, more than 200 grenades and some 200 pounds of TNT.

To the north, 300 miles above Saigon, troops of the U.S. 11th Light Infantry Brigade found another enemy cache which contained four 120mm mortars, 75 bicycles with weapons carriers and 20,000 rounds of small arms ammunition.

Honor the Dead

Sgt. Major George Dunaway, Richmond, Va., stands at attention behind the traditional weapon and boots honoring members of the 101st Airborne who have been killed in Vietnam during their tour. The ceremony was held at Camp Eagle, five miles north of Phu Bai. (UPI)

Language Died Out

The use of Aramaic, the language probably spoken by Jesus, died out in the 7th century of the Christian era. Arabic took its place, except in a few isolated villages.

Youth Is Sentenced To College, Prison

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A circuit court judge has ordered Steven Brock Hannibal, 18 to finish college or go to prison.

Judge Robert E. Jones placed Hannibal, of Eagle Rock, Ore., on five years probation for illegal possession of marijuana.

As conditions of probation, the judge ordered the youth Thursday to return to college in the fall, to maintain satisfactory grades and to graduate.

The alternative, the judge said, was five years in the Oregon State Correctional Institution.

McCarthy Forgot Where He Was

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, speaking at Charlotte's Douglas Municipal airport Thursday, forgot where he was.

"Thank you all in South Carolina," the candidate said to an enthusiastic crowd of about 1,500.

After a few scattered boos McCarthy realized his mistake and said at least he knew he was in the South and Charlotte's welcome was the warmest yet in his campaign. The official airport temperature was 86 degrees.

Women Must Still Rely on Handyman

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Organization for Women —NOW—is a group dedicated to achieving full equality for women. Its members claim women are just as capable as men in almost every field.

But Thursday night the women had to turn to a man for help. They opened the windows in their midtown Manhattan meeting room, nullifying the air conditioning, and had to call a handyman to close the windows, start the air conditioning again, and save them from the sweltering heat outside.

This man is weeding his lawn!

While he sleeps, the dandelions, chickweed, and 22 other kinds of weeds are on their way out. That's because he spread TURF BUILDER PLUS 2 on his lawn.

Plus 2 makes weeds curl up and disappear — roots and all. Full-fertilizes your lawn too. Makes it grow thicker and greener, filling in those places where the weeds were.

The time is right to use Plus 2. Takes only half an hour to spread it on the average size lawn. How about this weekend?

First Women in a Combat Zone

LONG BINH, South Vietnam (AP) — Glenda is 20 years old, slender and pretty, with the dating game running 300-to-1 in her favor.

But as a WAC in Vietnam she's usually too tired from her work and quite frankly uninterested to worry much about men and marriage.

Harriet, who shares the same barracks, wanted to travel and to do something to help the war effort so she volunteered for Vietnam. Now, like nearly all the 1,000 women serving in Vietnam, she finds the socializing can become a bore after a while.

So here's the WAC, one of the few pretty things the GI's see, dressed baggy fatigues that despite special tailoring still look like they were meant for issue to men.

Home for the military women in Vietnam is usually regulation Army barracks that don't keep out the dust, the bugs or the heat. Sleep comes from exhaustion despite the sound of artillery, jet planes, and every now and then, incoming enemy rounds.

Recreation is ping-pong, checkers, movies, bicycle rides and an occasional swim. Dating and parties are every night, but this is Vietnam, and somehow, there are just too many men to make dating real, and rarely the right man to make it last.

There are approximately 1,000 uniformed women serving with the military forces in Vietnam. More than 600 of them are nurses working in hospitals throughout the country. The WACs, WAVEs, and WAFs work as administrators or clerks and typists.

These are the first women to ever be stationed in a combat zone. All the WACs, their ages ranging from 19 to 50, are volunteers to Vietnam.

For most of the WACs, it was curiosity about the war and the opportunity to do something unusual that brought them to Vietnam.

"I was bored with the States. I'd never really been anywhere out of the South," said Spec. 5 Varina Albers, 21, of Houston, Tex. "I wanted to see for myself what was happening in Vietnam."

And Vietnam, after all, is where the men are. Even 1st Sgt. Katherine Herney from San Diego, Calif., with 18 years in the Army, saw some possibilities. Patting her short, dark hair, with just a hint of gray, she confided with a wink, "It's never too late to find a man."

But too many men, barbed wires, and curfews confuse the rules of the dating game. At Long Binh Post the WACs are surrounded by men at a ratio of 300-to-1, and all that male presence sometimes is not entirely welcome.

"The guys pay a lot of attention to us," said Spec. 5 Glenda Jones, 20, from Detroit, Mich., "but sometimes I can do without it. I'm just too tired for anything."

"It's embarrassing," Miss Albers said. "I don't particularly enjoy going to a club where 1,000 men are staring at me."

The WACs work in air-conditioned offices at USARV Headquarters, as clerks or typists or administrators. They work from seven in the morning and some do not finish until seven at night. Curfew is at 10:30. For those not too tired to change into civilian clothes, the evenings are spent at clubs where they go to drink and dance.

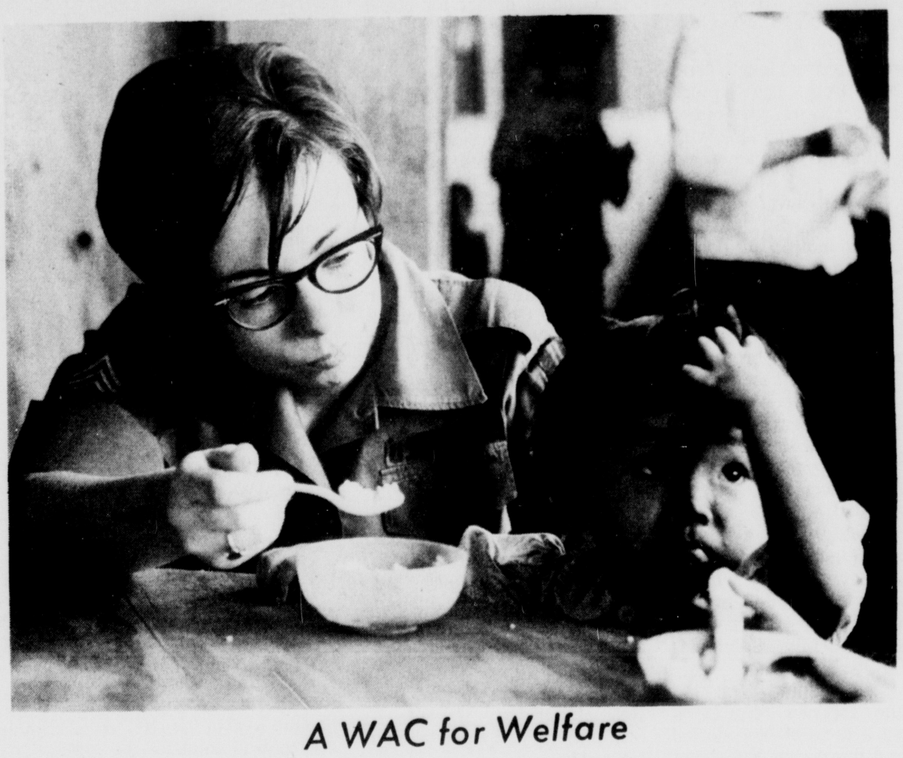

It's the girl with a special beau who seems best off. But is she really?

"Courtship in Vietnam is the worst thing you can think of," said Spec. 5 Marie Dube of Foxboro, Mass. Two months after she arrived in country, she met an MP and is now engaged.

"There are so few places to go and be alone. Sometimes we saw each other for only an hour during lunch. My fiance's buddies were jealous and gave him a hard time for dating me. And yet, in a way, our relationship is even better for having developed here. There's just no way to get in trouble, what with all the restrictions. It's very hard to hide what you do."

Saigon, which used to be the haven for lovers, is now off limits. Warehouses and jeeps definitely lack romantic appeal.

Several of the WACs go to visit the hospital wards. Spec. 5 Regina Feltner from Hazard, Ky., was hoping she'd be able to work in a hospital when she came to Vietnam. "I'd have a greater feeling that I was doing some good here," she said.

A WAC for Welfare

WAC Sgt. Janet Singer, from Brigham, Utah, stationed at the Long Binh, Vietnam, military base, visits an orphanage at nearby Bien Hoa and adds a happy moment to a child's day. (AP)

One of the more than 600 nurses stationed in Vietnam, Lt. Lynn Laabs, 22, from Green Bay, Wis., works at 3rd Field Hospital in Saigon. The recent fighting near Saigon has exposed her to the reality that is Vietnam — pain, ugliness, and sometimes death.

"Sometimes it's depressing. The wounded soldiers are all so young and they have to suffer such horrible pain," Lynn said. But I want to be here. I want to work hard for these men. And at the end of my day, I know I've done something, or at least I've tried."

Passenger Removed Because of Joke

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An unidentified passenger who said "I want to go to Cuba" was removed from Eastern Air Lines Flight 955 at Miami Thursday night, but a deputy sheriff said later the incident "was just a bad joke—a stupid crack."

Seven commercial airliners have been hijacked to Cuba this year and two attempts were thwarted.

Ship Comes Home

The 90,000-ton, nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise steams under the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, bringing her crew of 5,200 home from a six-months combat tour off Vietnam to the arms of wives and sweethearts. The Enterprise sent its planes on 8,500 missions to drop 15,000 tons of bombs during its third combat tour. She also was the first nuclear-powered surface ship to dock in Japan. (UPI)

Mrs. Carl David Dittmer (Fine Art Stuuio)

Linda Busker, David Dittmer Repeat Wedding Vows, July 6

A double ring ceremony united in marriage Miss Linda Jerusia Busker and Mr. Carl David Dittmer at seven o'clock Saturday evening, July 6 at Emmett Avenue Baptist Church.

The Rev. G. L. Neely, pastor, performed the ceremony before an altar setting of two seven-branch candelabra entwined with white bows and greenery and two standing baskets of snowy gladioli and yellow fuji mums. White satin bows marked the family pews and the traditional carpet centered the bridal aisle.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Busker, 240 East Saline. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dittmer, Smithton.

Mrs. Ruth Woolery, organist, played appropriate wedding selections and accompanied Mr. Jim Dittmer who sang, "Oh Promise Me" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Candles were lighted by Steve Hunsaker, nephew of the bride, and Kenneth Page, cousin of the groom.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of hand clipped Chantilly lace styled with a natural waistline, scalloped sabrina sequin-trimmed neckline and long sleeves tapering to a point. Her bouffant organza skirt was highlighted by a tiered lace flounce and bow that drifted to form an aisle wide chapel train. A shoulder length illusion veil fell from a lace crown edged with pearls accented with sequin spirals. She carried an all white Bible cascade bouquet arranged with fuji poms centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Irene Dittmer, Mora, attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a sleeveless street-length gown of turquoise satin with bows accenting the shoulders. Her short brush bow veil was of matched satin and maline. White shoes and gloves completed her ensemble and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow fuji poms with turquoise trim. Mrs. Sharron Busker, Independence, and Mrs. Donna Rehmer, Mora, were the bridesmaids. Their dresses and flowers were identical to the maid of honor.

Mr. Philip Monsees, cousin of the groom was best man. Mr. Charles Busker, brother of the bride and Mr. Marvin Rehmer served as groomsmen. Ushering duties were performed by Mr. Gary Busker, the bride's cousin and Mr. Robert Rages, the groom's cousin.

Miss Vicki Busker, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Her dress and headpiece were the same as that of the maid of honor and bridesmaids. Carrying a white princess basket she scattered yellow rose petals. Rings were carried to the altar by Master Nick Busker, nephew of the bride.

The bride's mother selected a light blue dress with white accessories. The mother of the groom chose a light pink dress with white accessories. Both wore corsages of white pixie carnations.

Approximately 200 guests were received by the wedding party in the church basement immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table, covered with lace cloth over green, was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with yellow roses and wedding bells, topped with a miniature bride and groom. A three branch silver candelabra flanked the cake. Serving at the reception were Mrs. Edith Hunsaker, sister of the bride, Mrs. Karen Filbert, Kansas City and Miss Cheryl Hunsaker, niece of the bride.

Presiding over the gifts was Mrs. Virginia Monsees and Mrs. Linda Monsees, cousins of the groom. Mrs. Carol Miller attended the guest book.

For traveling to the western states, the bride chose a blue and white polka dot dress with white accessories. A white orchid was lifted from her bridal bouquet.

A 1963 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, the bride is employed by the Missouri Bar Administration. The groom, a 1958 graduate of Smithton High School, is engaged in farming. The couple will make their home near Smithton.

A rehearsal dinner, hosted by the groom's parents was held at State Fair Restaurant the evening of July 5 for the members of the wedding party.

The bride was honored with a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Irene Dittmer and Mrs. Donna Rehmer, June 7.

A bridal shower was given by Mrs. Pearl Bales and Mrs. Annabelle Gosnell at the Emmett Avenue Baptist Church, June 21.

Miss Connie Robertson

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Robertson, 410 South Warren, announce the engagement of their daughter, Connie, to Mr. John Arnest, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Arnest, 501 West Broadway. Miss Robertson is a 1967 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, attended Drury College, Springfield, and is presently attending Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg. Arnest is a 1965 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, attended the University of Missouri and William Jewell College, Liberty. He is stationed with the U.S. Nvay in San Francisco. A December wedding is planned.

Joyce Ream Is Summer Bride Of Frederick R. deBeaubien

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. de Beaubien

A fifteen branch arch candelabra with white tapers and emerald foliage centered the rostrum at the East Sedalia Baptist Church as Miss Joyce Ream became the July 1 bride of Mr. Frederick Ronald de Beaubien. The Rev. Walter Arnold performed the 8 p.m. double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil B. Ream, Route 4, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Duncan R. Danforth, Climax Springs.

Mrs. Clyde Waters played traditional wedding selections and accompanied Rev. Roy Dameron as he sang "Whither Thou Goest."

Escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride selected an A-line gown of Irish linen with empire bodice. A wide band of Venice lace formed the high jewel neck, edged the elbow length trumpet sleeves and banded the hem. Released from high at the backwaist, a detachable train, highlighted with lace appliques, flowed to chapel length. A jeweled rose secured her veil of imported illusion. She carried a cascade of white glamelias with camellia foliage.

Matron of honor and sister of the bride, Mrs. James Swope was dressed in a floor length gown of powder blue crepe. The dress featured an embroidered daisy yoke and cap sleeves. A cluster of blue pompons formed her headpiece and she carried a crescent of blue and white pompons with blue streamers.

Miss Ahrazue Benscoter, flower girl wore a dress of pale blue batiste with smocked trim. White batiste bands were overlayed with pale blue lace. Her headpiece was as the matron of honor, and she carried a princess basket of white rose petals. Jimmy Dale Straw, Macks Creek, ringbearer, presented the bands on a white, heart-shaped satin pillow.

Mr. Fred J. Schieszer, Kansas City, was best man and ushering duties were performed by Jim Straw, Macks Creek, Harold Ream, Alan Ream and Ivan Ream.

Following the ceremony, reception was held in the church Fellowship Hall. White lace over blue satin trimmed the bride's table and crystal candelabra with blue tapers flanked the three-tiered wedding cake. Assisting at the bride's table were: Mrs. Thomas Grimes, Knob Noster, and Mrs. Larry Mueller. Miss Sue Pilcher was in charge of gifts and Miss Sharon Ream, Liberty, sister of the bride, presided over the guest book.

For traveling the bride chose a navy blue, A-lined knitted shift. Miniature white roses formed her going away corsage.

Both bride and groom are employed at Tan-Tar-A for the summer and will return to Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, in the fall.

Couple Are Honored On 40th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Haggard of Route 3 celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary June 30th at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Harvey, Jr. of Green Ridge. All children and grandchildren were able to be present for the celebration. They are: Rebecca Maus, Lisa Kunde, Michelle Kunde, Susan Griswold, Mark Ryerson, Julia Harvey, Jan Maus, Mrs. Doug Maus, Joan Harvey.

Leslie Harvey, Linda Harvey, Mrs. John Harvey Jr., Mrs. Brenda Griswald, Mrs. Raymond Kunde, Mrs. Ned Ryerson, John Harvey, Sr., and Hampton Haggard, Mr. Garnett Haggard's father.

Miss Sue Ann Pilcher

Announcement is made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Sue Ann Pilcher, 1625 East 16th, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Byron W. Pilcher, to Mr. Gary Wayne Cloninger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Cloninger, Seattle, Wash. Miss Pilcher attended the University of Missouri at Kansas City. Cloninger attended Edmonds Community College, Edmona, Washington. An August 31 wedding is planned.

Emerald Palms, Majestic Daisies Set Scene for Evening Nuptials

In a candlelight ceremony, Miss Susan Lynne Stuerke became the bride of Mr. Richard LeRoy Wissman. The Rev. Medford Speaker read the double ring vows at the East Sedalia Baptist Church July 6 at 8:00 p.m. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Stuerke, Lee's Summit, former Sedalians. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wissman, Route 1.

Emerald palms flanked a fifteen branch candelabra and a large bouquet of apricot-shaded majestic daisies and gladioli centered the altar. Apricot bows marked the family pews and the kneeling bench.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Clyde Waters, organist, played "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," "The Day of the Golden Promise," "O perfect Love," and "Melody of Love." As the candles were lighted by Scot Stuerke, brother of the bride, and Kirk Wissman, cousin of the groom, Mrs. Waters played "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and accompanied the Rev. Roy Dameron as he sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer." The bride entered the church to the traditional wedding march.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride chose a slim gown of ivory peau de soie, styled with portrait neckline and elbow- length sleeves. Deep bands of re-embroidered Alencon lace, embellished with clusters of seed pearls, bordered the hemlin, sleeves, and adorned the waist. A bouffant aisle train of the satin attached at the waistline. Her tiered, elbow-length veil of illusion fell from an arrangement of beaded lace petals and rolled nylon fabric roses. The veil was fashioned by the mother of the groom. The bride carried a lace covered prayer book topped with Sarina roses, stephanotis and tiny rosebuds knotted in ivory streamers.

Mrs. Kenneth Arens, Kansas City, matron-of-honor and Miss Vicki Louise Stuerke, sister of the bride and bridesmaid, wore identical floor-length gowns of tucked voile in an apricot shade. The dresses were cut along princess line and featured cap sleeves. Layered circlets of matching net were secured with tiny net-covered roses. Each attendant carried a long-stemmed Tropicana Duchess rose. The ensembles were created by the bride's mother.

Mr. James Wissman was his brother's best man and Mr. Donald Wissman, uncle of the groom served as groomsman. Ushering duties were performed by Stephen Stuerke, brother of the bride, Joseph Reiff, Columbia, Mr. Glen Wissman, Jr. and Ronald Richards, the latter two cousins of the groom.

The mother of the bride chose a brown linen sheath scalloped at neckline and hem. Her accessories were a bone color. The groom's mother wore a blue cotton brocade coat dress with white accessories. Both wore corsages of Sarina roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church dining room. The tables were covered with cloths of scalloped lace and a three-tiered wedding cake, featuring apricot roses and topped by a tower of bells, white doves, and wedding rings centered the bride's table. Apricot tapers in silver candelabra and smilax flanked the cake and punch bowl.

Mrs. Elmer Stuerke, Higginsville, Mrs. Robert Ackerson, Kansas City and Mrs. Floyd Shackelford, Sedalia, assisted with serving. Miss Sharon Wissman, sister of the groom attended the guest book while Miss Linda Petree and Miss Gayle Ackerson, Kansas City, presided at the gift table.

For a wedding trip to Colorado, the bride wore a suit of blue cotton lino brocade with beige accessories. Her rose corsage was lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride was educated in Kansas City and graduate from Ruskin High School. She attended Central Missouri State College in Warrensburg and Metropolitan Business College, Kansas City. She is employed as a receptionist at Kelly Publishing Company, Columbia. The groom was graduated from Smith-Cotton High School and received his degree in Agricultural Business from Central Missouri State College. He is an optician for Bausch and Lomb in Columbia where the couple will be at home.

A rehearsal luncheon was served at Flat Creek Inn for the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

Smith-Cotton Class of '43 Holds Reunion

Many warm and enduring friendships were renewed during the Silver Jubilee Reunion of the Smith-Cotton High School Class of 1943 held at the Holiday Inn recently. It was attended by more than 100 members of their class with either husband or wife.

During registration which started early in the day until time for the banquet there was a display of memorabilia which included scrapbooks containing newspaper clippings; photograph albums of class members today and yesteryear; a 1942 Vogue magazine; recent collection of Gene Collins' paintings; and letters and messages from those who were unable to attend.

A social hour was enjoyed from six until seven o'clock followed by a smorgasbord served to approximately 125 classmates and guests.

A large arrangement of white and yellow Fiju mums with black candles centered the head table. Yellow roses in white milk-glass vases and yellow candles in white milk-glass holders completed the decorations on the banquet tables.

Preceding the dinner, invocation was given by Otis Thomas, followed by a minute of silent prayer for deceased members of the class. They are: Tommy Bast, Edward Cook, Billy Hart, Joe Hugelman, Bob McCullough, Willis Rimel, Victor Stuart, Nannie Jane Wheeler, Claudis Winebrenner, Miss Mary Louise Angle, Class Sponsor and Forrest Drake, Principal.

Bob Rose, Chairman of the Reunion Committee, presided and acknowledged all who worked so diligently to make the affair the success it was.

A roll call was taken and guests were introduced. Prizes were awarded to the following: Mrs. Lucille White Anderson, Glendora, Calif., for traveling the farthest distance; Mrs. Rosalie Bolton Burlette, Kansas City, for having the most children; Mrs. Jean Rice Newman, Nelson, for having the most grandchildren; Bill Bodine, Sedalia, for having the youngest child; Mrs. Bonnie Herrick McClain, St. Simon Is., Ga., for being a pretty class vice-pres.; Cecil Swift, Park Forest, Ill., for being a handsome class president; Gene Collins, Glencoe, for being the artist who made good; Lewis C. Taylor for being the next reunion chairman; Bob Rose, Independence, for being an A-1 reunion chairman.

Everyone wished there could have been a prize for Judson Banks, Kanioke, Hawaii, who called long distance to send greeting and salutations.

A group picture was taken and then dancing to the music of Dr. David Robinson's combo, "The Group," concluded the long-to-be-remembered occasion.

The following attended:

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Paull (Marvel Lee Barnum), Douglas, Georgia; Mrs. and Mrs. Cecil Davis, Kennesaw, Georgia; Mrs. M.L. Social Calendar

WEDNESDAY

The Daughters of Isabella will hold their social meeting at the West Shelter, Liberty Park at 8:00 p.m. Husbands are invited.

The Prairie Ridge Extension Club will meet with Mrs. Joe Bill Reid at 11:00 a.m.

Longevity

Man has the greatest potential lonegvity of any known mammal. Life expectancy in an American at birth is almost 70 years, but potential longevity is thought to be about 115 years.

Takes Less Time Now

The flight of the China Clipper from San Francisco across the Pacific to Manila in 1935 took 60 hours flying time. Only 16 hours are required for a similar flight today.

How's that for a switch on the generation gap?

Three Generations Share A Birthday

Three members of the C. W. Cusick family celebrated a common birthday July 14. Sharing the honors were Miss Jill Cusick, age 2; her father, Allen; and her grandfather, C. W. Cusick.

Attending the dinner at the Cusick home, 1308 East 11th were: Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cusick, David, Jim, Tom and Beth; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Cusick, Ray and Jill; Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Diller, Cathy and Carrie; Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Homan and Sherrie; Austin Neville, George Fackler; and George Hamby, Jacksonville, Ark.

Pink And Blue Shower Given

CALIFORNIA — Mrs. Darryll Belinger was honored with a pink and blue shower Sunday afternoon. The shower was given by Mrs. Gary Wells and Mrs. Mike Miller at Proctor Park with 37 guests attending.

Games were played with prizes going to Mrs. Bill Vogel, Miss Ramona Stewart, Miss Becki Belinger and Mrs. Ethel Mesley.

The honoree opened her gifts from a table decorated in pinks and blues.

Refreshments of cookies, mints, and lemonade were served.

Preparation for Festival Causes Group Dissension

MCCLEAR, Wash. (AP) — Folks in this western Washington forest community are preparing for a lot of fun—and wrangling—at the annual McCleary Bear Festival

Oh, they'll have the usual parade, a fiddle contest and a loggers' show where husky lumberjacks show how fast they can cut great trees in half, and stuff like that.

But they always top that off with a big bear stew—and that's where the controversy always comes in.

The stew, said to be mighty tasty, is the idea of the S.O.T.S—a Save Our Tree group that wants to keep bears to a bare minimum because bears eat tree bark and ruin a lot of valuable timber.

Then there's a countergroup called the S.O.B.S, for Save Our Bears. The S.O.B.S object to the big bear stew business something fierce, and they say they'll add a protest march to the festival this year.

"You might say we're going to stage a bru-in," says Windsor Olson, S.O.B. organizer from the big city of Seattle where they don't have as many trees and practically no bears.

Olson, trying to match advance reports on the big bear stew, has been going around proposing this concoction:

"Mix together eight timber barons, 17 S.O.T.S, three big-game hunters, one outdoor editor, one forest protection association and one damage control program.

"Add 800 pounds of sap and simmer three months. Stir occasionally with an American Rifle Association big stick. When thoroughly done, export to Japan."

Olson says there aren't too many bears left. And if the bear population has to be regulated, he adds, "I wouldn't be against capturing them and having them sent somewhere."

But the McCleary lumberjacks have warned the S.O.B.S that they might come down with a severe case of logger's smallpox if they get too meddlesome.

Symptons of that disease, mountain folk say, are a lot of small holes in the skin, caused by those steel spikes that stick out of the soles of a timberman's boots.

So, who knows, maybe the S.O.T.S and the S.O.B.S will have such a rollicking time that somebody will have to send out an S.O.S.

Okay Glass Hulls

LONDON (AP) — Britannia, once the ruler of the waves with ships of oak and steel, has given its official blessing to glass reinforced plastic—GRP—for hull construction. A Royal Navy spokesman said GRP, tested semi-secretly as a minesweeper hull, could be used for large ship structures but probably won't be, and similar testing is going on in the United States.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 1

(Submitted by the 74th General Assembly)

☐ For

☐ Against

Adds secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer, and attorney general, in that order, to follow lieutenant governor, president pro tempore of senate, and speaker of house in line of succession to governor in case of vacancy or disability. Creates board composed of officers in line of succession plus majority floor leader of senate and house which may, by majority vote, declare governor unable to perform his official duties. If governor disagrees, supreme court decides issue.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said Court at office in the City of Sedalia, in said County this 5th day of July, 1968.

Spreads Junk Out For Tax Purposes

WALES, Mass. (AP) — Alex Ross spent three years repairing and improving his 12-room house on Main Street.

The result, he says, is that the town assessors increased his taxes. He really became upset, though, when he received a $35 tax bill on a former hen house which he tore down months ago.

He said the town officials told him they couldn't afford to allow the abatement.

"Apparently the secret to success in this town is to depress the value of your property," he said.

So now he has collected a pile of junk, which he has spread out over his front lawn.

Paralyzed Officer Will Be Married

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Walter Barclay, Jr., 25, a policeman paralyzed from the waist down by a burglar's bullet nearly two years ago, will exchange marriage vows Saturday with Peggy Zaccario, 20.

Barclay will stand for the ceremony, with the aid of braces, at a rehabilitation center where he is a patient.

Doctors say they have been unable to determine whether Barclay will ever walk again.

Hydroelectric Project Underway

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Writer

CHURCHILL FALLS, Nfld. (AP) — One of the world's largest hydroelectric projects is starting to come alive in the bleak, lake-speckled wilderness of central Labrador.

Black spruce, caribou moss and shrubs are being pushed aside to make way for construction crews and others laboring to harness the Churchill River and the water of various lakes for the $900-million development, centered 700 miles northeast of Montreal.

In the span of a year, an empty wasteland has grown into a temporary community of more than 1,500, and work has started on a permanent town.

Churchill Falls Labrador Corp. Ltd., plans to have the first two of 11 generators humming by 1972. When all are set in motion, by 1976, the output will reach 5,225,000 kilowatts, or 7 million horsepower. This makes it comparable to the ultimate output listed by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation for the Grand Coulee project.

New workers are arriving steadily. They land by plane on a dirt runway near Twin Falls, then are driven in by bus.

They cross the 540-foot-high Brinco Bridge which spans the Churchill River, and have their first glimpse of the mist and spray from the falls, about a half mile away.

Where men a year ago bunked in a few mud-encircled trailers, the newcomers get well-planned housing complete with hot showers and running water. And they eat well in a modern mess hall.

A separate part of the community is reserved for 70 or 50 families of the supervisory staff.

The heart of the permanent community, just west of the main construction camp, will be a town center housing under one roof most public services and facilities, including a school, stores, recreation hall, auditorium-move theater and a 21-room hotel. This center is expected to be completed early in 1969, along with a group of more than 100 homes.

A 12-bed hospital will be in operation early in 1969 to replace a temporary trailer hospital. A temporary school was opened in September 1967 to provide educational facilities for the 60 school-age children.

To round out the community, there are a two-man Royal Canadian Mounted Police detachment, a fire department, a post office, a bank, telephone and telegraph outlets, barber shop, tavern and food store.

Most of the supplies are shipped 286 miles by rail from Sept-Iles, on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River, to Esker, where they are transferred to trucks and hauled the remaining 120 miles to Churchill Falls. Shipments also are made by aircraft.

Computers help to keep the project on schedule. It is a series of separate jobs, largely hard-rock tunneling, that must be completed at specific times so as not to delay the start of new work.

The powerhouse is to be based in a huge chamber to be slashed out nearly a mile inside a rocky hill. The powerhouse will be 972 feet long, 81 feetwide and 164 feet high.

Inclined penstocks, the channels for sluicing water to the turbines, will be 1,200 feet long and 20 feet in diameter. Two millrace channels that will return the water to the river will each be 45 feet wide, 60 feet high and 5,600 feet long.

More than 40 miles of dikes will be thrown up to form reservoirs totaling 2,565 square miles.

Crews expect to complete this summer the blasting of an access tunnel, 33 feet wide and 28 feet high, to the power station site, 5,200 feet inside the hall. They've been at it since last November.

The tunnel, like a huge and dimly lit tomb, advances more than 30 feet a day to the sound of dynamite explosions.

Trucks heaped with broken rock roar along the man-made cavern, heavy with exhaust fumes despite a powerful ventilation system.

Men, black-faced and helmeted, their miners' lamps casting feeble rays, slosh about in hard-toed rubber boots, stepping into streams of seepage as the trucks roll by.

The men work 10-hour shifts six days a week, and often overtime.

A laser beam strikes the face of the tunnel. Engineers mark the spot and use it as a guide to keep the tunnel on course at an 8 per cent downward incline.

A drilling rig moves into place and dynamite holes are bored quickly into the solid rock. Then all men leave the tunnel and another section of rock is shattered.

Sunday is an off day. There are church services. Some men relax and do their laundry. Others fish the cold waters for speckled trout, which average between one and two pounds.

There's no crime problem. One of the chief reasons is that only persons connected with the project are allowed to venture into the community—and they come to work.

"We have the occasional complaint, a missing camera or a pair of binoculars," said Cpl. Pat Power, who heads the RCMP detachment. "But there's nothing serious."

Turbines and generators to be installed under a 1967 contract will have an output more than twice that of any hydroelectric equipment now in operation or under manufacture in North America. More than 90 per cent of the equipment will be manufactured in Canada.

The British Newfoundland Corp. Ltd., is the major shareholder in the corporation, with 63.3 per cent of Churchill Falls shares. Others are Hydro-Quebec with 16.3 per cent, Rio Algom Mines Ltd., with 10.4 per cent and the Newfoundland government with 10 per cent.

The Canadian government paved the way for smooth financing of the development by deciding to exempt nonresident investors from the 15 per cent withholding tax on first-mortgage bonds payable in U.S. dollars for the project.

Donald Gordon, chairman of Churchill Falls Labrador Corp., said the corporation intends to offer $400 million to $500 million of the first-mortgage bonds in the United States to help finance the project.

Hydro-Quebec, a provincial authority which distributes power in Quebec, announced July 12 the Quebec Cabinet has authorized it to contract for the purchase of electric power from the Churchill Falls corporation. The contract is expected to enable Hydro-Quebec to purchase almost all the power from the deslopment.

Girl Arrested In Narcotics Sales at School

OLIVETTE, Mo. (AP) — Police reported Thursday they arrested a 16-year-old girl and seized $1,400 in a shoe box which she said she made selling LSD and other drugs to high school students in Ladue, Olivette and other well-to-do high schools in west St. Louis County.

The girl was booked suspected of violating the juvenile code by sale of stimulant drugs. Her name was withheld.

Two officers said they saw a youth, who agreed to work with them in the case, receive an amphetamine capsule which the girl hnaded out her bedroom window. The sale was approved by telephone. The youth gave her two marked $5 bills.

The girl told officers she made the money during the last three weeks selling drugs. Police said she admitted obtaining the drugs from a man she met through a student at Washington University.

She said she paid the man $350 for 100 capsules of LSD, sending him a portion of the payment at an address in Oakland, Calif.

Will Make Housing Available to Negro

NEW YORK (AP) — The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. has agreed to make more apartments available to Negroes and Puerto Ricans in three large housing projects it owns.

The move was announced Thursday following discussions with the City Commission on Human Rights which had charged the company with "deliberate, intentional and systematic" exclusion of such persons.

Metropolitan, one of the city's biggest landlords, said it would stop giving preferential treatment to relatives of tenants in order to find room for minority group applicants.

The commission's complaints centered on the Stuyvesant Town, Peter Cooper Village and Parkchester developments, which have a total of more than 23,500 apartments. Metropolitan also owns a predominantly Negro project in Harlem.

Epiphany was first mentioned in 194. By the 4th century, the feast of Epiphany was widely accepted.

Travel Agencies Targets For Cuban Bombers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bombs believed detonated by anti-Castro Cubans ripped through four travel agencies and an office of the Shell Oil Building Friday police said.

Damage was minor in each case and no one was injured.

The first blast rocked the offices of the Mexican National Tourist Council in neighboring Beverly Hills. Within 17 minutes, bombs dropped through mail slots shook the Mexican Travel Agency, the tourist offices of Air France and a business office in the Shell building.

A fifth explosion occurred two hours later at Japan Air Lines.

Red, white and blue stickers reading "Unite Cuban Power" in Spanish were found on doorframes at each location, investigators said.

Experts in explosives were called to investigate.

Similar explosions have occurred in the New York metropolitan area where 10 foreign tourist or diplomatic offices have been bombed since April 22.

THE LAST AMERICAN

by Don Oakley and John Lane

18 Dollars and Doughboys

We must prevent the rise of any pronounced degree of intimacy between French officers and black officers . . . We must not eat with them, must not shake hands . . .

—"Secret Information Concerning Black Troops," issued by U.S. Army in 1918.

Deteriorating social and economic conditions in the South, a labor shortage in the North caused by a fall-off in European immigration after the start of World War I, an industrial boom as America turned itself into the arsenal of democracy—all these conspired to set off a great exodus of Negroes from the land in the second decade of the 20th century.

The North reacted with a policy of containment against the tens of thousands of Negroes streaming up from the South. New York's Harlem, once a desirable residential neighborhood, symbolized the ghetto-ization process taking place in the major cities.

In 1913, President Woodrow Wilson had segregated government eating and restroom facilities. Twenty bills proposing discrimination against Negroes had been introduced in Congress. In 1916, the Ku Klux Klan was revived and boasted five million members.

Yet when World War I came, Negro patriotism was never in doubt. "Close ranks," urged W.E.B. DuBois. A few weeks later, in the worst riot of the century, at least 40 Negroes were killed in East St. Louis, Ill., and thousands driven from their homes. In 1917, there were 39 lynchings; in 1918, 58.

Some 367,000 Negroes entered the armed forces, about half of them serving in France. Bowing to Negro pressure, the Army trained 1,400 officers, but Negroes were barred entirely from the Marine Corps and air service and given only menial jobs in the Navy.

Of numerous outstanding black units, one was the 369th Infantry, which saw 191 days of continuous action in the trenches. The Germans called them the "Hell Fighters" and the French decorated the entire regiment with the Croix de Guerre and Legion of Honor.

They had helped make the world safe for democracy, for a time, but if they thought anything had changed in America, returning Negro troops were quickly disillusioned. More than 70 Negroes, including 10 war veterans, were lynched in the first postwar year. More than 20 riots broke out around the country in the "Red Summer" of 1919.

But something was different. In Detroit, Washington, Chicago, Tulsa, Longview, Tex., Negroes were fighting back and whites were dying for a change.

Joe A. Marshall of Marshall Junction is a member of the resolutions committee for the 1968 Annual MFA Convention. The committee met in Columbia, Saturday, July 13, and drafted tenative resolutions. These are being mailed out for consideration of local MFA groups. The committee will again meet on August 11 to consider additions, changes and other recommendations made by local groups. The resolutions will be voted on by the convention on Monday, August 12.

When University Opens

PARIS (AP) — France fears no long hot summer of rioting, but the fall and winter may be stormy.

The universities, headquarters of the springtime rioting, have been closed. Many buildings are under police guard.

Student admirers of Che Guevara and Mao Tse-tung need the buildings as sanctuaries from which to organize. Traditionally, French police stay out of the universities.

Traditionally, too, it is students who raised the barricades. But like most well-to-do people in France they are now thinking more about vacations than about their usual concerns. Only about 8 per cent of French students come from working class families.

Most students seem to prefer the cool waters of the Atlantic or even the hot beaches of the Mediterranean to the sticky sidewalks of Paris. The revolution-minded students are in a minority anyhow. There are 160,000 young people registered in all the branches of the University of Paris. The vast majority stayed quietly at home during the riots.

The holiday mood normally lasts until mid-September, when elementary and high school classes start. The university term starts in October, but worried authorities already are talking about all the time it will take to repair the damage caused by student occupation. They could keep the Sorbonne closed until November.

Whenever it opens, students may try to occupy it again.

Meanwhile, Jacques Sauvageot, president of the extremist National Union of French Students, is trying hard to organize summer schools devoted to revolutionary studies. The authorities are refusing to let him use school buildings.

"If we can't have them in the universities," he told a news conference, "we'll have them somewhere else. We'll ask the trade unions to let us use the labor exchanges."

The labor exchanges are government property, but used mostly by the unions for meetings.

Sauvageot's idea foreshadowed another bid to get support for revolutionary action from the unions—especially from the Communist-led General Confederation of Workers, the biggest of them. During the May riots the students failed to get this backing. Many were bitter at the Communists and accused them of betraying revolutionary principles.

There was some cooperation between students and young workers dissatisfied with union leadership. But for the most part the Communists succeeded in holding down violence.

For example, students tried to get special trains to take them from Paris to suburban Flins, when there were clashes between police and workers in the Renault Auto Works there. Railway workers, on orders from union headquarters, refused to help.

This was a big and bitter pill for some Communists to swallow. Some didn't, and quit the party.

Waldeck Rochet, the party leader, explained apologetically to the Central Committee that the workers would have been "massacred" if there had been a general uprising. President Charles de Gaulle, he noted, had assured himself of army support.

Sugar, bread and milk have already gone up, and some rents. So have cars, hospital costs, taxicabs and the price of visiting Orly Airport. By the end of the year the big wage increases granted to end the strikes may well have been absorbed by the price increases.

Churches Take Positive Steps to Help Negroes

Rising in the Ranks

Describing himself as that of "a black priest as pastor in a black community," Rev. Harold A. Salmon, a 38-year-old Catholic priest was appointed pastor of St. Charles Borromeo Church in the heart of New York City's Harlem. Along with this important first, a Negro pastor in the Archdiocese of New York, Father Salmon was also named Vicariate Delegate for the seven parishes of Harlem. The lanky, athletic native New York priest stands in front of his church with a young friend in his arms. (AP)

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

America's major churches are no longer just talking about bolstering the status of Negroes; they are doing something about it. Only action counts, as the "white churches" are pouring their resources into practical aid for blacks and other poor.

It's "the white crisis," says Metthew Ahmann, of Chicago, executive director of the National Catholic Conference for Inter-racial Justice.

Gone is the time for "highsounding resolutions," declared the recent governing convention of the United Methodist Church. "God is speaking through the disillusioned, the angry ones, the poor."

That conviction has swelled with dramatic rapidity into a vast, hastily set up and spreading movement to put church action and funds into bettering Negro conditions.

It has involved denomination-wide programs and large sums, as well as interfaith projects by Protestants, Orthodox, Catholics and Jews, along with varied undertakings by individual dioceses, groups and congregations.

It means turning "understanding and trust" into "underwriting and cash" for the ghetto, says the Rev. Albert B. Cleage, a militant Negro minister of the United Church of Christ in Detroit.

Generally, the emergency programs insist that subsidized projects be run by Negroes and the poor themselves.

This means correcting "a long-standing error in the church's relationship with black people," says the Rev. Charles E. Cobb, head of the Committee for Racial Justice of the United Church of Christ.

Instead of "doing for people," he adds, it involves supporting endeavors which they themselves determine and direct.

"Nothing less than a massive attack on the root causes of injustice to the Negro is called for," said Arthur S. Flemming, president of the National Council of Churches, which has launched a broad attack on the problem

And one denomination after another alloted large shares of its budget to the cause, the total already coming close to $50 million.

Along with the emergency reshuffling of church funds, religious bodies whipped together an array of joint, sometimes overlapping action fronts, tagged with a potpourri of names and acronyms.

There's "J-SAC," the Joint Strategy and Action Committee for linking efforts of Protestant leaders and specialists.

There's "IFCO," the Interreligious Foundation for Community Organization, channelling Protestant, Catholic and Jewish aid to local social-action organizations in ghetto areas across the country.

There's also "Operation Connection," a national, interfaith undertaking initiated by Episcopal Presiding Bishop John E. Hines to mobilize white funds and influence behind poverty-action groups in major cities.

Religious leaders were involved in other widely based operations, such as "Urban Coalition," which also enlists business, labor and government agencies, and the "Poor People's Campaign," of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Denominational commitments of funds for the purpose of funds for the purpose included:

—A $9-million allocation by the Episcopal Church for the trienium, with more than half a million already granted to local community groups. Another million in reserve funds is being transferred to Negro-run banks as "seed money" for loans to ghetto enterprises.

—A $20-million "Fund for Reconciliation" authorized by United Methodists to aid community action groups and other operations for "constructive social change" in the slums. Methodists also shifted $3 million in funds for investment in ghetto businesses.

—An order by the United Presbyterian Church for transfer of an estimated $9 million, representing 30 per cent of unrestricted funds of its agencies, to investment in housing and businesses in impoverished areas.

—Roman Catholic bishops set up an urban task force, expected to channel aid and services "in the millions" into the Negro struggle for equality, and numerous dioceses have earmarked special funds of $1 million or more for the purpose.

—A shift of $3.7 million in the budget of the Lutheran Church in America to aid inner-city churches and community organizations, and a $1 million allocation by the American Lutheran Church to subsidize urban church work.

The National Council of Churches, a cooperative body of major Protestant and Orthodox denominations, has allocated $300,000 to coordinate efforts of member churches in the crisis, plus a $200,000 fund for ghetto development projects.

Besides the large-scale undertakings on a national level, church-spurred action groups and projects to reinforce Negro rights and fight racism have sprung up in virtually every city.

Individual congregations and regional units also acted. For example:

In Cincinnati, an experimental, city-wide congregation of Presbyterians was being formed with no building of its own, but with a pastor and particular objective of overcoming white racism and points of friction.

In Wayne, Pa., the Central Baptist church voted to devote $100,000, by mortgaging its church if necessary, to a crash program to alleviate the ills of "inadequate housing, education and employment" in Philadelphia's inner city.

In Detroit, Catholic Archbishop John F. Dearden booked a $1-million fund to help those trapped in ghetto life and to fight racism which he called "a moral cancer.... in the hearts of the white community."

"The churches are in action on the poverty front in a quantity and depth that has proved amazing," writes Elma L. Greenwood, after a five-month survey of 60 religious related antipoverty projects across the country.

Demonstration Has Very Good Support

HONOLULU (AP) — Few demonstrations draw such popular support as the one at the University of Hawaii.

A group of bikini-clad university coeds protested a new rule against wearing bikinis in the university swimming pool.

Gladys Yoshihara, pool attendant, said of the bikini wearers: "It doesn't look good. Their shorts slide off when they hit the water."

The elevated university pool has large plate glass windows on its sides so that visitors can see the swimmers from below.

The university has had to place the viewing windows off limits.

Theater Group Casts Lot With a Small Community

SPRING GREEN, Wis. (AP) — For what may be the first time in the nation, a professional metropolitan theater company—the Milwaukee Repertory Theater—has cast its lot for the summer with a small community.

And the audience of local farmers and merchants, who turned out in their Sunday best during the opening week at the Robert E. Gard Theater here, appeared, after a startled pause, to love the initial production.

Wisconsin theater pioneer Robert E. Gard, after whom the theater is named, said: "Our intention in these experiments has always been to furnish artistically fine events in communities to expand the horizons of the citizens."

What can be seen in and around Spring Green this summer, however, Gard said, is not meant to be a "mere banquet of plays and the allied arts."

"You will see a sincere attempt by hundreds of persons, both professional and volunteer, to root the arts in an area—in southwestern Wisconsin."

The MRT has opened its six-week summer season—June 19 to July 28—in conjunction with a project called "Arts in the Uplands," which is designed to bring together many facets of the arts to a rural area of the state.

The Uplands program includes, in addition to MRT's repertory, classes and workshops for scholarship students chosen from throughout the state and adult students from the Uplands area. These career-oriented students are studying tpeater, opera, ballet, oil and acrylic painting, water color, pottery, and life drawing.

Gard says he hopes this summer's experiment will become a standard to be followed by other regions of the country.

MRT, whose summer season is funded by the University Extension Arts of the University of Wisconsin, is presenting in alternating repertory, "Mary Stuart" by the 18th century playwright Friedrich von Schiller, "Amphitryon 38" by Jean Giraudoux, a contemporary French playwright, and Tennessee Williams' "A Streetcar Named Desire."

Charles McCallum, MRT managing director, said: "If the desired fusion takes place among the MRT company, the Arts in the Uplands program and public interest, the summer of 1968 may well emerge as a turning point not only for us, but for the future of the art of theater in Wisconsin. The opportunity of having a summer home would enable MRT to keep its company working together practically on a permanent, year-round basis. And this may prove to be one of the initial steps toward the Wisconsin State Theater concept."

Old Swimming Hole Is Ordered Closed

GREENFIELD, Ind. (AP) — The "old swimming hole" in Brandywine Creek, subject of an 1883 poem by James Whitcomb Riley, was ordered closed Thursday by Dr. R. E. Kinneman, Hancock County health officer.

The wide place in the creek, a half-mile outside Greenfield when Riley was a boy in the 19th century, now is surrounded by building developments.

Dr. Kinneman said the creek now is polluted from sewers and septic tanks and unsafe for swimming.

Pages Slow Down Girl's Reading

By JOSEPH R. TYBOR
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — In the time it takes most people to read the label on a cereal box, 15-year-old Maria Teresa Calderon could read half a book or more if she didn't have to turn the pages.

Her teacher says Maria, of Manila, the Philippines, reads at a rate of 50,000 words a minute with nearly 100 per cent comprehension, while adult readers average 300 words a minute at 60 per cent or less comprehension.

"I think I'd like to read the encyclopedia from A to Z," Maria said in an interview Thursday.

Unbelievable? The teacher, Dr. Florence Schale, director of the reading improvement program at Northwestern University's evening division, said Maria proved her skill in a test.

Maria read a four-page article for the final test of a five-week rapid reading course. She zipped through the article, containing 3,135 words, in 3.5 seconds—an average of more than 53,600 words per minute.

The nonfiction material, which she had never seen before, was prepared for the college senior level.

Maria was one of 12 students who this week completed the course developed by Dr. Schale, who was quick to point out that Maria "is an exceptional child."

The third youngest of seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Jose D. Calderon of Quezon City. Maria has been in the United States for nine months. Her native language is tagalog. The family speaks English and tagalog at home.

Her father is a lawyer in Manila, president of the Philippines Petroleum Association and a member of the Manila stock exchange. Her mother, Betty, is a former history professor at the Philippines Women's College and a former lieutenant governor of Nueva Vizcaya province in the Philippines.

Maria, the fifth of the Calderon children to study in the United States, will return to high school in the autumn as a junior at St. Clare Academy in Sinsinawa, Wis.

Veteran Teacher Philosophical About Today's 'Generation Gap'

By JAN VISENTIN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The "generation gap" was the topic in a recent interview with Miss Hazel Gray, 308 West Third, retired after 47 years of teaching in the public schools.

Miss Gray began her teaching career after her graduation from the old Sedalia High School, 608 South Massachusetts, now Central Business College, by teaching in rural schools in Pettis County. From there, she taught two years at Broadway Elementary School, then at Martha Letts Junior High School here, and for the past 37 years, at Smith-Cotton High School.

Miss Hazel Gray

"The generation gap certainly does exist," said Miss Gray, "but people are acting as if this thing is something completely new, and as if we were the first discoverers of its existence and we're not, therefore the subject is overemphasized.

"Communications, understanding, and education — all are connected with the term, 'the generation gap,'" said Miss Gray. "Education because we are a more aware people; we are better educated toward solving problems like the one we've all recognized between parents and children; teachers and students."

Understanding between the two groups is difficult because youth and age have always and will always see things in a much different light, Miss Gray asserts. "For, where youth is daring, age is cautious; where youth is optimistic, age is carefully pessimistic. And as a result — the generation gap," she adds.

"Another contributing factor is that sometimes parents and teachers feel that so much in our world is printed or broadcast that it is seemingly unnecessary for the parent or teacher to talk to the child...afraid of being repetitious. Thus we miss the individual level of communication. It's a big mistake for a teacher to think that just because something is in the textbook, the student will understand. It isn't going to jump from that book into their minds."

Miss Gray sees a challenge behind the generation gap. "Our civilization has changed more in the past 50 years than it did in 5,000. People are disturbed and shaken by change, and only as a measure of this present youth generation's intelligence will we know the outcome."

Asked about her faith in these youth and that outcome, she adds a cheery: "I think they'll survive."

Bothered With More Than Storm

Wednesday night's violent weather across the Sedalia area caused considerable damage to scattered properties one of which was the property of W. R. Bottom, 1408 West Ninth. A limb on the tree in front of Bottom's house was blown down and landed on his roof and garage causing heavy damage both to the roof and the ceilings in one room of the house and the garage.

But this was not the end of Bottom's troubles.

The tree, which sets on city easement, was home to a hive of bees. After the limb was blown down, the bees kept the neighborhood on their toes. The tree was in the process of being removed to allow the street to be curbed and guttered. When Al Knox, 1819 South Montgomery, who is removing the tree, returned to work on the tree Thursday the bees held up his work considerably.

Kenneth Durrill, 1405 South Carr, who keeps bees, was called to the Bottom residence to solve the problem. Durrill moved the bees' honey comb to a beekeeper's box and hoped the bees would follow. They did and by late evening and after a few stings the bees were under control.

Garden Club No. 4 Has Annual Picnic

Garden Club No. 4, met July 12 at the home of Mrs. George Dabner for its annual picnic. There were 34 present including guests. The evening was spent in general discussion of garden club affairs.

Ann Landers

Famished Sitter Should Eat Too

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the woman who complained about a sitter who helped herself to a third of a pie and ate large holes in the company ham. I agree a sitter has no right to do this but there are two sides to every story. May I speak for the thousands of baby sitters who get so hungry they almost pass out?

I have sat in homes where a cockroach could starve to death. I realize the people I sit for don't owe me a banquet, Ann, but a growing girl who runs after kids for five or six hours needs something to keep her strength up.

A bag of potato chips and a soft drink is not going to bankrupt anybody. If Mrs. Housewife would set something aside for the sitter she wouldn't have to worry about being eaten out of house and home. — MISS REASONABLE

Dear Miss: Thank you for your suggestion on how Mrs. Housewife can best protect her company ham and guest pie against the famished sitter. I agree a sitter is entitled to a little refreshment, and a thoughtful lady will provide it.

Dear Ann Landers: I was impressed with the answer you gave "Ceiling Zero." I only hope the dumb bunny listens to you. If the kept women in this country knew what their married sweethearts really thought of them there would be a lot less back street action.

Three years ago I suspected my husband had a friend on the side. He denied it for two years and then I ran into him — checking into a motel one Saturday afternoon. She was outside in the car. I had dropped in to get some ice cream. When they saw me they'd liked to die. My husband handed her money to take a taxi and then followed me home in his car. We had a frank talk and I told him he could have a divorce if he wanted it.

Did he accept my offer? He did not. He said she was nothing but a plaything and he would never marry her — that she wasn't fit to shine my shoes much less fill them. We both had a good cry and he begged me to forgive him and let him prove what a good husband he could be. I agreed to try it.

The following morning the woman called and asked me to forgive her. She said my husband had told her I was an invalid and she was shocked to see me walk into that place.

So you see, Ann, liars play it both ways. Please publish this. It could be a post-graduate course in life for your readers. — HOLDER OF THE DIPLOMA

Dear Holder: Are you listening, students?

Dear Ann Landers: Please help me, Ann. My folks are too old and too square to know anything about love. Besides, all they do is fight. I am 15 but could pass for 19. I can buy beer in any tavern without showing an ID card. My problem is I have fallen in love with a very handsome guy who is an actor. Neil is 23 and I'm sure he'll be a big star some day. He wants me to marry him but we have no money and he isn't working at present. I could go to work and tide us over until Neil gets a good part. Don't tell me I'm a foolish kid because love is for the young and this is the real thing. Give me some encouragement. — JONQUIL

Dear Jonquil: How lucky can a girl get? You're only 15 and you can buy beer any place and now you've found an out-of-work actor who wants to marry you! Two months of boardinghouse beans will shake the rocks out of your head, Kiddo. Tell the guy "Good-bye and good luck."

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage — What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

TV Serial Considered 'Paradise'

By BARBARA RUSH

EDITOR'S NOTE—Life in ABC's "Peyton Place" may be a long series of tribulations, not to mention murder trials, that would break the strongest mind. But for one performer paid to suffer professionally, ABC's evening serial is a dream job. Barbara Rush, who recently joined the cast, tells about it.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Peyton Place" comes as close to being an actor's paradise as can be found in television. There are a few drawbacks—a lack of travel for location filming and the fact that you won't achieve the fantastic fame that a hit motion picture can bring—but there are other compensations.

Few shows on television, aside from anthology dramas, have strong acting scenes. By that I mean most teleplays are all plot and there is not enough face-to-face dialogue between the characters. "Peyton Place" is thought of as being an intricately plotted show, and in many ways it is, but the characters talk to each other more than is possible on the action-adventure programs.

With a continuing drama too, there is greater opportunity for actors and actresses to help develop the character of the part they are playing. It is not like a play where you interpret just what the author has written. You find that you are putting something of yourself into the role. There is a lot more of me in the Marsha Russell part than I ever thought there would be.

One of the reasons for this is that the actors confer with the writers of the show on the parts they are playing. As a consequence, I am playing Marsha more strongly than the writers originally intended.

If I disagree with the writers on some point, we discuss it. I don't always win my point, but if I don't, at least I know why a scene is written the way it is for me to play.

The hours I work have been heaven for me, but I don't know whether they would suit all actresses. I work three days a week, and sometimes only two because there is a large cast. This gives me time to be with my family and to take care of other things I want to do.

I have turned down two offers to do pictures during the summer hiatus the company will take because I don't want to work any harder.

The repertory theater character of the show is invaluable for the young actors and "Peyton Place" has helped develop a lot of good young talent such as Mia Farrow and Leigh Taylor-Young.

There is time for the fine directors on the show to correct mistakes and to give them some help, which is not always true on daytime television serials.

Actors also have an instant showcase for their talents in the living rooms of many of the top producers and directors in Hollywood who watch the show, looking for new faces and ability.

Crossroads Comment

The definition that an old-timer is something old-fashioned may be a bit irritating to veterans past 70 who would rather have younger persons consider them as lively pros.

They say that the breaking point between advanced maturity and that of becoming an old-timer occurs when you overindulge in reminiscing about the past. Some individuals resist this impulse as an uncertain method of not being dated.

This is a mistake because older persons find much enjoyment in both silent and conversational recollections of incidents and personalities encountered in years gone by.

While I am writing in the personal vein, an episode Thursday night illustrates how an old-timer gets started on a meditative binge.

United States Senator Edward V. Long and Mrs. Long in company with Mr. and Mrs. Henry V. Salveter; the Senator's administrative assistant, Dan Miles; and brother D. Kelly stopped out front of 712 West Third for greetings and handshaking enroute to the Senator's birthday party and picnic rally at Liberty Park.

Even though I have been a friend of his for many years, as an old-timer I was overwhelmed by this gracious courtesy of a United States Senator traveling on a tight schedule.

The incident sparked reflections about the days when the political great and near great were callers and guests of Col. and Mrs. George H. Scruton at the family home, 724 West Third St.

Fifty-four years ago, United States Senator James A. Reed was a guest for dinner one evening and that occurrence left an impression. A couple of years later the Senator became a personal benefactor by giving me an appointment to West Point. I didn't make the grade in mathematics. Maybe it is just as well I didn't become a military man because thereafter I determined to follow the newspaper profession in the steps of Senior Editor GHS. Subsequently, the experiences in this position during 31 years have been thoroughly gratifying to me and intermittently afford meditative enjoyment for an old-timer.

GHS, Jr.

Washington Merry-Go-round

Fortas May Lose Liberal Support

—Fortas: White House Conferee—

On November 19, 1967, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that Justice Abe Fortas had participated in various conferences in the White House regarding Vietnam and other problems. Pearson and Anderson referred to this in several subsequent columns.

On July 16, 1968, this was the highlight of Justice Fortas's testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee during the consideration of his appointment as Chief Justice.

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Justice Abe Fortas's admission that he gave advice to President Johnson on high policies of state has strengthened Senate opposition to his confirmation. In fact, his testimony that he had summarized the advice of others on Vietnam for the President may have lost him support among some liberal senators.

It had long been known in Washington society that the Fortases cancelled out on dinner parties because they were suddenly called to intimate family dinners at the White House.

It was also known that President Johnson had asked Fortas's advice on a great many subjects ranging from whom he would appoint to the regulatory agencies, to the war in Vietnam. The President himself has been quite frank about this, even when Fortas himself was denying it.

On more than one occasion after he was appointed to the Supreme Court, Fortas remarked bellicosely that it was libel per se to print reports that he had been conferring with President Johnson. Obviously this was a sensitive matter — though he has now confessed it to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

But the President himself was not so sensitive, and frankly informed many people that Justice Fortas was one of the trusted friends on whom he leaned for advice.

—No. 1 Hawk—

Now it develops from Fortas's own testimony that he must have been the leading hawk among the war advisers. This had been suspected but never documented.

The President numbered among his advisers Secretary of State Rusk, who assumed the role of impartiality; former Secretary of Defense McNamara, a definite dove; Ambassador Averell Harriman, a dove; Walt Rostow, a hawk; Under Secretary of State George Ball, a dove; Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, a dove; the Joint Chiefs of Staff, hawks; and Clark Clifford, who since he has become Secretary of Defense has been revealed as something of a dove.

If Justice Fortas summarized this conflicting advice for the President, then by his own testimony it would appear that he kept the President on a war course which turned out to be one of the most disastrous in the history of the United States; a course which has undermined the other truly great domestic accomplishments of the President.

—Other Fortas Advice—

Testifying on other matters, Fortas glossed over his persistent recommendation that U.S. Attorney David Bress be made a U.S. District Judge. Bress has been an excellent U.S. attorney and deserves reward. However, the basic point is whether a member of the Supreme Court should recommend judgeships. Under the constitutional separation of the executive from the judiciary, he should not. Yet Fortas recommended Bress as U.S. attorney in the first place, and then asked that he be promoted to be a judge in the second place.

He was also firm in vetoing such men as New York Attorney Louis Nizer to be Attorney General, though this occurred before Fortas assumed his position on the bench.

No Supreme Court Justice has conferred with the President more than has Fortas, except for Justice Felix Frankfurter, who was a notorious busybody in running back and forth between the court and the White House.

All of this runs counter to the long history of the United States in which the Chief Justice has been completely independent of the White House, sometimes at loggerheads with it.

It began with Chief Justice John Marshall, whom Thomas Jefferson described as "a crafty Chief Justice who sophisticates the law to his mind by the turn of his own reasoning."

Yet it was John Marshall who probably more than any other man used the Supreme Court to keep the early struggling states from becoming a loose-knit federation. Had it not been for John Marshall's tough decisions and his independence of the White House, the United States would not be the powerful country it is today.

The tug-of-war between the court and the White House continued under Abraham Lincoln, who said of the Dred Scott Decision that it got the doctrine of democracy down "as thin as the homeopathic soup made by boiling the shadow of a pigeon that had starved to death."

On the other hand there was the close and secret liaison between President Buchanan and Justice Catron of Tennessee and Justice Grier of Pennsylvania by which Buchanan knew in advance that the Missouri compromise was to be held invalid.

Among the more recent Chief Justices, Charles Evans Hughes was horrified when President Roosevelt suggested conferences between him and the court.

Perhaps the ideal relationship between the President and the Chief Justice has been that between Earl Warren and Lyndon Johnson. They maintain friendly, cordial relations, but remain completely aloof where policy is concerned.

In the case of Justice Fortas it is easy to understand why Lyndon Johnson, having leaned on Abe for advice for 30 years, continued to lean on him after he went to the Supreme Court. It was a natural relationship and Fortas's advice on domestic matters was brilliant. The question, however, is, first, whether this was a correct relationship; and, second, whether the advice of a man who knew nothing about foreign affairs was not disastrous for the American people.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Troop 54, Boy Scouts, camped three days on Flat Creek, southeast of Sedalia under the supervision of Scoutmaster H. N. Lambirth and Assistant Charles Iuchs. Monday parents and friends to the number of 60 joined them for a picnic. The menu was frog legs and salads. The Rev. J. Fred King assisted in preparation of the repast.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Columbia ten-man golf team won the second match of the inter-city tournament with 396½ points at the Jefferson City Country club. Sedalia was second with 273 points; Jefferson City third with 262; Fulton fourth with 238½ points. Sedalia players were: Emil Neff, Roy W. Rucker, Tom Cloney, Sonny Stafford, John Z. Montgomery and Jack Crawford.

NINETY YEARS AGO

At city council meeting Alderman John F. Antes suggested that something should be done regarding Pearl River (A stream running through the Ohio street business section.) Alderman Latour moved that the hose be turned into this stream and others once each week or more often if necessary, and thus be washed out. Adopted. Dr. Trader through Mr. Antes suggested that a close be placed across Ohio street to carry away the obnoxious gases.

Vote, Register, Too

What does it profit the Negroes to have the right to vote if they are encouraged by their leaders to stay away from the polls? Roy Innes, Acting Director of the Congress of Racial Equality, is urging his members to register but not vote. He says, "It is really irrelevant which one of these guys become President. Black people should refuse once and for all to accept the lesser of two evils." By registering and not voting, says Innis, who is supported by Floyd B. McKissick (Director of CORE on leave of absence), "It will show large black political potential and force both parties to then respond to our programs."

Fortunately for the country, the leaders of CORE do not represent all the Negroes who are eligible to vote. Many of them will be voting for President and other candidates for the first time in their lives and are thrilled to have the privilege. Roy Wilkins, leader of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, says that the United States has enough major civil rights legislation to accomplish broad objectives for colored people. His members and many others will be at the polls in November.

SACRED PEAK

Four faiths hold Adam's Peak in Ceylon as sacred. A five-foot depression at the rocky summit is believed by Buddhists to be the footprint of Buddha; Hindus claim it is for their god Siva; local Christions for St. Thomas; and Moslems for Adam.

DAVID POLING

A Guide for Churchmen To Political Conventions

As our two great political parties gather for their national conventions, let us consider their startling similarity to religious convocations and, at times, worship services. (Convention watching is more of endurance than education, but so are so many church conferences.)

Since party conventions attract the faithful, (the professional, and the loyal worker) their devotion and affection for the cause has an intensity and fervor equal to that of religion. Instead of a profession of faith, the convention delegate "pledges" himself to a candidate and publicly announces his allegiance. Like a churchman, he often comes under pressure, emerges as a backslider or for good reasons switches to another, more exciting and winning candidate.

Church members know all about this, too. They move from denomination to denomination, struggle with church splits, argue over loyalty to the National Council of Churches. Just as political conventions have religious fervor, so churches develop party spirit and personality cults.

Party conventions have sermons, anthems and prayers of confession. The prayers of confession are called the party platform. Here the group admits that it has fallen short and proposes steps to improve the party and the country. The sin of segregation, poverty and war may be mentioned by more devout politicians.

Normally, the errors confessed belong to the opposition and this is repeated with constant support and "amens'" from the delegates. In a political convention, like the church, evil is the failure of other human beings. Forgiveness and right living means following the newly adopted platform.

Anthems are sung throughout the program. The praise may be sung to a person ("Hello, Lyndon") or to a state ("California, Here I Come") or to a bygone era ("Battle Hymn of the Republic"). Hymns of encouragement ("Dixie") are sung to lost causes and rising blocs sing to their future ("We Shall Overcome'"). Although collections are known to exist, a public offering has never been received at a political convention. Money and contributions are discreetly handled in private.

The sermon is delivered toward the close of the convention. Although many speeches are made, the major address is given by the party's presidential candidate. Like the preacher, he urges his members to settle their differences, close ranks and support the party (or church). Sometimes there is sort of an altar call at the close, with defeated rivals standing around in a smiling embrace.

The victor forgives the losers; the losers pledge eternal loyalty and the convention watchers wait another four years for the next episode.

Like church, the political conventions always have another meeting, a budget to raise and candidates to support. And remember, political parties, like theological powers, have their heretics. Henry Wallace in 1948 and George Wallace in 1968 are good examples. Whereas the church, in bygone days, would have settled this problem with the rack and the stake, the conventions have been much wiser. They use the ballot box.

Opening lead—♣ 10

Today's hand is an old timer with a new twist. Seven diamonds is a reasonable contract, except for one thing. There is no real play for it because declarer has two clubs in each hand and can only discard three hearts on dummy's top spades.

On the other hand, most declarers will make the contract against any lead but a spade by cashing two clubs and all the trumps. East and West are each likely to guard spades and will have to discard down to one heart each in order to do so.

Of course, if South bids hearts along the way, West may count up and decide that his partner will hold at least four spades, whereupon West will throw spades early.

The new twist is supplied by British writer Victor Mollo. South is a very bad, but very lucky, player who reached seven diamonds as shown in the box.

He carefully won the first club with dummy's queen and led a diamond to his ace. When East showed out, declarer, who couldn't count very well, decided to go back to dummy with the ace of clubs to finesse the diamonds. He was so intent on this that he led dummy's jack of diamonds.

At this point, there was no way to get to dummy for the three top spades. An ordinary poor player would realize this and play ace and one heart to get out for down one but Mollo's man was built of sterner stuff. He wouldn't lose a trick until he had to and he ran out all his trumps.

East threw one spade early but West did not discard a spade. Eventually, declarer played his ace of hearts and was about to concede down several when he discovered that all his small hearts were good and he made his grand slam!

My House and I

When my house is straightened up real nice
And everything's just so,
Then I smile with satisfaction — but —
Does company come — oh, no;
When everything is put away
Out of sight and in its place,
And I have on a nice clean dress,
Have fixed my hair and face,
Nobody has the urge, it seems,
I really don't know why,
But no one wants to see me then,
For not a soul comes by;
Yet let me start to houseclean
With everything a mess
And I'm in wornout, dirty slacks,
Instead of a clean dress,
When things are scattered all around and piled up everywhere,
When I'm as dirty as can be—
Without an empty chair,
That's just the time my doorbell rings,
I patter down the hall,
Somebody there to sell things
Sombody there to call,
Somebody there for something,
It matters little what,
When I'm messed up somebody's there
And I wish they were not;
There are boxes and papers
Strewn everywhere about,
Drawers are standing open
And everything is out;
That's the time that everyone
It seems I ever knew
Decides to come to my house,
I wonder why they do?
When I would be so happy
When everything is clean
To have them drop in on me,
If you know what I mean,
But that is not when people choose
To come and visit me,
It's when the house and I, it seems,
Are quite a sight to see.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Use of Laxatives Can Cause Gas Pains

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — When I eat my meals, or even when I drink fluids, I get loud rumblings from my stomach. What causes this? Can anything be done to stop it?

A — The rumblings come from a mixture of gas and fluids, not in your stomach but in your intestines. It is increased by taking laxatives, eating foods that are known gas-formers and the nervous habit of air swallowing. For complete relief you must avoid the cause. For temporary relief, a defrothing agent, such as activated charcoal, is worth a try. Several new defrothers that contain methylpolysiloxane are available but their effectiveness has not been conclusively proved.

Q — I get severe chest pains during the night. My doctor says they are gas pains. Why would gas pains persist for over two years?

A — They will persist indefinitely unless your doctor can find and remove the cause.

Q — Is it true that a person with a heart condition should not take baking soda to cause belching and relieve the gas in her stomach?

A — Gas in the stomach or intestines may irritate a sensitive heart by causing pressure on it. Soda combining with the acid gastric juice would increase the amount of gas in the stomach. Conscious efforts to belch also increase the gas because they are invariably accompanied by air swallowing. Bicarbonate of soda is rarely given any more because its chief use (alkalinizing the stomach contents and the blood) is better served by using other antacids that neither form gas in the stomach nor stimulate a rebound production of acid gastric juice.

Q — How does measles injure the ear? What other causes of nerve deafness are there?

A — Middle-ear infection (otitis media) is a common complication of measles. If it is not cured promptly it may extend into the inner ear and cause permanent deafness.

Nerve deafness may be caused by other febrile diseases, such as mumps, influenza, scarlet fever, malaria, typhoid fever and emningitis. An overdose of quinine, salicylates (including aspirin) and streptomycin; exposure to loud noises and some types of skull fracture also cause nerve deafness.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q — I teach school and usually take a course or two in the summer. Has there been any change in the law regarding the deductibility of these expenses?

A — No, tax deductions for education can be taken under the same conditions this year as they were last year.

Briefly, an educational expense is deductible if the course is required by your employer or is necessary to maintain or improve the skills required on your present job. No deduction can be taken for courses needed to meet the minimum requirements of a job or to obtain a new job.

For example, the tax laws permit a teacher to deduct the cost of a course taken to maintain his teaching skills but it won't permit a deduction for courses taken to qualify as a teacher.

For additional details send a post card to your district director requesting a free copy of "Educational Expenses" Document No. 5952.

JOBS AND VISION

In 1820, 87 per cent of the U.S. working population did jobs that called mainly for muscle and stamina but, today, 75 per cent of the 25,000 new job classifications that didn't even exist 40 years ago put a high demand on good vision.

BEAR SWIMMER

The polar bear is an expert swimmer. It has been seen on ice floes more than 200 miles from land and has voyaged to Iceland and Greenland. It may travel as far south as the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

The Passet, berthed in Hamburg, Germany, since its retirement in 1949, was the last great square-rigged sailing ship to engage in commercial trade.

Happy Candidate

"As Ohio goes, so will the Republican Party," says New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller as he points toward Ohio Gov. James Rhodes during a rally on the steps of the State House in Columbus, Ohio. Examiner Advises Air Line Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — A recommendation that Ozark Air Lines be authorized to provide nonstop service between St. Louis and Chicago was made Thursday by Civil Aeronautics Board examiner Ross I. Newmann.

The CAB may adopt the recommendation if no petition for review is filed within 10 days.

Newmann indicated one effect of the change would be to provide Joplin and Springfield, Mo., with more expedited Chicago service.

At present, Ozark is required to make at least one intermediate stop on one of its routes between St. Louis and Chicago and at least two on another route.

Ozark has used DC9 jets on the route between Joplin and Springfield, Mo., and Chicago since mid-1966, operating by way of St. Louis and either Peoria or Springfield, Ill.

"There is no need for this amount of service between Joplin-Springfield, Mo., and Peoria-Springfield. . .

"The effect is that these Missouri passengers needlessly preempt Chicago seats which otherwise would be available for passengers at the Illinois intermediates," Newmann said.

"Conversely, the Illinois pasgers.

Newmann said Ozark plans in 1969 to delete either Peoria or Springfield, Ill., from two roundtrip jet flights to Chicago and plans to replace the Illinois service with two new jet roundtrips between Chicago and St. Louis serving the Illinois intermediates deleted from the existing service.

In addition, Ozark would operate a third roundtrip jet which would be non-stop between St. Louis and Chicago, thus providing Joplin and Springfield, Mo., with more expedited Chicago service and retaining the same frequency to Chicago and St. Louis for Peoria and Springfield, Ill.

Newmann said authority to operate nonstop over the 258-mile route would reduce Ozark's need for government subsidy by $133,313 next year and by $401,729 in 1970.

Makes Hit In Movies At Age 73

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It's such a pleasure to be in a hit picture at last," says Ruth Gordon with all the verve of a starlet.

Miss Gordon resembles a starlet in her passion for her work, her youthful outlook, even her miniskirts. But she is an unabashed 73—and still going at top speed.

She has lately been accorded more than the usual attention she gets as one of America's most distinguished actresses and writers—she has written such plays as "Over 21" and "Years Ago" and coauthored with her husband Garson Kanin scripts of "A Double Life," "Adam's Rib" and other films.

The reason for the fuss over Ruth Gordon is her performance in "Rosemary's Baby," in which she plays Mia Farrow's nosy neighbor. Her work drew applause from preview audiences and predictions of an Academy Award nomination from critics.

"All the other pictures I've made were unsuccessful," she remarked. " 'Abe Lincoln in Illinois,' 'Dr. Erlich's Magic Bullet,' 'Two-Faced Woman,' 'Action in the North Atlantic'—well, that one was a hit, but I only played a one-day bit in it as Raymond Massey's wife because he asked me to.

"Then there was 'Edge of Darkness,' 'Inside Daisy Clover' (which got her an Academy nomination) and 'Lord Love a Duck.' None of them did for me what Rosemary's Baby' has done; already I've had three offers for roles. I turned them down because they weren't different enough.

"But the best part of the whole thing is the way the young crowd has taken to the role. They come up and compliment me at parties and on the street. I think that's simply great. You can grow old and you can get old—or you can grow old and stay with it. I much prefer to stay with it."

There is no doubt that Miss Gordon is with it. She can talk with teen-agers on their own terms. She can rhapsodize over such new theater as "Hair" and "Your Own Thing." Mia Farrow calls her "my only hippie friend."

She appears to have no formula for her immense vitality beyond a three-mile daily walk and a sustaining interest in the world around her.

May Seek Election Because of Paper

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mayor Sam Yorty says the Los Angeles Times may force him to seek a third four-year term in office.

If the newspaper continues to oppose his administration, Yorty said Wednesday, he might run again to prevent the Times from trying to run the city.

"They'll not do that as long as I'm here," he said. Yorty's term ends next year.

A Times investigation led to the bribery indictments and conviction of two former harbor commissioners appointed by Yorty. The mayor said he fired the two men, Karl Rundberg and Robert "Nick" Starr, before they were charged with accepting furniture from a developer in return for harbor favors.

The Times printed Yorty's statement. There was no comment on the editorial page.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY---Mothers of several children who buy paper birthday tablecloths might be interested in my good idea for making one last throughout the year. I also buy clear plastic large enough to cover the table and put it over the birthday cloth. Even if the youngsters spill food the cloth does not have to be thrown away.---SANDY

DEAR POLLY—I always keep a thimble in the kitchen and when filling the basket of the percolator I put this thimble over the stem to prevent the coffee grounds from spilling into the pot.—DEBRA

DEAR POLLY---If you lose the turn button on your purse, make a temporary replacement with an odd cuff link. Remove the old fastener, punch a hole large enough for the cuff link stem and mount link from the inside using adhesive tape to hold it in place.---TERESA

DEAR POLLY—When folding bath towels for my linen closet I place a matching face cloth inside the last fold of each towel and am always sure of having the right combination.—ANN

Polly pays a dollar for every idea used. Send them to her, care of this newspaper.

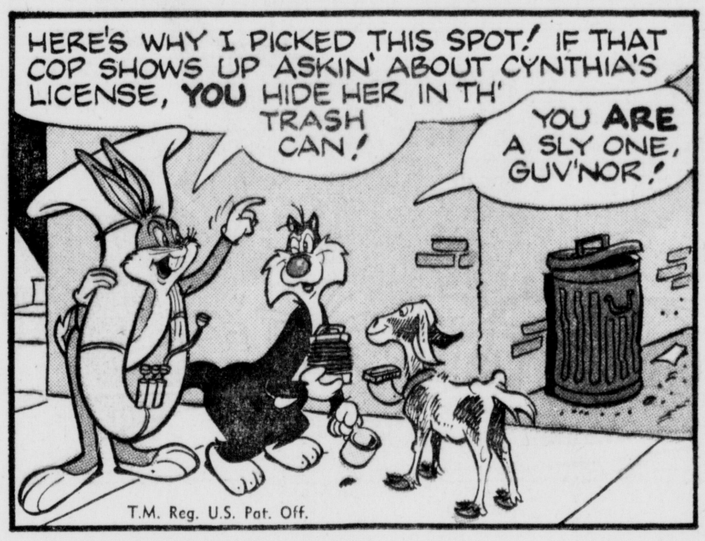

DEAR POLLY—I find it adds warmth to wear an outing flannel apron when bathing or holding a tiny baby.—MRS. E. K.

DEAR POLLY---My eight-year-old daughter kept tearing holes in her coat pockets so I finally sewed on knitted mittens for pockets. Also my children play with inexpensive soap bars (or scraps) on rainy days. They whittle for hours and use their creative powers and imagination in making things. I later use the scraps in the washing machine.---HELEN

DEAR POLLY—We lost the metal stopper to our kitchen sink and my mother was always losing baby spoons, forks, plastic straws and other such things through the sink holes. I solved this by placing a rinsed plastic or unbreakable glass upright in the sink and putting small forks and other small things in it so nothing is lost.—CHERYL

DEAR POLLY---There are uses for old television "rabbit ears." Wind your crochet thread or knitting wool on a tube from a roll of tissue or foil, slip the tube over one of the prongs and the wool will roll off easily as you work. When making a tassel, close the two long prongs until the space between is the proper length, wind the yarn round and round them, near the top, tie in the center and slit down the sides. Since the ears are about three feet long and can be spread to any desired width they can also be used for double waving.---CATHERINE

Ask Them Yourself

FOR W. MARVIN WATSON,

U.S. Postmaster General

Who chooses the people and events to be honored on U.S. commemorative stamps?—Larry Seiler, Austin, Texas

● All themes for these stamps are carefully studied by the Citizens' Stamp Advisory Committee before its recommendations are submitted to the Postmaster General, who, by law, has the final say.

FOR JOAN CRAWFORD

Where are your adopted children now? What do they do?—R. T., Atlantic City, N.J.

● My son Christopher is in the Army, stationed in Vietnam. My eldest daughter Christina is an actress and is married to Harvey Medlinsky, an associate of director Mike Nichols. One of my twin daughters, Cindy, is married and living in Wisconsin. The other twin, Cathy, is attending fashion school in Miami and will be married to Jerome LaLonde next month.

FOR BOBBY RICHARDSON,

former N.Y. Yankee star

There has been wide tv coverage of baseball teams having champagne celebrations after a pennant victory. Do you think this practice may have a bad influence on our youth?—R. L. M., Cumberland, Md.

● It hurts me to see professional athletes taking part in these activities, which are seen by millions. But you'll never see a Raymond Berry of the Baltimore Colts, Bill Glass of the Cleveland Browns, Jim Kaat of the Minnesota Twins, or Felipe Alou of the Atlanta Braves taking part in these activities. These are Christian men active in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. They are genuinely concerned about the responsibility they have as athletes to the youth of our country.

FOR DICK VAN DYKE

Were you really married on the "Bride and Groom" radio show on St. Valentine's Day, 1948? —Dan Young, Ono, Calif.

● Yes, my fiancée, Marjorie Willett, joined me in California, where I was appearing at the time, and we were married on the show.

FOR GABE PAUL,

general manager, Cleveland Indians

How much does it cost to "explode" the scoreboard each time a home run is hit?—Frank Tornichio, Mansfield, Ohio

● In the daytime it costs $45, while a nighttime "explosion" (because of different fireworks used) costs $60.

FOR HUGH DOWNS

Of all the guests you have interviewed, who impressed you the most? Why?—S. B. Kraners, Brooklyn, N.Y.

● Cesar Chavez, head of the United Farm Workers, who is trying to organize the migrant workers of America. He impressed me most because of his quiet strength and steadfastness. He is a nonviolent man but unyielding in his demands for justice.

FOR ROY THINNES

of "The Invaders"

I read recently that you attended the fourth Annual Congress of Scientific Ufologists. Do you believe in "flying saucers"?—Robert W. Young, Bowling Green, Ky.

● Why not? It is presumptuous for us to think that we are the only form of intelligent life in the universe.

FOR JULIA CHILD

of "The French Chef"

What is the secret for making a perfect meringue?—T. T., Huron, S.D.

● The secret is to follow your recipe precisely, slowly adding sugar to stiff egg whites, beating constantly, then baking in a very slow oven to dry the meringue. To prevent cracking, turn off oven heat and let meringue cool as oven cools. Do not expose it to a sudden change in temperature or it will split.

FOR A. J. FOYT, auto racer

Of all your exciting experiences, what has been your biggest thrill in racing?—D. R., Somerville, Ala.

● My biggest thrill was winning my first National Driving Championship at the age of 25.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Kate and Cass Mama Cass, the big blonde of the popular "Mamas and the Papas" singing group, has been called "the new Kate Smith." "There's room for us all," says the still hearty, original Kate. "I've never heard Cass sing, but over the years, many people have been called 'the new Kate Smith.' They disappear, but I still keep going." One reason for that is the way Miss Smith keeps up with the times. "I just recorded a Beatles' song, 'Yesterday,'" she reports enthusiastically. "I love those boys. I love this new music."

Mama Cass

Strange Bedfellows The lowly bedbug has been drafted in the Vietnam war. It seems that when the bedbug gets close to a human being, the prospect of biting this choice morsel makes it squeak with delight. This gave the Army an idea. A packet of bedbugs is hidden in the dense foliage and attached to a sound amplifier. When the enemy approaches, the bedbugs squeak an advance warning to our jungle fighters.

Walk in the Dark More than half of the pedestrians killed or injured each year are struck down after dark. "I didn't see him," the driver usually says. It helps to wear something white at night. But the best idea, says the U.S. Public Health Service, is to wear reflective material in some form. You now can buy clothes that come trimmed with reflective strips. Or you can sew this safety fabric onto clothes you already have, make arm bands of it to slip on or off, or tape it to the instep of your shoe (it stays surprisingly clean there and can be seen when you take the shortest steps).

Name Change Bill Dana, often known as Jose Jimenez, was actually born Bill Szathmary. "People may wonder why somebody with a perfectly good name like 'Szathmary' would want to change it," he notes. "These people should be looked into." He came by the name Dana by changing a vowel in his mother's first name, Dena.

Divorce Dangers People who stay married stay healthier, too. In California, where the divorce rate is almost double that of the rest of the nation, a recent census study showed that divorced men and women of all ages died at a higher rate than their wedded counterparts. The figures also indicate that divorced and separated people are more prone to illness.

For trivia collectors

Collectors' Corner There are two things you can do with "junk." The first is throw it away. The second is save it and hope that today's trivia—such as the sculptured hand shown here—will become tomorrow's treasures. The following items, according to exhibitors at New York's famed Flea Market, will be worth good money in the camp and trivia market of the future: bottle caps, Coke bottles, gum wrappers, political and theatrical memorabilia, cigar bands, and paper dolls. If you fancy antiques over trivia, save these items: Victorian silver, Bowie knives, and Early American pewter, brass, and copper.

"The best to you each morning"

For 10 days, while the world gave up hope for him, this miner was buried alive in a space no higher than a coffin; he prayed for a miracle and now tells how

"God Saved Me from a Living Death!"

By LARRY B. LYNCH

One of the men was foundering in the raging water. "Help me," he cried. Another man went to save him.

"LORD, IT'S GOING to take a miracle to get us out of this. God, give us a miracle! Stop the water from drowning us."

I fell to my knees, about 4,000 feet down a dark, flooded mine tunnel. Above me was the scarred, lumpy acre or so that is Saxsewell Mine No. 8 in Hominy Falls, W. Va. Around me a raging river of water thundered its way to the air course and the conveyor belt, blocking the exits.

For 10 days, while the world outside counted me as dead, I was buried alive on that spot where I had first knelt, a dark space a little higher than a coffin. Before I was rescued, God had performed not one miracle, but many.

On Monday morning, May 6, 1968, I had kissed my wife Nina good-bye —twice. I had left for work as usual and then come running back up the porch. "Forgot the gas money," I told Nina. I kissed her for the second time, smiled, and said, "See you."

I'd never said that before. I'd seldom had to retrace my steps. I remembered that when I was a child (before my family was born again as Christians) my mother would make us sit down for a few minutes before starting out again. Otherwise we thought it bad luck to double-back.

At 7 a.m., 26 of us went into the mine, including the cursey driver. Fifteen men got off to work at one section, and the rest of us went on to another in a different direction. We had to crouch or crawl as we worked because of the low ceilings, and, as I went back and forth, I noticed a stream of water about as thick as a pencil rushing out.

It must have been about 9:30 when Renick McClung crawled past me, softly singing a hymn. A fine man, I remember thinking as he crawled by about 15 feet from me. I hope that he belonged to the Lord because shortly after Renick was dead.

Minutes later, the mechanical drill bit into a wall of coal that our map said was 200-feet thick. Instead the drill cut through it like paper.

"Larry, c'mon!" someone shouted. "There's water!"

I started to move out and the shout came again. "Larry, c'mon!" I swiveled in the direction of the voice and crawled after it to a slightly elevated point. Water roared through the hole the drill had made, pushing down huge chunks of wall, and raged past us. One of the men was floundering in it, his cap off, his light out. "Help, help me!" he was gasping. Another man went after him and helped him to safety.

"Let's try for the conveyor belt," John Moore, our foreman, shouted. "Maybe we can ride it out of here."

We waded into the swift water, holding tight to the shoring timbers to keep from being washed away. Once my hand slipped, and I could feel the water pulling me with it. Finally we reached the belt. To make my way farther I grabbed for the messenger wire. I received a severe electric shock. Everything was hot! The water had gotten to a loose end of the ground wire. I jerked free of the wire and shouted. "Get back, we're into the power. Get back." I turned to retreat and my legs became tangled in the loose end of the messenger wire. I was shocked again and again before I made my way free.

One of the men got to the belt and tried to ride it out, but it had been overturned, and it flicked him off like a bucking bronc. Our exit blocked, we made our way back again, hand over hand on the shoring timbers through the raging river of water, to the high ground.

There were two rooms, a total of some 90 by 140 feet that had not yet been flooded. But if the water kept rising, a football field would not hold enough to keep us from drowning.

There were just six of us perched together above the flood. We had only the battery-powered lamps on our heads to see by as we peered into the darkness. We hoped the other four men had escaped by way of the conveyor belt.

I knelt in that space and prayed, "Lord, I know you can perform miracles. I am asking for one now." In that space too low to stand but high enough to kneel and pray, God heard me and answered. The rising water stopped.

Two rolls of brattice cloth, a specially treated burlap, lay in one of the corners. Working hurriedly, we built a barricade with the brattice cloth, fastening it to the shoring timbers. We knew this barricade couldn't protect us if the water began to rise again, but it would help as an air barricade in case poisonous black damp (mine gas) threatened us.

We also made a small tent formed by a circle of timbers with the brattice fastened to it. This tent became

Do Monsters Exist in America?

By WARREN SMITH

SINCE THE dawn of time, convincing stories have been told about real or mythical monsters. Today many people claim there are mysterious monsters lurking in the U.S. wilderness.

While few persons give credence to these fanciful tales, scientists admit certain strange species of life could have survived in isolated areas.

There are definite patterns to the stream of "monster" reports over the past two decades. These include:

Sasquash or Big Foot: This creature is described as a two-footed mammal that walks upright and is believed to be a species between man and ape. Seven to ten feet in height, the creature weighs between 400 and 900 pounds. Except for the feet, hands, and nose, the monster is covered by one-inch-long reddish black hair. It has been sighted on more than 600 occasions in California, Washington, Idaho, Oregon, Canada, and Alaska.

At 3:30 p.m. on Oct. 20, 1967, "monster hunters" Roger Patterson and Bob Gimlim were searching the great forest northwest of Eureka, Calif., when suddenly they sighted a strange, fur-covered beast walking upright through the timber. Patterson grabbed his movie camera and zoomed in on the beast as it scurried away. The result is a highly controversial strip of 16 mm. color film.

Scientist Ivan T. Sanderson, author of "Snowman—Legend Come to Life," arranged for several distinguished scientists to view the film in Washington, D.C. A biologist from the Smithsonian Institution "observed nothing to point directly to a hoax." Another scientist speculated that hairy, humanlike creatures possibly could have migrated from Asia to America, thus giving rise to the speculation that the Sasquash is a relative of the "Yeti" ("Abominable Snowman")

Florida's Abominable Sandman: Residents of Holopaw, Fla., locked their doors and oiled their guns last year when a midget version of the Sasquash invaded the state. Something described as "five-feet tall, covered with hair, and twice as broad as a man" raided garbage cans, plundered homes, and frightened dogs and livestock. When the community settled down, no one was ever sure whether it was a bear or a real monster.

In 1946 a similar apelike creature killed livestock and destroyed property around Coatesville and Lebanon, Pa. Terrified farmers hired a professional hunter to track the beast which "screamed like a baby." Elusive as ever, the creature disappeared into obscurity.

Lake Monsters: Since 1933, Scotland's Loch Ness monster has been a topic of conversation among monster lovers. Less publicized are similar creatures sighted in North American waters.

A Lyons Falls, N.Y., fisherman was astonished a few years ago to see a "15-foot something" rise out of the Black River. The dark brown monster had a round, tapered body and "eyes that stood out like silver dollars!"

Flathead Lake, Mont., and Payette Lake, Idaho, contain long-necked "Loch Ness" monsters. Local newspapers frequently report sightings by dozens of witnesses. The long-neckers "have a cow-like head on a long, slender neck. There are humps on their backs, and they travel with an up and down motion."

Oscar, the friendly monster in Big Pine Lake, Minn., has surfaced to stare quietly at boaters on the lake. Few fishermen have tried to lure him, though.

Scientists pay little attention to the sightings, but eyewitnesses strongly believe "there is something in our lakes."

The Mammoth Mothman: "I am a hard guy to scare, but I was for getting out of there," Roger Scarberry told police in Point Pleasant, W. Va. He said his car was chased by a flying monster on the night of Nov. 16, 1966.

Scarberry, his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Mallette all said "the bird was about six-feet tall, gray-colored, with two-inch eyes that glowed in the dark." The "thing" chased their speeding car for several miles. It was named the "Mammoth Mothman."

What can we believe about monsters? Repeated sightings indicate there may be "something" out in the boondocks. Until someone hauls a monster into a news conference, however, we can only maintain an open—but skeptical—mind. ◆

10 Ways to Keep Your Home Safe from Burglars

An American home is robbed every 28 seconds; it needn't be yours, says this former Federal agent, if you take some basic precautions

By ULRICH KAUFMANN
Author of "How to Avoid Burglary, Housebreaking, and Other Crimes"

"WE NEVER lock our doors," your mother used to boast. "This is a town where we can trust our neighbors."

Perhaps you still like to think of yourself as living in one of those Utopias where every house is wide open, nothing locked because everybody in town is honest. Yet, as the crime rate rockets upward, even you need to be on the alert.

You can still trust your neighbors, but what about the stranger who drives through at 10 o'clock on Sunday morning, when most of the townspeople are in church? Before the service is over, he has time to rob three or four houses and then speed off to Detroit or Chicago, where he spreads the word of the "easy pickings" in your town.

As F.B.I. director J. Edgar Hoover recently reported, arrests for burglary increased in a single year by 9 percent in rural areas and 8.3 percent in suburban areas. Burglars now visit American homes at the rate of once every 28 seconds.

Here, then, are some ways to stop them at your own doorstep.

1. Your Front Door: If you're like most people, this is the most secure portion of your house. It probably has at least one good lock and possibly a chain. If you're extra careful, it may have an additional lock that can be operated only from the inside. Those metal strips you may have installed to keep out the wintry winds also help keep out unwelcome visitors. The outdoor light fixture that says welcome to honest people is another naysayer to burglars.

2. The Neglected Back Door: This is usually the first entrance a burglar will try. The first thing to check is how solid the door is. Can it be moved, pushed, or jarred sufficiently away from its encasement so that whatever bolts or latches you have are holding onto thin air? You may need new hinges or wood stripping to close up that space between door and frame.

Many back doors have windows which a burglar can break and then reach through to unlatch the door. At least one of your locks should be out of such handy reach.

3. Your Windows: A burglar is unlikely to try to crash in through your large picture window; the reason is simply that the bigger the glass he breaks, the bigger the noise he makes. If you have sliding glass doors, though, many police chiefs suggest putting pieces of wood in the tracks so that, if anyone tries to jimmy the doors, they can't be slid open.

The burglar's choice is a small basement or rear window where he can enter with less noise and less chance of being seen. Your first step is to check that the windows are solidly installed so they can't simply be pushed in. For the basement window, where looks don't count, one or two steel bars is a good idea. For other windows, the traditional sash lock, in which one half-moon piece of steel engages another, is an effective device—provided the two pieces are completely joined. In summer, when you may want to keep your windows ajar, there are bolts you can buy for 50 cents or so that will keep an intruder from opening them any farther.

4. How Many Locks? One lonely lock on a door, no matter how good it is, is just not enough. Two or three locking devices seem reasonable for just about any situation; more than that can mean that it will be too difficult for you to get out in case of fire.

You don't want to build either a firetrap or a fortress. What you do want to do is make it so difficult for a burglar to enter your house that he will go elsewhere.

In my opinion, the best lock you can buy is the magnetic one that has just come on the market. It cannot be "picked"; only your key, with magnets to match the ones in the tumblers, will open it. A "dead bolt" lock makes an excellent night latch, too.

The time-tested chain is a good security device but not if it is hung in the traditional way, with the slide parallel to the chain. Instead, you should mount the slide just above and at a slant toward the chain mounting. For temporary safety on a back door, turn whatever key you now have as far is it will go, then insert a wire hanger hook through the hole of the key (or key ring) and hook the hanger over the doorknob.

5. Don't Advertise: When a burglar "cases" your block, he is shopping for the biggest possible haul. He looks for the only house with a swimming pool or a large compressor unit for air conditioning, the expensive toys rusting in the yard because nobody cares, the objets d'art prominently displayed in several windows facing the street. In a less-wealthy neighborhood, he looks for the only garage on the block or for the only lawn that shows its owner could afford a five-dollar bag of fertilizer.

If you look like the richest house on the block, you're likely to be his target for tonight. This doesn't mean you have to present a shabby exterior. It does mean that a few strategically placed bushes might shield your pool or air conditioner from casual street view. It doesn't mean you have to closet your treasures, but it does mean that you needn't put the most expensive ones in the window.

6. Don't Admit Strangers: The fewer people you admit to your house, the fewer chances you take of being burglarized. Meet delivery men at the door and have your money ready for them. Talk to that magazine salesman on the doorstep.

If it's a repairman, he must, of course, come inside. But you should accompany him without seeming rude or suspicious. A friendly, "Let me show you where the light switch is," will do.

It's highly unlikely that any of the people who come to your house on legitimate business will burglarize it. But the delivery boy will join his buddies that night at the local hangout. In all innocence, he may say, "Boy, you should see what they have at the Smith's house!" Overhearing him may be a young boy who will then commit his first crime. Or it may be a professional who senses ripe pickings.

7. World's Best Burglar Alarm: In keeping your house safe, your dog is truly your best friend. He doesn't have to be school-trained, a pedigree, or a man-biter. He does have to bark loudly when strangers approach—to warn you if you're at home, to scare off a burglar with his noise if you're not.

Especially at night, you should keep your dog inside the building he's supposed to protect and give him free run of the house, if possible. If he's outside, a rag drenched with the scent of another dog may distract him or some form of poison may silence your pet forever.

8. On Vacation: If you're going to be away, your house should not advertise the fact. While you're gone, its outward appearance should be the same. If your shades are not normally drawn all day, you should not leave them closed now. If it's an extended vacation, you should arrange to have the grass cut or the snow shoveled, so the house doesn't look deserted.

Don't do too much to the inside, either. If dust covers can be seen through the windows, then your absence is established. The old trick of leaving a light burning constantly while you're gone doesn't fool the burglars any more, but an automatic timer—or a friendly neighbor—to switch the light off during the day may make him think somebody's at home.

9. Who to Tell: Again, don't tell too many people about your vacation. Don't tell the painter he must hurry and finish today because you're leaving tomorrow. He may mention it casually to others—and unfriendly ears may be listening.

Do furnish your local police with a "Vacant Premises Report." In most towns, this will get you free periodic inspection by the officer on the beat or a cruising squad car.

10. Burglar in the House: What happens if, after all your precautions, you awake one night to hear the sound of a burglar downstairs? If you're a woman, the first thing to do is to lock your bedroom door. Then call the police. You should have, taped to your phone, the number of the nearest precinct.

Another handy thing to have is a whistle. Open the window and start blowing it as loud as you can. If you were a burglar, wouldn't that noise start you running?

Some people have a switch in their bedroom by which they can turn on the outdoor lights. If you do, by all means, flip it now. The sudden lights, like the sudden noise, will send most thieves packing.

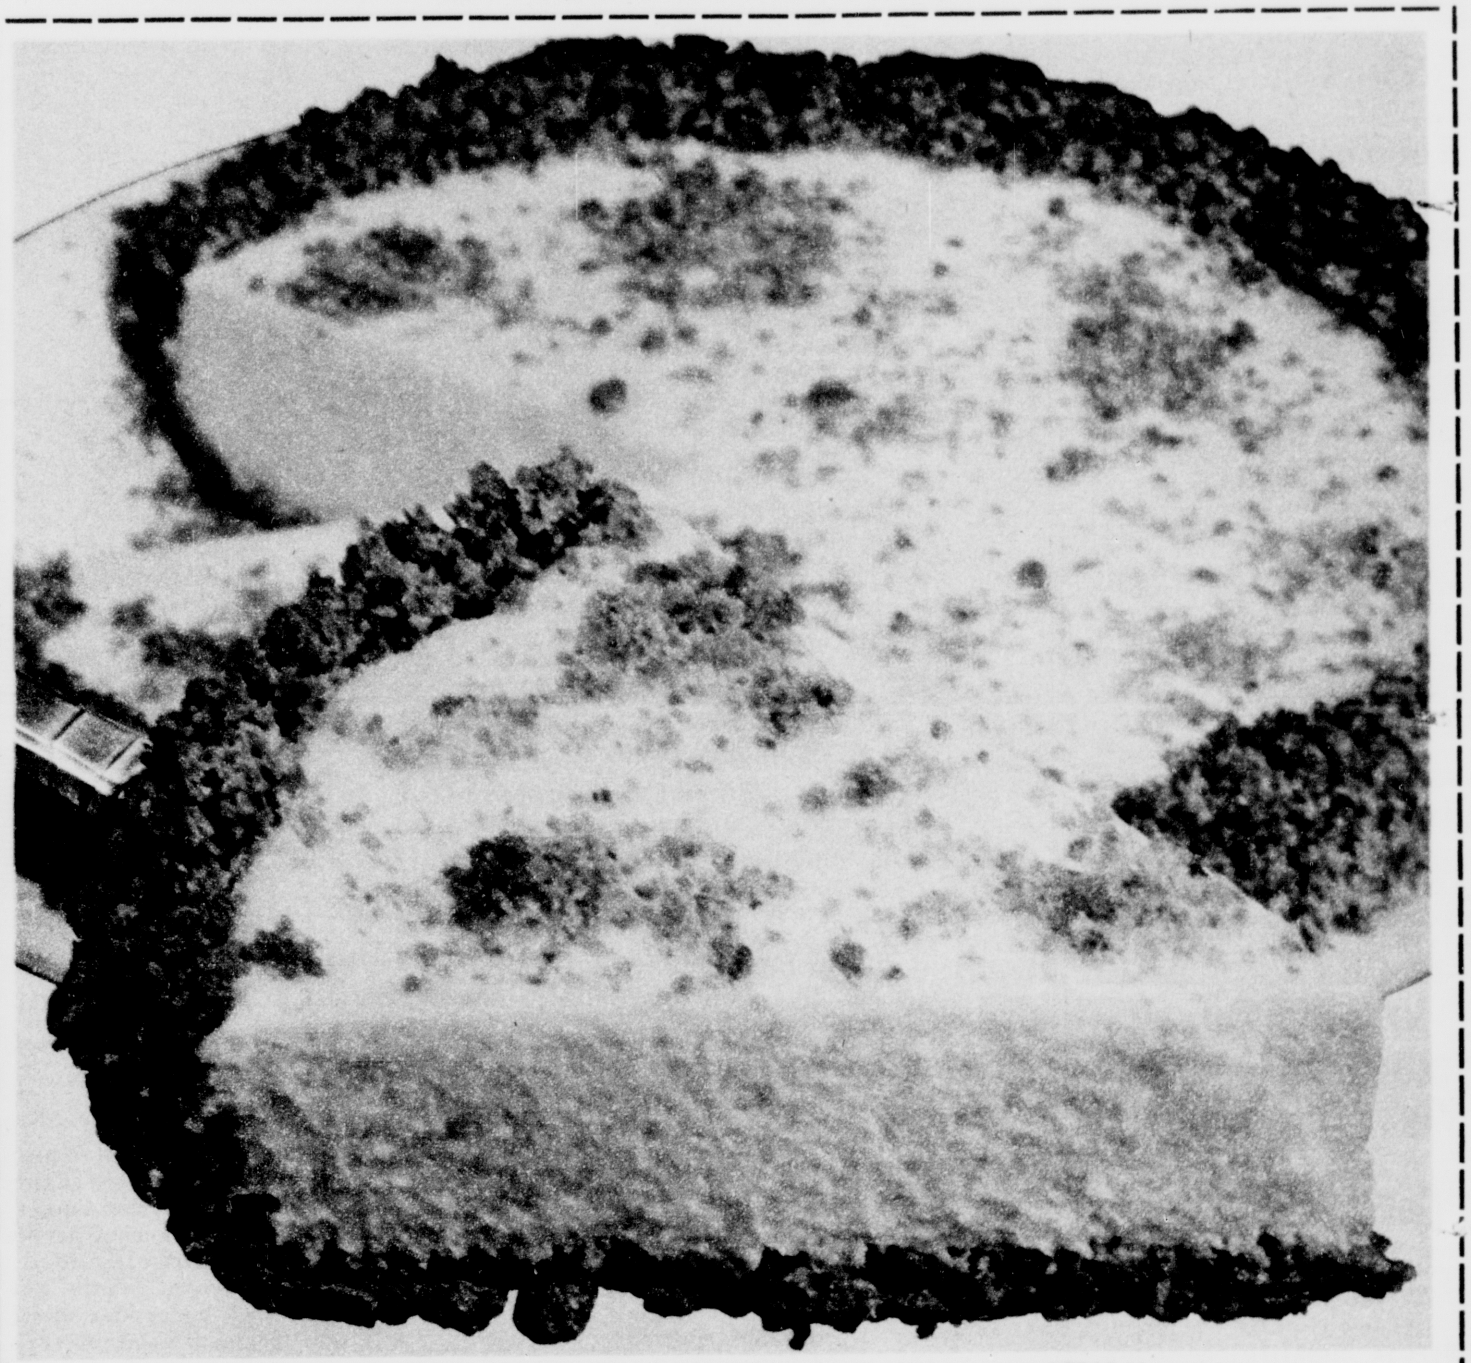

If you're a man, this becomes an individual decision. You should call the police first. Then, if you have a handy weapon, you may feel you want to go down and defend your castle. Remember, though, that you never know what you're going to find. The burglar may be armed; he may be so crazed with drugs that he will do something desperate. You also may be living in one of those states that have laws limiting the force you may use—even to protect your own home.

My own advice would be: don't try to be a hero. ◆

Summer Cheesecake

Pudding Cheesecake in 15 minutes.

Here's how:

1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese
2 cups cold milk
1 package (3¾ oz.) Jell-O® Lemon or Pineapple Cream Instant Pudding
1 baked or unbaked 9-inch graham cracker crumb crust

Stir cream cheese until very soft. Gradually blend in 1/2 cup of milk until mixture is smooth. Add remaining milk and the pudding mix. Beat slowly just until blended —about 1 minute. Immediately pour into cool crust. Chill until firm—at least 1 hour.

Note: Before cutting, dip pie pan briefly in hot water to loosen crust from pan.

Pudding Cheesecake. Cool. Creamy. No baking when you make it with Jell-O Instant Pudding.

YOUR CHILD MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS
1 OUT OF 3 DOES

Fidgeting, loss of sleep and a tormenting itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist.

Savory Summer Soups

■ Chilled soup takes on added hot-weather appeal when each bowl is nested in a bed of crushed ice or poured over ice cubes in attractive glasses. Try these tantalizing cold soups throughout the hot summer.

Iced Olive Tomato Soup may be served as soup course or afternoon pick-me-up.

Iced Olive Tomato Soup

- 4 cups canned tomato juice
- ½ cup salad or cooking oil
- ⅓ cup cider vinegar
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 1 clove garlic, sliced
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon Accent
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 tablespoon rosemary leaves, crushed
- ⅛ teaspoon thyme leaves, crushed
- ⅛ teaspoon basil leaves, crushed
- ⅛ teaspoon oregano leaves, crushed
- ¾ cup milk
- ¼ cup finely chopped pimiento-stuffed olives
- ½ cup sliced pimiento-stuffed olives
- ½ cup cucumber wedges

1. Mix the first five ingredients in a large bowl. Stir in a mixture of the sugar and next six ingredients, milk, and then the chopped olives. Cover and chill at least 6 hrs. or overnight to develop flavor.

2. Strain into a chilled tureen. Put sliced olives and cucumber into a serving dish.

3. Ladle chilled soup into mugs and garnish each with the sliced olives and cucumber. Accompany with crusty bread.

About 1½ qts. soup

Chilled Strawberry Soup

- ⅓ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch
- Few grains salt
- ¾ cup cold water
- 1 qt. fresh strawberries, rinsed, drained, and hulled
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice

1. Blend sugar, cornstarch, and salt in a saucepan. Mix in the cold water. Bring to boiling; stir and cook about 2 min., or until thickened and clear. Remove from heat and set aside to cool.

2. Put berries and lemon juice into an electric blender container. Cover and blend thoroughly.

3. Mix strawberry puree with cooled sauce. Chill. Garnish soup with sliced strawberries and mint leaves.

About 3½ cups soup

Jellied Borscht

- 1 can (10½ oz.) condensed beef consommé
- 1 soup can water
- ½ clove garlic
- 2 stalks celery, cut in pieces
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- ¼ teaspoon ground ginger
- ⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1½ tablespoons (1½ env.) unflavored gelatin
- 1 jar (1 lb.) pickled sliced beets, drained (reserve liquid)
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 1 cup dairy sour cream

1. Heat consommé and water to boiling in a saucepan. Stir in garlic, celery, brown sugar, ginger, and cayenne. Remove from heat, cover, and let stand 30 min.

2. Meanwhile, soften gelatin in reserved beet liquid in a saucepan. Stir over low heat until gelatin is completely dissolved.

3. Strain the consommé; stir in dissolved gelatin. Chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white, stirring occasionally.

4. Put beets and lemon juice into an electric blender container. Cover and blend thoroughly. Add to gelatin mixture along with the sour cream; blend thoroughly.

5. Pour into a shallow 3-qt. dish; depth of mixture will be about ¾ in. Chill until firm.

6. To serve, cut into cubes. Spoon into bouillon cups and garnish each with a dollop of dairy sour cream.

About 1½ qts. soup

Avocado-Almond Potage

- ¾ cup toasted almonds
- 3 cups chicken broth
- 2 ripe avocados, cut in pieces
- ½ clove garlic
- ½ cup cream
- ⅛ teaspoon seasoned salt
- ⅛ teaspoon white pepper

1. Put nuts into an electric blender container. Cover and grind nuts.

2. Add one half of the broth, the avocado, and garlic; cover and blend until smooth. Add remaining ingredients; cover and blend.

3. Chill, covered, until serving time.

4. On each serving float a dollop of dairy sour cream garnished with green pepper and toasted almond slivers. About 1½ qts. soup

YVETTE MIMIEUX: Lovely Loner

YVETTE MIMIEUX is living proof that appearances can be most deceiving. A delicate five-foot, four-inch blonde, she seems to be the embodiment of fragile femininity.

Yvette and pet, a 260-pound jaguar.

Nothing could be further from the truth. Utterly fearless, with the stamina and energy of an athlete, 27-year-old Yvette, current star of "Three in the Attic," is best described as a loner, a truly rugged individualist. Her longtime friend, "discoverer," and business associate, Jim Byron, goes further: "She is downright stubborn. When Yvette makes up her mind to do something, it's final."

Her recent jaunt to remote Easter Island is a good example. Yvette read that eight archeologists and their wives were going to the island, some 2,350 miles off the coast of Chile, and wrote to them asking whether she could go along—at her own expense, and they agreed to take her with them. When she called her business manager to inform him that she would "be away for a while," he demanded that she call it off, but Yvette had made up her mind to go—and did.

In a way, Yvette has a contradictory outlook on life. On one hand, she has an intense desire to participate, to become totally involved. On the other, she refuses to be a "joiner."

Although she and her brother Eddie live in Beverly Hills, Yvette prefers to live alone. She likes to feel that she doesn't need people, but she doesn't like to be shut out from the world, either.

How involved Yvette gets was evident when she made the film, "Monkeys Go Home." She became fascinated by the way the film's animal trainer worked and inquired whether she could learn to train animals, too. Later he gave her a baby jaguar—which grew into a 260-pound beast. Although her neighbors are not happy over it, Yvette insists, "Zazi is as gentle as a kitten."

Yvette's lack of fear shows up in every aspect of her life. A few months ago she became interested in flying and wrangled an introduction to Col. Ralph Maglione of the famed "Thunderbirds," who invited her to participate in a close-formation flight. She now is in the process of getting her pilot's license, then intends to take up sky-diving "to see how it feels to fly without wings."

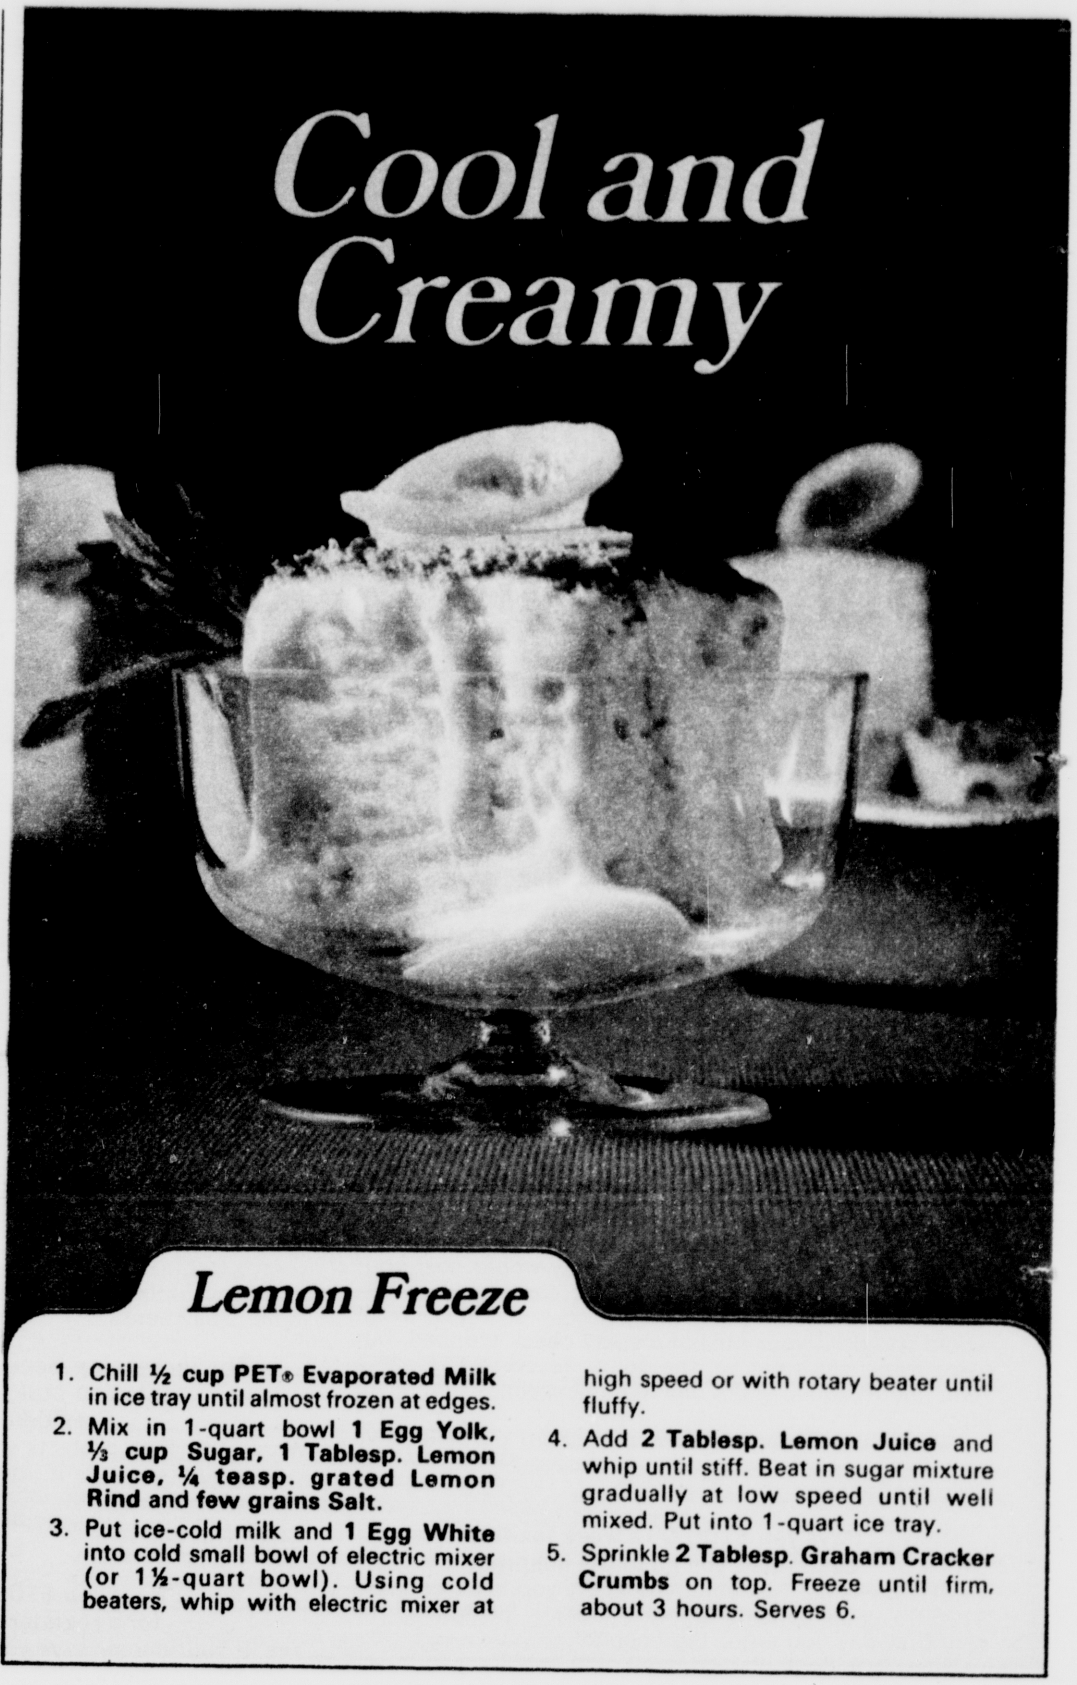

Not that Yvette is a daredevil or foolhardy, she merely trusts her own judgment above all others. In many ways, she relies on herself too much. This dates back to her early school days when her father, French artist René Mimieux, and her mother, Mexican-born Carmen Montemayor, were faced with financial difficulty.

Yvette wore the same carefully laundered dress to school every day, causing schoolmates to tease her mercilessly. It is no wonder that she became self-conscious, withdrawn, and self-reliant.

Yvette's ability to withdraw came into sharp focus in 1959 when she married graduate student Evan Engber. Whenever anyone questioned her about the marriage, she stared right through him and assumed her "Mona Lisa" smile. According to Jim Byron, the only reason the marriage lasted six months was Yvette's loyalty. "She's too loyal," he says.

What of her future? Does she want a happy marriage? Children? You ask her and she stares at you, shrugs, and assumes her "Mona Lisa" smile. Suddenly you're sitting opposite Yvette Mimieux—beautiful loner.

$100.00-A-WEEK EXTRA YOU OR YOUR FAMILY

–Only 25¢ enrolls your entire family for the first month

- Pays $14.28 cash each day starting the very first day you spend in the hospital . . . even up to 100 weeks
- Pays up to $10,000.00 tax-free cash for each hospital stay
- Pays all cash direct to you (not to doctor or hospital)
- Pays in addition to all other coverage you have — including Medicare
- Pays you cash benefits that increase each year . . . to a maximum of $130.00-A-WEEK . . . at no extra cost to you!
- No age limit — no medical examination required

ACT NOW—YOUR ENROLLMENT FORM MUST BE MAILED BY MIDNIGHT, SATURDAY, AUGUST 3, OR IT CANNOT BE ACCEPTED

One out of two families will have someone in the hospital this year! It could be you—or some beloved member of your family tomorrow...next week...next month. Sad to say, very few families have anywhere near enough coverage to meet today's soaring hospital costs. These costs have tripled in just a few short years. They are expected to double again in the few years ahead.

Stop for a moment. Suppose your husband went to the hospital. Think how much a long stay would cost your family. How would you ever pay for costly, but necessary, X-rays, doctor bills, drugs and medicines? What would you do if your husband's pay check stopped, but living expenses went on the same as ever? The same rent, phone, food, all the day-to-day expenses that never stop.

What is the average breadwinner to do? We believe we have the answer for you and your husband in the famous Presidential Extra Cash Plan that . . . Pays you $100.00 a week tax-free cash when you go to the hospital.

What a blessing it is when you know you have an extra $100.00 cash coming in every week — beginning the very first day you enter the hospital.

Now, Presidential's economy plan enables you to enjoy this protection at once. Because it will NOT cost you $200.00. It will NOT cost you $100.00 — or even $50.00 to enroll. Your special low price is just 25¢ for the first month's coverage. Then continue at regular low Presidential rates shown below.

Your cash benefits increase each year — at no extra cost to you!

The first year you get $100.00 a week. You get $103.00 a week in the second year. $106.00 a week in the third year. $109.00 a week in the fourth year. By the eleventh year, your policy will be worth a full $130.00 a week in benefit payments.

. . . The increasing benefits come to you at no extra cost. You still pay the regular low Presidential premium!

What other Plan protects you like this today? What other Plan keeps protecting you against rising costs in the years ahead without increasing your premiums? And that's not all. This special Presidential Extra Cash Plan (#HP 18L-1067) . . .

. . . Pays you $100.00 a week CASH for a registered nurse at home.

Yes, if your doctor says you need a registered nurse full time within 5 days after you come home, we'll send you checks for $100.00 a week — for as long as you need the nurse —even up to 50 weeks. It's like having a reserve of $5,000.00 cash to draw on when you need it. These benefits also increase each year by $3.00 a week. Another exceptional feature you have with Presidential . . .

. . . Pays you $100.00 a week cash maternity benefits.

Ordinary hospital insurance may take care of part of your expenses when you go to the hospital to have a baby. But what policy can you think of that gives you cash to buy all the things you need for the new baby? Now, if both husband and wife are insured in the wonderful Family Plan With Maternity for the entire period of the pregnancy, you get extra cash to use any way you want. If a pregnancy, childbirth or even miscarriage puts you in the hospital for one day, five days, 10 days—as long as necessary—you get $100.00 a week for every day of your confinement, up to 100 weeks.

All these added cash benefits.

Added cash benefit: $1,000.00 cash to your family if death occurs within 90 days from any accidental injury. Think of how handy the cash can be in time of loss. It can take care of burial expenses without burdening your loved ones.

Added cash benefit: Up to $2,000.00 cash for loss of limbs or eyesight, when the loss occurs within 90 days of the accident. The loss of a limb or eyesight is a terrible thing. Nothing can replace the loss, but a check for $1,000.00 or $2,000.00 will bring greater peace of mind during the period of adjustment.

Added cash benefit: Choose either Family Plan . . . and your children will be covered too! Presidential pays up to $5,000.00 any time your youngster goes to the hospital . . . for tonsils, appendicitis, or any other illness or injury! Yes, you will receive $50.00 cash, week after week — for as many as 100 weeks, if necessary.

PAYS Up to $10,000.00 CASH for each accident or illness starting the very first day in the hospital.

PAYS $100.00 A WEEK CASH — if you need a full-time registered nurse when you come home from the hospital -- up to 50 weeks.

PAYS $1,000.00 EXTRA CASH for accidental death.

PAYS Up to $2,000.00 CASH for accidental loss of limbs or eyesight.

PAYS $100.00 A WEEK CASH for each pregnancy, childbirth or miscarriage when you go to the hospital, assuming both husband and wife have been enrolled in the Family Plan With Maternity.

PAYS Up to $5,000.00 when a child goes to the hospital for any accident or illness when you are enrolled in the Family Plan.

PAYS you cash benefits that increase each year . . . to a maximum of $130.00-A-WEEK . . . at no extra cost to you

NO age limit — no medical examination required

IF YOU ARE 65 OR OVER YOU WILL COLLECT IN ADDITION TO MEDICARE

Even though Medicare is a great boon to folks over 65, it will not, of course, pay all the bills that quickly pile up as a result of illness or accident. We have designed this plan as the important addition to what you receive from Medicare — or any other health insurance you may have. In addition to what you receive from Medicare, Presidential pays you $70.00 a week . . . EVEN FOR 100 WEEKS if necessary! You can receive as much as $7,000.00 for each illness or injury when hospitalized!

We pay your premiums when you are not able.

As a special consideration to you — if you are hospitalized just 6 weeks or more, all premiums that come due while you are still in the hospital after this period will be paid by Presidential. And your protection continues as if you were paying the premiums yourself! Then if you leave the hospital and must return for the same condition before you have resumed full normal activities for 90 days, Presidential will again PAY ANY PREMIUMS WHILE YOU ARE IN THE HOSPITAL — TO A MAXIMUM OF 100 WEEKS per confinement! This means you pay no premiums, yet your full protection remains in force — you collect up to $10,000.00 for each confinement!

These are the ONLY exclusions!

Your Presidential policy covers every conceivable kind of sickness or accident except conditions caused by war or any act of war; or where care is in a Government hospital; mental disorders; intoxicants and narcotics; pregnancy except as provided under the maternity benefit provision; and expenses resulting from any sickness or injury you had before the Effective Date of your policy . . . during the first 2 years only.

How can 25¢ buy so much?

You can buy ordinary insurance at any time and pay the regular rates, if you wish. But Presidential can now provide you and your entire family with $100.00 a week tax-free Income Protection for just 25¢ the first month only because we enroll a large number of people at one time—direct by mail! This highly efficient "Mass Enrollment" method cuts costs to the bone—and the savings are passed on to you!

Why you must act before the deadline date shown in the enrollment form.

Why must you act by the deadline? Because, as mentioned above, we must receive your Enrollment Form the same time as all the others in order to pass on to you the savings that come from processing many policies at one time.

Offer brings you as much as

INCOME WHENEVER GO TO THE HOSPITAL

We mail you the policy as soon as we receive the Enrollment Form. When the policy arrives, examine it. It's a very short document. There is NO FINE PRINT. Then—show it, if you wish, to someone you trust. Perhaps your lawyer, accountant, or banker. Better still — show it to your own insurance man... even though he may very well be working for another insurance company! So you can believe him when he tells you there is no better bargain available anywhere — at any price!

Money back guarantee — in case you change your mind.

You are free to return the policy within 15 days and your quarter will be refunded at once. There will be no obligation whatever.

Meanwhile, all during the 15 days you are making up your mind — you'll be protected by $100.00-A-WEEK extra cash benefits just as if you had already said "yes." That's right, you will be fully covered all this time for any accident which puts you in the hospital, even if you finally decide to return the policy.

However, after you've seen the policy for yourself, you will surely agree that this is a tremendous value and you'll want to continue this $100.00-A-WEEK extra cash protection under the Plan that's best for you.

PLAN I — INDIVIDUAL(S) ONLY PLAN

If you want to cover yourself — or yourself and one or more adult dependents (including your spouse) — then this is the Plan for you. Each person must be 18 or over, and shall pay the rate applicable to his or her age.

Age at Enrollment	Monthly Premium
18-39	only $3.95
40-49	only $4.95
50-59	only $5.95
60-74	only $6.95
75 and over	only $8.95

PLAN II — FAMILY PLAN WITH MATERNITY

This plan is for the family that is still growing. To the total of the monthly premium for the adults to be insured, just add $5. This entitles you to all maternity benefits. It also covers all your unmarried, dependent children between the ages of 3 months and under 19 years who live at home. Future dependent children will be covered when they reach 3 months of age and without any additional charge.

PLAN III — FAMILY PLAN WITHOUT MATERNITY

This plan is for the family that is no longer growing. To the total of the monthly premium for the adults to be insured, just add $3. This covers all your unmarried, dependent children between the ages of 3 months and under 19 years who live at home.

NOTE: The regular Monthly Premium shown above (for your age at time of enrollment) is the same low premium you will continue to pay; it will not automatically increase as you pass from one age bracket to the next. Once you have enrolled, your rate can never be changed because of how much or how often you collect from us — or because of advanced age — but only if there is a general rate adjustment, up or down, on all policies of this type in your entire state.

Act now — "later" may be too late!

TIME IS PRECIOUS! Act quickly (No salesman will call.) Get your enrollment form into the mail today—because once you suffer an accident or sickness, it's TOO LATE to buy protection at any cost. Act today — before anything unexpected happens.

The Presidential Life Insurance Company of America (Home Office: Chicago, Illinois) is licensed under the laws of your State and carries full legal reserves for the protection of all policyowners.

THESE 19 QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Tell you how the Presidential Plan gives you the protection you need—at amazingly low cost!

1. How much will my policy pay me when I go to the hospital?
The full amount! You are paid $100.00-A-WEEK cash every single week. And it starts the very first day you are in the hospital.

2. Will I be paid if I am hospitalized for less than a full week?
You certainly will . . . regardless of whether you are in the hospital for as short a time as one day . . . or as long a time as a week, month, year or more. Coverage begins when we receive your first premium—that is the day you are covered for any accidents. Sickness coverage begins 30 days after the effective date of the policy.

3. How much do I receive for a Registered Nurse at Home?
$100.00-A-WEEK for up to $5,000.00 after you have received hospital benefits for 3 days or more, and your doctor has you employ a full-time registered nurse within 5 days after you leave the hospital.

4. Are there any accidental death benefits?
Yes. $1,000.00 cash when death occurs within 90 days of an accident.

5. Will I be paid extra if I lose a limb or eyesight?
Yes. $1,000.00 for complete accidental loss of one hand or one foot or sight of one eye; $2,000.00 for loss of both hands or both feet or sight of both eyes . . . when dismemberment occurs within 90 days of the accident.

6. How much do we receive for pregnancies?
If you have the Family Plan With Maternity, you receive $100.00-A-WEEK for each pregnancy, childbirth or miscarriage that results in hospital confinement when both husband and wife are enrolled under this plan for the entire period of pregnancy.

7. Suppose I am paid benefits for any sickness or accident. What happens if I am again hospitalized for the same condition?
You still collect $100.00-A-WEEK for a total of 100 weeks. And if you have already resumed full normal activities for just 90 days, it's considered a new confinement, and you can collect for an additional 100 weeks.

8. How may I use these benefit payments?
You may use them in any way you wish.

9. May I apply if I am over 65?
Yes, you may. Folks any age are welcome to apply—there is no age limit!

10. Can I collect from the Presidential Plan even if I carry other insurance?
Yes . . . and in full!

11. Why do I need this Presidential Plan in addition to my other hospital and health insurance?
While hospital costs have tripled in recent years, very few people have tripled their insurance. The chances are one in seven that you will need money to take care of all your other expenses as well as your hospital bills.

12 . What benefits do my eligible, dependent children get?
If you choose a Family Type Plan, dependent eligible children, ages 3 months to under 19 years, receive 50% of all the cash benefits of the Plan (excluding Waiver of Premium).

13. May I add future dependent children to my policy after it is in force?
Yes, indeed, if you have the FAMILY PLAN WITH MATERNITY. Just notify us when they are 3 months old and they will be covered without evidence of insurability and without any additional charge.

14. Will my protection be cancelled because I have too many claims?
No, definitely not! Presidential guarantees never to cancel your protection because you have too many claims or because of advanced age. We also guarantee never to refuse to renew your policy unless the premium is not paid before the end of the 31-day grace period, or unless renewal is declined on all policies of this type in your entire state. (If deception is used in making application, the policy may be ineffective.)

15. What is not covered by this policy?
The only conditions not covered are those caused by: mental disorders; intoxicants and narcotics; expenses resulting from any sickness or injury you had before the policy Effective Date (during the first 2 years only); act of war; care in a Government hospital. EVERYTHING ELSE IS COVERED.

16. What are the requirements for membership in one of the Presidential Plans?
You must not have been refused any health, hospital or life insurance; and, to qualify during this enrollment period, you must enroll before midnight of the day in the coupon.

17. Can other members of my family take advantage of this special offer?
Yes, as long as they can meet the few requirements listed under Question 16.

18. How does the money-back guarantee work?
Examine your policy carefully in the privacy of your own home. If for any reason you are not completely satisfied, return it within 15 days and we will promptly refund your money. Meanwhile you will be fully protected while making your decision!

19. How do I join?
Fill out the brief enrollment form and mail it, with just 25¢ for the first month's protection for your entire family. Mail to: The Presidential Life Insurance Company, 11401 Roosevelt Blvd., Philadelphia, Pa. 19154.

"A doomed man cried out in agony—but we couldn't reach him"

Two miners, in surprisingly good condition, are brought out by rescue workers.

our home. We found some rubber belting and then some sheet metal to make a floor. It helped keep off the dampness, although it bruised our bones as we sat or lay on it.

The six of us crawled into the tent, wondering how long we would be there. We didn't know then that the water had flooded other points even higher than the one we perched on. Yet it stopped at the point where I had prayed.

"It'll be three or four days before we can expect any help," John Moore said. He began to take stock of our few supplies.

At the first cry of "Water," God told me—get your lunch bucket! I thought, I don't need it. It will only slow me down.

Now that lunch bucket would help to save the lives of six men. As we huddled in our tent, we had three lunch buckets among us. But one was too soaked to be salvaged. In my lunch bucket and the other, we found four small sandwiches, three candy bars, thermoses of milk, coffee, and some water. We ate a small portion of our meager food.

At that first rush of water, I feel certain most of the men thought, This is it—we've had it. Now we clung together, and I said, "It is in the hands of God. We are up against something men can't handle, and so it is up to Him."

We heard a noise we thought was one of the doomed men moaning and calling out in his last agony, but there was no way to reach him. There was nothing to do now but pray and wait. We spoke the Lord's Prayer together, but mostly we sat quietly, each with his own thoughts.

On the second day we shared another of the sandwiches and a candy bar. We sat in darkness most of the time to conserve our lights. The day passed by and then another. We knew it would take time for help to come. Still as we listened, we could hear no signs that it was on the way.

On approximately the fourth day we heard sounds of drilling. One of the men wept. Perhaps, as we sat there in the darkness, all the men wept. After a while, the drilling sound stopped. We ate the last of our food that day. After that glimmer of false hope, some of the men came close to giving up.

By the fifth day, food was gone and hope was going. We drew some of the mine water to drink; it was all we had now to keep alive on, and each time we drew it, we blessed it before we drank. We prayed over it as you would over food, thanking God for this nourishment for our bodies and asking His protection against the typhus and dysentery that might lurk in it. It came from an underground feeder stream, and, after settling, tasted fresh and clear.

Crouching in that damp, dark pit, I prayed to see the trees, to hear the birds, to see the grass grow again.

On Sunday, the sixth day of our entombment, we heard drilling again. Unknown to us, the 15 men in the other crew had been found and brought up to daylight. We had long been given up for dead, and they were just searching for our bodies.

We checked the water and found it had risen a couple of inches. But on the seventh day, the water began to recede, little by little. The rescue teams had put a pump in. The next day our tomb reverberated to three dynamite blasts. "They're trying to reach us," we told each other. We also heard from the hole that was drilled a shout of "Hello"! We shouted hello back but received no answer. I then vowed that the next "hello" I heard, I would answer with "Praise God."

We knew the miners' code: the search would go on until everyone had been found—dead or alive.

Enough water had been pumped out now so that we could reach the air course and try to crawl through it—perhaps to freedom. It was uphill, but when we reached the first swag, we saw that it was flooded. No good. The air in there was heavy with carbon monoxide, and we were gasping for breath as we crawled slowly back.

The water ebbed, but so did our strength. I looked at the men about me and pondered God's plan. Which of us would come out alive from this black grave? I felt that my work for God wasn't finished and that, somehow, He would deliver me. I prayed that He might deliver us all.

On the ninth day, John Moore and another man struck out to try to reach the phone. A little while later we heard an agonized cry—like somebody weeping. Two of the men got their lights and went to help.

When they got back, John gasped out what had happened. He crossed the conveyor belt to where the phone was supposed to be, but all had been washed away. He then made his way back to the belt, and, as he crossed the belt, he almost put his hand on the body of one of the dead men.

We prayed together and then, huddling close to keep each other warm, we pulled the brattice cloth over us and tried to sleep. I lay awake that night thinking of God.

"Our Father who art in heaven . . ." I prayed now from my underground coffin. ". . . Thy will be done . . .," I said.

Suddenly, there was a shout, "Helloooo down there!"

It was two in the morning of the tenth day. "Praise God!" I shouted back. I kept my vow. "Praise God!" "Praise God!"

It took only minutes after that for our rescuers to reach us, to raise the opening of our tent and stare in joy and amazement at us.

The six of us had had four sandwiches to keep us alive for 10 days, but we crawled out of that mine on our own power. It was 4 a.m. when all of us were out. Four of us joined hands and said a prayer.

"Thank you, God," I said. "We will always praise You because You have delivered us from a living death. We know it was You, Lord, who kept us alive and have delivered us."

Only then did I let them take me in an ambulance to the hospital. The doctors who examined us were amazed. "The six of them seemed in better shape than the other 15 who had been trapped half the time," stated one doctor.

"Larry Lynch was the only Christian who went down there," one of the miners said. "But six came out Christians. Larry gave us hope. He gave us faith."

If that is true, it is the work God meant for me to do. He delivered me so that I might testify to His miracles to all whom I can reach.

My grandfather was killed in the mines; my father has been a miner for 28 years and will keep going down into the bowels of the earth as long as he is able. By the time you read this, I, too, will have gone back into the mines. I know it is dangerous, but I am not afraid. I would be weak of faith if I thought that, having saved me once, God would not protect me again.

On his hospital bed, Larry is flanked by his wife Nina and father Emery.

That first night in the hospital I heard the wind rustling in the trees, the croaking of frogs. The next morning the song of a peeper greeted me. "Thank You, dear God," I whispered. "Thank You." ◆

You Can Be "Fat"— and Healthy!

A little bit of overweight doesn't hurt anyone, says this physician—in fact, it may be just what the doctor ordered

By EUGENE SCHEIMANN, M.D. with Paul G. Neimark

A PATHETIC young woman in a state of deep depression over what she called a "weight problem" phoned my office recently.

I have talked to thousands of such persons in my 40 years of medical practice, the great majority of them in the last 10 years. It is in that time that our great country has become so weight-conscious.

In her 30s and attractive, with a successful husband and three active children, Mrs. G. was what I call a "diet-sick" person. She had made her life and the lives of her family miserable because of a false idea she had about overweight.

She weighed 135 pounds (on a medium frame of five feet, five inches), but she thought she should weigh 115. To get her weight down, Mrs. G. often had half-starved herself on different diets.

When she was on one, almost every waking hour revolved around avoiding food and curbing her appetite. And when she went off the diet and satisfied her craving for food, she felt guilty and depressed.

She had finally become so distraught that when she came to me, she also was seeing a psychiatrist. Mrs. G. was plagued by a feeling of worthlessness because she was "fat" and didn't "have the will power" to become thin.

What I told Mrs. G., after giving her a thorough physical examination, shocked her. I simply said that she should not lose a single pound.

Why? Because Mrs. G., like millions of other Americans, was "pleasingly plump." And, though plump has become a dirty word nowadays, more and more doctors are concluding that a little bit of overweight can often be a good thing—in fact, it may not be overweight at all.

Dr. William Sheldon's classification of body "types"—the thin, nervous ectomorph, the muscular, active mesomorph, and the heavy, gregarious endomorph—has been talked about too much and applied too little. It has become a parlor game whereby we figure out a personality from physique.

But what we should have learned from Dr. Sheldon's categories is that many Americans are not meant to be slim. Nature designed them to be plump. If they try to conform to the models in the fashion magazines, they will be fighting a losing battle. And if by any chance they "win" the battle, they may find themselves much worse off than when they were heavy. They may be irritable from nearly constant hunger and have a lower resistance to disease.

Dr. C. W. Dupertuis of Cleveland's Western Reserve University has been studying body types for more than 30 years, and he feels that most women basically are endomorphs. For them, "obesity is a natural thing," says Dr. Dupertuis. His research has made him believe strongly that reducing can be a big mistake—and slenderness even worse.

But Mrs. G. and a great many others are not endomorphs. They are a combination of the three types. For them, too, there are assets in "overweight"—physical, mental, and sexual advantages.

First, food makes us happy and healthy. In our fast-paced, high-pressured society, sitting down to an enjoyable meal is a pleasure we should not underestimate. The human psyche needs pleasure. If we continually pass up food as a source of gratification, sooner or later we will find other sources—sources that do more harm than good.

Another important fact, of course, is that by eating a little more rather than a lot less, you improve your chances of getting all the nutritional elements you need. I personally have never seen a heavy patient with malnutrition, but I've seen many a dieter with deficiencies.

I'm not suggesting that you try to be fat. Like every doctor, I'm against obesity or gross overweight, since it carries definite health risks—heart disease, diabetes, atherosclerosis, for example. So if you are the kind of person who can eat three good meals a day with a couple of snacks in between and still stay slim, I say fine!

But I also say that you will be in the minority. The vast majority of us gain 10 or 20 pounds as the years pass. And, no matter what we have been brainwashed to think, those few extra pounds don't make us one bit less healthy.

I know that in my own practice and those of many physicians I have known over the years, mild overweight has not turned out to be a health hazard. But dieting often has —even a balanced, nutritious diet!

Why? Because by dieting you are trying to achieve an unnatural weight for your body type and life situation. You know that you won't be able to attain the weight you want and then stay there with normal eating. What you will do is what almost every dieter does: go up and down, up and down—often with a series of dangerous medications.

This is not healthy. I can assure you that such a roller-coaster ride year after year is much more wearing on your system than a moderate amount of overweight could possibly be. As Dr. Dupertuis states, "It changes the whole body chemistry."

Then, too, are you really more attractive as a slender man or woman? It has been my experience with patient after patient that sexual adjustment is much better among plump people than in their slim sisters and brothers.

I know that Mrs. G. and her husband were both much happier once I convinced her to do what healthy and attractive people from Winston Churchill to Elizabeth Taylor to Jack Nicklaus have done: be a little "overweight" and enjoy it.

What worked for them can work for you. ◆
